Siamese Twin Dies After Operation

CHICAGO (AP)—One of the Jaquet Siamese twins died Wednesday night, four days after birth. His brother was reported to be holding his own although still on the critical list.

Donald Jaquet died of complications caused by a congenital heart ailment and the absence of large intestine, said a spokesman at Children's Memorial Hospital.

The condition of the other twin, Ronald, reportedly had stabilized. A negative chest X ray erased earlier fears he had pneumonia, doctors said.

The mother, Mrs. Carol Jaquet, 21, of suburban Norridge, was reported in good condition in Evanston Hospital, where the twins were born Saturday.

Robots Will Help Teachers Teach, Educators Told

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Board of Education has found a new use for automation — it's going to help teachers teach.

The board has developed a multimillion-dollar computer system designed to reduce teachers' clerical loads and also provide within minutes the history of any of its 550,000 students for administrators and researchers.

School officials say the four-year-old project, known as Total Information Service, is the most advanced of its kind in the United States. It is scheduled to go into use by September 1965, but last week the board began extensive test programs at 20 schools.

The basic purpose of the system "is to be a clearing house for all information on the students," Stanley R. Patton, Data processing director for the school board, said Wednesday.

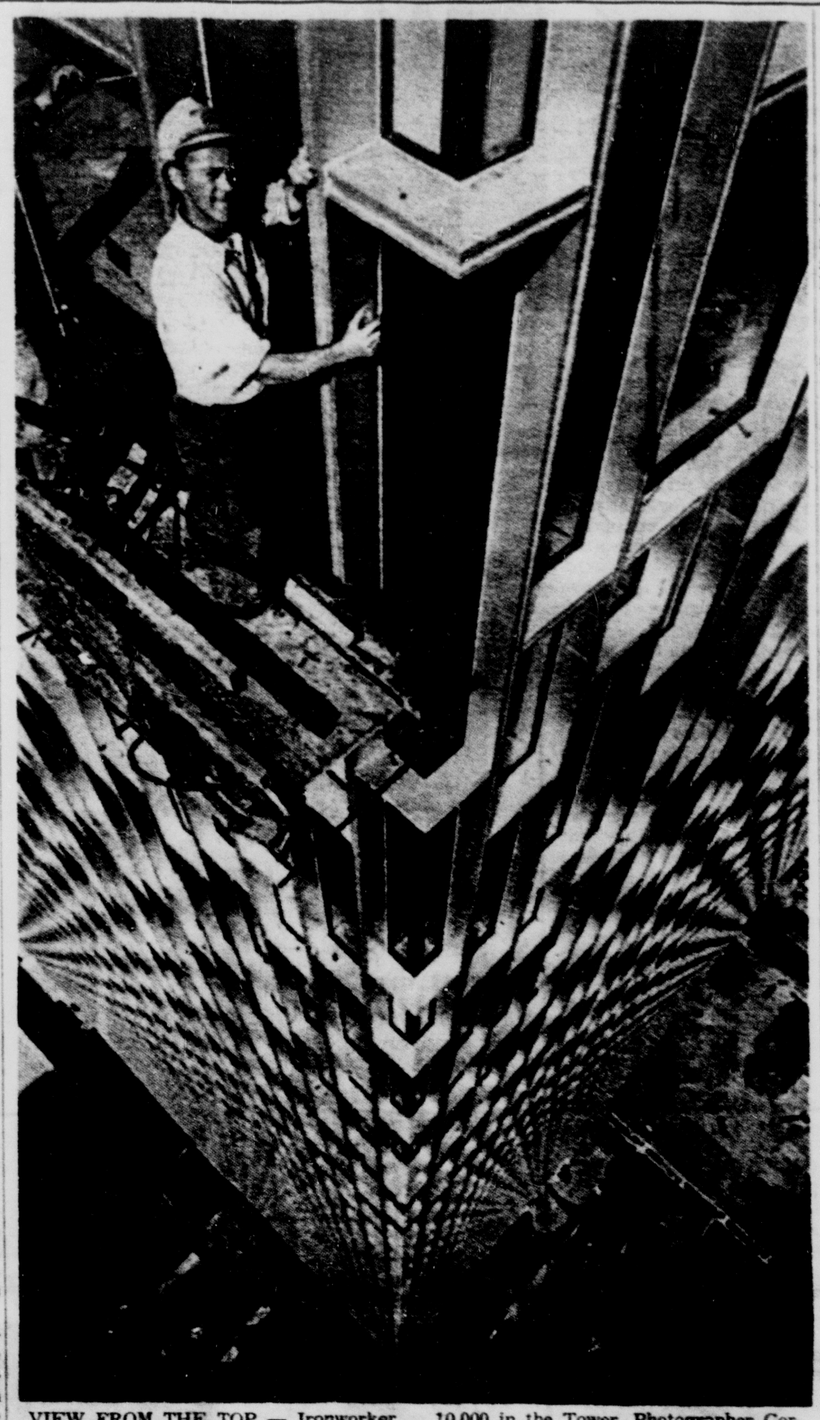

"But we have one overriding object," he said, "and that's to reduce the clerical work on the 25,000 teachers in the system."

"Year after year the clerical work has grown to the point that teachers have to spend more and more of their time on things other than teaching. We'll never get enough well-qualified teachers," Patton said, "so we'll have to utilize the ones we have."

The computer will be fed, among other things, information on pupils' biographies, classroom grades, test scores and discipline and health records.

Upon request, teachers would be able to get the complete

Railroad Strike Postponed for 60 Days by LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — The threat of a nationwide rail strike by firemen and enginemen was postponed for 60 days today as President Johnson created an emergency board to look into the labor dispute.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen had threatened a strike against many of the nation's major rail lines Friday morning in support of wage demands that include a proposed 25 per cent across - the - board increase.

Johnson's action in creating an emergency board automatically defers the strike threat for 60 days while the board, to be appointed later, studies the situation.

The President's action was recommended by the National Railway Mediation Board which said that the threatened strike "would interrupt interstate commerce to a degree such as to deprive much of the country of essential transportation service."

The board told Johnson the wage dispute had been "intensively mediated and that a proffer of arbitration was declined by the labor organization."

GM, Auto Union Enter Showdown Stage in Talks

By A. F. MAHAN

DETROIT (AP) — A guaranteed 40-hour workweek was a major demand of the United Auto Workers union as its new contract negotiations with General Motors Corp. entered the final, 24-hour showdown today.

Neither side forecast agreement before a union-imposed strike deadline of 10 a.m. Friday. Neither ruled it out.

Pessimism, however, outweighed optimism as the two sides met for down-to-the-wire negotiations.

Reuther disclosed Wednesday night that the union is asking General Motors to guarantee 40 hours pay for anyone called upon to report for a workweek.

He pointed out that the UAW had won a guarantee of 75 per cent of the normal straight-time wage for anyone called in for a workweek at Chrysler Corp. or Ford Motor Co., where the union has won new three-year contracts.

At Chrysler, the UAW gained earlier retirement and improvements in pensions and other fringe benefits. The union estimated the package worth 54 cents an hour over the next three years.

At Ford it added on top of these a Christmas bonus, possible in 1965 and ranging from $25 to $100.

"We want to give General Motors, the largest and richest corporation in the world, the opportunity of doing more," Reuther said with respect to the demand for 40 hours pay "where anyone is called in to work and not provided with a full week's work."

He said this would make "a la mode" what he describes as the cake won at Chrysler and "frosted" at Ford.

The 75 per cent of straight-time pay to which he referred at Ford and Chrysler was an increase from 65 per cent in the guaranteed pay for anyone laid off by the companies because of a scheduled short workweek.

The pay for an unscheduled short workweek, such as might be occasioned by a powerhouse exposition, was left at 50 per cent.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics figures that the average hourly straight-time pay for the auto industry as a whole is $3.01.

GM's final contract will have even more widespread effect than that of either Chrysler or Ford. Combined, the latter employ 204,000 UAW-represented workers. GM employs 354,000 in 129 plants in 71 cities.

General Motors has offered to match the Chrysler and Ford settlements, and, except for the 40-hour workweek pay demand, is reported virtually to have

Warren Turns Over Report To President

By STERLING F. GREEN

The commission members filed into the Cabinet Room at the White House and Warren handed Johnson the four-inch-thick volume.

Johnson appointed the special commission a week after Kennedy's slaying last November and told it to unearth the truth of the tragic event "as far as it can be discovered, and to report its findings and conclusions to him, to the American people and to the world."

States Rights Invaded, Says Court Candidate

The now famous U.S. Supreme Court decision on reapportionment was an invasion of states' rights and the rights of Congress, Ranger Rogers said here Wednesday night.

Rogers is a member of the Colorado Senate who now is running as GOP candidate for a 10-year term on the Colorado Supreme Court.

Rogers is running against Leonard Sutton, local attorney now completing his first full term as a Colorado justice.

The senator made his statement before the El Paso County Young Republicans, who held their September meeting in the Palmer House.

Rogers said, "The distinction is clear between the legislative and the judicial, although some lawyers apparently cannot see it."

He told the young GOP members that "You can tell the difference between a Republican and Democrat on constitutional problems."

He said that he was finding considerable interest in the judgeship races in the state this

Mahalia Jackson Seriously Ill; Heart Ailment

By SEYMOUR M. HERSH

CHICAGO (AP) — Famed singer Mahalia Jackson, who introduced gospel singing to millions across the world, is seriously ill with a heart ailment.

Miss Jackson, 50, was hospitalized Sept. 15 at Little Company of Mary Hospital with what doctors then described as exhaustion due to overwork. The Associated Press learned today that she since has been ordered to remain in bed for four to six weeks.

The hospital said visiting was restricted. No telephone calls are permitted.

Miss Jackson has canceled all scheduled appearances through October and has turned down a personal invitation from President Johnson for a White House dinner Oct. 6.

Doctors now say the 200-pound Miss Jackson, who returned in May from a triumphant overseas tour, is suffering from a heart ailment. They decline to

Raging Brushfire Moves Into Santa Barbara Area

By ROBERT COOKE

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—Frightened people scurried from their homes early today as fingers of flame from a raging brushfire moved into the outskirts of this besieged town.

Pushed by 40-mile-an-hour winds, one front on the fire line extended below the foothill road boundary and was moving into the city.

Observers said firemen were making a stand at each house threatened, but that the winds keep pushing the fire onward. Cement - delivery trucks have been pressed into service as water carriers.

U.S. Forest Service officials also reported that a second fire broke out early today in the nearby San Marcos Pass area. Equipment was being rushed to the scene.

By dawn, the blaze had charred more than 16,500 acres of valuable watershed, and no control was in sight.

Officials said as many as 5,000 persons have been forced to evacuate, some of them having to leave their homes twice as the flames died down, then rose again.

Witnesses said that at least 37 homes or other buildings have been destroyed, though the Forest Service could not confirm more than 24.

Contrary to earlier reports, the Mt. Calvary Monastery, an Episcopal retreat, was not destroyed. Witnesses said the fire surrounded the structure but passed on without doing much damage.

Two dormitories burned, however, at nearby Westmont College. The fire also swept into Montecito, where 20 more homes were reported burned.

Flames leaped hundreds of feet, reflecting off a towering loom of smoke. People saw the fire in Los Angeles, 98 miles southeast, and from ships 30 miles at sea.

Goldwater Says Estes Scandal Taints Johnson

By WALTER R. MEARS

"It is a study in the operations and attitudes of some of the top officials of government — many of whom are still with us," he said.

Goldwater turned to the Estes case in a speech prepared for delivery at Mason City, Iowa. He opened his campaign day in Wichita, and was due later at Madison, Wis., for a statehouse rally before moving on to Boston.

Taking aim on the Democrats' handling of farm problems, Goldwater declared: "When partisan political favoritism, or payoffs and bribery, become involved in any government program, the seeds of destruction have been planted.

"Incompetent or corrupt administration of a bad program can make it worse," he said.

"It is up to the President to expose wrongdoing in government," the senator added. "But the interim president, whose office dealt with Billie Sol, does not press for exposure.

"His power is used for different ends — and the White House has been turned into the whitewash house," he added.

Estes, the financial operator from Pecos, Tex., is free on bond pending appeal of state and federal convictions for fraud.

Goldwater fired a series of brief shots at Johnson on the Estes matter as he campaigned in Texas Tuesday and Wednesday.

He saved his point-by-point review of the case for the farm belt. Goldwater said Midwesterners may not be interested in the cotton program Estes manipulated — "but the dishonesty must concern us all."

Humphrey Says Barry's Remarks Bewildering Blur

By HARRY KELLY

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, campaigning along the sidewalks of New York, said today that Sen. Barry Goldwater "is giving us neither a choice nor an echo, but a baffling, bewildering blur."

"No man asking the American people to elect him as president," said Humphrey, "has the right to make cryptic, often ominous remarks and then leave the electorate to discover their meanings."

Humphrey was to team up with Robert F. Kennedy — running for the U.S. Senate from New York — in campaigning around New York City, but he may have to return to Washington later today.

The Senate is due to vote in its long battle over trying to delay court-ordered legislative reapportionment and the White House told Humphrey by telephone that his vote might be needed.

Humphrey whipped through Indiana Wednesday, speaking at rallies until he was hoarse, shaking hands with school children and singing the praises of President Johnson.

Today, in remarks prepared for the New York City Central Labor Council, Humphrey said he wanted to take some statements Goldwater has made and "ask him what they mean."

"Because Sen. Goldwater specializes in dark, obscure pronouncements," said Humphrey, "I can only begin the task of questioning today. The backlog of confusing utterances is considerable — and growing every day — but let us begin with a few of the choicer ambiguities."

Humphrey recalled Goldwater's interview in the German news magazine Der Spiegel June 30 in which Goldwater was asked whether as president he would be willing to go to the brink of war.

He quoted the Republican candidate for president as replying:

"Yes, just as your country — that is, Germany — has used brinkmanship down through the years and done so very, very successfully."

Humphrey charged that no one "with common sense" could

Miller Declares LBJ Shows Sign of 'Cracking'

By ROBERT T. GRAY

MEDFORD, Ore. (AP) — President Johnson showed signs of "cracking under political pressure" when he referred to Sen. Barry Goldwater as a "raving demagogue," GOP vice-presidential nominee William E. Miller said today.

Miller, on an extensive campaign swing through the West, questioned whether Johnson was up to the pressure of the responsibility for handling the issues of war or peace.

"Is this the kind of man we want to have his finger on the trigger of nuclear weapons?" Miller asked in a statement issued as he began another day of campaigning.

Johnson did not mention Goldwater, the Republican candidate for president, by name when he referred in a speech Tuesday night to a "raving demagogue" but there was general agreement that he had Goldwater in mind.

In suggesting that Johnson was too irresponsible to have control over nuclear weapons, Miller was turning on the Democrats the same argument they have used frequently against Goldwater.

Miller had no comment on a statement Wednesday by Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., that the national candidates were conducting a "low-level, schoolyard campaign." Mundt called for the elimination of invective from the political debate.

Miller's schedule today listed a breakfast rally here and a flight to California for two days of stumping in a state Miller has termed "a strategic battleground" in the 1964 presidential contest.

He traveled Wednesday from Idaho to Utah, and into Portland, Ore., where he addressed more than 600 Republicans at a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner.

Miller was introduced by Gov. Mark Hatfield, who had been

LBJ Insists on Khanh Rule in Viet Nam, General Says

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON —(Special) — Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, titular chief of staff, is doing some amazingly frank talking in private about President Johnson's latest backstage intervention in the international intrigue going on inside South Viet Nam.

He reported to French authorities in Saigon that President Johnson personally ordered the ruling military junta headed by Prime Minister Nguyen Khanh to keep control of that strife-torn country's government until "the U.S. election is out of the way."

According to "Big" Minh, the President coupled his ultimatum with a sharp warning that if any other group of military officers should take over the shaky government before Nov. 3 all U.S. military and economic aid would be cut off immediately.

This unpublished ultimatum was delivered to Generals Minh and Khanh by Ambassador Maxwell Taylor following his recent return from Washington where he conferred with top administration officials, including President Johnson.

In his private conversations with these French officials General Minh, who played a major role in the ouster and assassination of President Diem, pointed out that Johnson's message stresssed "keeping the lid on further government changes until after the election."

In answer to questions, "Big" Minh told his French contacts that the Johnson ultimatum was in the form of a letter and did not contain any U.S. plans or objectives for winning the war in South Viet Nam.

"Big" Minh complained bitterly to one French contact that President Johnson even directed that the South Vietnamese military leaders pose for a series of group photographs to give a public appearance of unity among them.

THE 'FIG LEAF' POLICY

Other South Viet Nam military leaders, who were briefed on the President's warning, interpreted the ultimatum to mean that it was the policy of the Johnson administration to support the French proposal for the neutralization of South Viet Nam — but not before the election.

One South Vietnamese military officer writes that worried American officials were directed by President Johnson to play an important behind-the-scenes role in foiling the attempted coup d'etat that threatened last week to overthrow Prime Minister Khanh.

He reported that Deputy Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson, whom the South Viet Nam mili-

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration has rejected an attempt by the Organization of African Unity to halt U.S. military assistance to the troubled Congo.

"We could not agree to discuss our aid to the Congo without the participation of the Congolese government at whose request our aid is given," State Department press officer Robert McCloskey said Wednesday.

Other sources reported that President Johnson's schedule is too crowded to permit a conference with representatives of the OAU, a 34-nation African group that has had U.S. support over the years in its efforts to stabilize the Congo.

This means the United States won't discuss its aid program with a five-nation OAU delegation that wants such aid — primarily communication and

Store Robbed of $300 by Man Armed With Rock

A 32 year old Ft. Carson man was being held for investigation of armed robbery.

Jack H. Granfield, an employe of the liquor store, told police a man came in at approximately 10 p.m. and asked for five bottles of liquor. Then he asked for a bottle that was on the top shelf behind the cash register, and when Granfield reached for it, the man hit him on the head with a heavy object, which was later identified as a rock.

Granfield said he then crawled away, while the man tried to get into the cash register. When he couldn't get it open, he began to beat on it with his fists, then told Granfield to open it. Granfield said he got up and went over to the register. At that time a car drove up to the front of the store. Granfield then opened the drawer, and while the man was rifling it, he ran to the front door and yelled at the two men to help him, he was being robbed.

The two new customers came up to the front door and the man at the register came to-

The council was established last month when El Pomar Foundation of Colorado Springs announced a grant of $100,000 to Colorado College to finance a long-range study of the social needs of the area.

The five-year-long program—the first independent analysis ever undertaken of the health, welfare, recreational, family and youth services in the Pikes Peak area — will operate under the guidance of Colorado College and the newly named board of directors.

African Delegates To Visit Washington

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — A delegation from the Organization of African Unity (OAU) will leave for Washington Thursday to discuss foreign military intervention in the Congo with President Johnson.

An OAU commission has been meeting in Nairobi in an effort to end the fighting in the Congo, where Communist-backed rebels have seized large portions of territory. It is headed by Premier Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya.

Kenyatta said delegates from Kenya, Ghana, Guinea, Nigeria and the United Arab Republic will visit Washington "in order to find ways and means of implementing its mandate."

Boyle Finds Cat Can Be Commander of Men

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK TAP) — Pets lead, people follow.

This is part of the story of our civilization which might be missed by historians.

The trouble with having an animal in the house is that over a period of time the presentment of the people and the ambition of the animal get rather intermingled.

That's the situation in the house where I put my heart.

We have a conflict there.

"You are a born leader, Harold," my mother used to say while patting me self-confidently on my back and turning to her more necessary knitting.

"Yes, yes, my son," she murmured consolingly but absentmindedly, "you're a natural commander of men."

Well, of course, as all mankind knows, there is a lot of truth in what she said. I am a born leader and a natural commander.

What has confused my gifts is that I have to deal with an acquired leader and an unusual commander.

Her name is Lady Dottie and she is a cat and she has been with us for a number of years.

She started as a small, furry, squirmy uncertain kitten. Then she moved insiduously into authority, as all feminine things do.

Recognizing the fact that I am a born leader, she used to rub against my leg in plaintive self-assurance. If a stranger entered our realm she would leap instantly on top of our tall, old-fashioned upright walnut desk.

Anything we set before her she humbly ate. And she grew and grew and grew.

As her size increased so did her self-confidence. Roughly now, Lady Dottie resembles an ambulant indoor whale.

Where she used to be abashed and retreating, she now intrudes into family conversations with a learned observation — "meow" —which has at least 12 different meanings.

She used to eat anything. Now when my wife, Frances, makes up her menu, Lady Dottie looks on with the air of a great lady wearing a lorgnette. If it isn't fish or chicken, she sniffs in disdain.

She has become a family oracle while remaining a singular and decisive individuality. She purrs on choice, never on demand.

Lady Dottie has become central to our life in many ways. She has rather taken us over. Friends who used to worry about our health now say, "Well, how is Lady Dottie."

I am not the jealous type, so this doesn't annoy me. However, I must confess that I was a bit dismayed the other evening when someone rang our doorbell and I instinctively leaped to the top of our desk.

What's the use of being a born leader if you find you are being led by a cat?

Soviet Warships Observe NATO Ship Maneuvers

LONDON (AP)Three Soviet warships appeared as unofficial escorts today for the screen of four U.S. destroyers operating around the U.S. aircraft carrier Independence in maneuvers in the Norwegian Sea.

Observers on the carrier reported to London that the Russians were now practically taking part in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization exercise.

There also was a flush of Soviet air activity. Three contacts from the carrier all at a distance of more than 100 miles led to interceptions by Crusader and Phantom jets from on board.

One Russian aircraft was reported to have flown over the carrier. This plane, identified as a Badget, circled four miles from the carrier until, escorted by U.S. fighters, it made off over the horizon.

Adm. Kleber S. Masterson, commanding the NATO striking fleet, said from his flagship that he welcomed the presence of the Russian ships and the close attention of the Soviet aircraft to get a close look at the fleet.

"They have the effect of keeping our people on their toes," he said.

The NATO maneuvers, which will last until Oct. 2, involve 170 ships, 160 aircraft and more than 30,000 men from seven nations not counting the Russians.

If it were harnessed, the Congo River system could increase Africa's power capacity 13 times.

Looking At Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

LIZ, RICHARD MAKE PACT TO INSURE 'TOGETHERNESS'

HOLLYWOOD—Liz and Richard Burton made a pact: unless they're working together, he won't take a job if she's busy and vice-versa. That way they can always be together. She'll knit while he does "The Spy Who Came in From the Cold" in England, and he'll twiddle his thumbs here while she's making "Virgina Wolff"; then they'll both rise and shine, they hope , in "The Taming of the Shrew" for an Italian company. After that, Burton does a play, which takes care of the next 18 months. A pal asked Liz if she cooked breakfast when she and Burton spent a couple of nights along in Marty Ransohoff's mountain hideaway at Big Sur. "No," she said. "He did." The menu? Fried spaghetti and coffee.

James Mason's 9-year - old son, Morgan, who's in "The Sandpiper," told a set-watcher. "I had a thrilling evening. As I walked out of the dining room, four girls — teenagers — asked for my autograph."

We'll have many green faces from sheer unadulterated jealousy when our stars get a look at Sophia Loren's magnificent villa in Italy in a national mag. It's the tops. And by golly she's earned it. That girl thrives on work and never stops. In November, she starts another picture "Lady L" in Paris with David Niven and Paul Newman.

At the moment, Jerry Lewis is out of action — ptomaine poisoning. When he recovers he'll play a neurosurgeon in a Ben Casey and direct as well. It's serious. No laughs — not even a grin.

Johnny Green is twirling in his sleep. He's directo - conductor for Cinderella, Rodgers and Hammerstein's hour-and-a-half TV spec. Lesley Warren, ingenue of "110 in the Shade," is Cindy with Walter Pidgeon, Ginger Rogers, Joe Van Fleet, Celeste Holm, and Barbara Ruick. Johnny shares emcee chores with Bob Hope at the dedication of our new music center. He's also doing the score for "The Land Bird"; and composing music for two of the United Nations TV projects. Stanley Baker flies in from London for one with George Sidney basked on a true story of World War II refugees.

Looks as though Liza Minnelli will get the Audrey Hepburn role in the musical version of "Roman Holiday" with Elliott Gould playing the Eddie Albert part.

The Beatles will become gunslingers for The Virginian if it can be worked into their schedule. Frank Price is willing to shoot it in England. Story's about four fellows who came to the United States in 1880 —dramatic, no singing.

Bonita Granville, associate producer on Lassie, couldn't resist going back to acting, so she's doing one with Lassie.

James Poe flew to England to see Tony Quinn. His wife doesn't know why. I suppose a new picture. Mrs. Poe and all of us are delighted that Walt Disney took time out of his busy life to make minute short to try and save the last of our green hills around the city.

Jack Bailey takes his Queen for a Day to Omaha for a week beginning Sept. 28. Since he began in 1945, he's crowned more than 5,000 queens; was the first to make the transition from radio to TV. Most popular wish by the contestants — a washing machine.

WHAT'S THEIR LINE?

NEW YORK (UPI) — What do Colonel Clean, Daniel Broom, Tom Tidy and Sweepy the Squirrel have in common?

All four have the same job, according to Keep America Beautiful, the national anti-litter organization. They are the official mascots of litter-prevention programs in Mississippi, Kentucky, Rhode Island and Maryland, respectively.

Civil Rights Suit Dismissal Being Sought

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—County officials and restaurant operators named in Justice Department civil rights suits are seeking dismissal of the actions in federal court.

The defendants filed a motion Wednesday with U.S. Dist. Judge Daniel H. Thomas asking also that oral arguments be heard in the case and that the hearings be held in Selma, Ala.

A hearing had been set for the case against the restaurant operators for Dec. 10-11 before a three-judge court.

The defendants cited a total of 98 objections in their petition. The five restaurant operators who were charged for refusal to serve Negroes contend that the Civil Rights Act which requires one person to serve another person against his will "is involuntary servitude under the 13th Amendment."

In the case against law enforcement officials, including Sheriff James C. Clark, Solicitor Blanchard McLeod and Circuit Judge James Hare, the Justice Department charged them with using their positions to maintain racial segregation in public facilities and accommodations.

The defendants hold they are "immune from federal court injunctive relief," because they are "judicial or constitutional officers of the State of Alabama charged with preserving law and order and maintaining the peace."

New Typhoon Slams Into Southern Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Typhoon Wilda with 100 mile winds slammed into Kagoshima, in southern Japan, late today. First reports said one Japanese was killed, two were missing and 14 were injured.

Weathermen said the typhoon was screaming across Miyazaki Prefecture in southern Kyushu and heading north-northwest, in the general direction of Shikoku, the smallest of Japan's four major islands, and the inland sea.

Kyodo News Service said five fishermen were reported missing off Oshima Island, which the typhoon lashed on its way to Japan.

Vaccination Drives Are Being Renewed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Renewed drives this fall and winter to vaccinate younger age groups against polio, with less emphasis on adults, were urged today by the Public Health Service.

Surgeon General Luther L. Terry made public recommendations by a special advisory committee on oral poliomyelitis vaccine and said the service was accepting them.

The committee concluded:

1. Primary emphasis should be given in all communities to the immunization of all infants during their first year of life.

2. The age groups to be immunized in mass programs and the vaccine chosen for use should be determined locally.

3. The oral vaccination of individuals over school age — about 18 years — should generally be recommended only in those situations in which unusual exposure to poliomyelitis might be anticipated, such as epidemics, entry into military service and travel to other countries.

NEWSMEN VISIT — A delegation of Pennsylvania newsmen watched the North American Air Defense Command in action Monday. The group numbering 27 represented a combined total of over ½ million readers arrived in the Pikes Peak area Sunday and departed for their homes early Tuesday morning. Monday morning they met with the staff of Gen. John K. Gerhart NORAD commander in chief. They were told of the aerospace threat facing the North American continent and of the measures being directed from NORAD to counter that threat. The climax of their visit here was a stop at the NORAD combat operations center where they met and talked with the COC director U.S. Air Force Brig. Gen. Lewis Stocking. Left to right: Gen. Stocking, James S. Lyon, executive vice president, Washington Pennsylvania Observer and Reporter, and G. Richard Dew, general manager of the Pennsylvania Publishers Association. (NORAD Photo)

Former Editor New President Of Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Charles Helou, 51-year-old former newspaper editor, Wednesday was inaugurated president of Lebanon. He told cheering members of parliament "the democratic system is essential for our country."

Helou succeeded retiring President Fuad Chehab. He was elected to a six-year term Aug. 18 by the Lebanese Parliament.

The new president is the son of a Beirut pharmacist. For several years he edited a French-language daily newspaper. He is a lawyer and served as Lebanon's first ambassador to the Vatican. He has had several cabinet posts, including those of foreign minister and minister of education.

"My faith in Lebanon equals my faith in God," Helou told deputies in his address. "This small country can be an example of the independent and peace - loving state acting in brotherhood with its Arab sisters."

The new president pledged a continuation of Chehab's foreign policy of keeping Lebanon independent within the framework of the 13-state Arab League and the United Nations.

Helou is expected to follow Chehab's official position of East-West neutrality while remaining anti - Communist and continuing strong cultural and economic ties with the West—especially France and the United States.

Lebanon, with a population of 1.8 million, is half-Chrisflan und half-Moslem. Custom reserves the presidency for the Maronite Catholics, the largest single sect. But Helou won election support from Moslems as well as Christians and other sects represented in Parliament.

WHILE CALMLY EATING

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Lt. Col. Paul E. Hoover found himself in a flying safety situation recently. It wasn't at the base where he is an Air National Guard jet wing commander, but in the midst of dinner at home.

The veteran pilot looked up to see a light plane with engine difficulty trying for an emergency landing in a nearby field. Realizing there was a ditch nearby, the colonel raced to the scene to be ready to help, but the civilian pilot landed safely.

Russia to Help Egypt to Create Industries

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union and the United Arab Republic announced plans Wednesday to spend more than $300 million transforming Egyptian desert into farmland und the Arab nation into an industrial power.

The announcement came in a joint communique, distributed by the official Soviet news agency, Tass, ending the Moscow visit of U.A.R. Premier Ali Sabry. It was issued after Sabry departed for Prague, Czechoslovakia.

The communique sketched the plans for spending the $280 million loan granted during Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's mission last May to Cairo and the leftover of a 1958 aid program.

The communique called for the money to be spent on irrigating and reclaiming the Libyan Delta Desert in Egypt. It also called for the Soviets to set up a metal and machinery tool industry in Egypt. It provides for industrial technical schools and for training of technicians in Moscow.

Western diplomats said the Egyptians have run into an emergency need for cash to pay for unexpected but vital side operations in building the dam. These were believed to include the relocation of more villages on the river.

States Rights Invaded, Says Court Candidate

year as he campaigned across Colorado. He listed these reasons for the interest:

— The great number of new judgeships that will go into effect next January as the new judicial reform bill is implemented.

— There is great concern about the foundation of the legislative and judicial branches of American government. "Some people wonder if some judges know the difference."

— The interest in constitutional law has increased because of the statements of Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona, the Republican candidate for the presidency.

— The concern of the public about personal safety because of the crime rate.

Referring to his qualifications to sit as an appelate judge (the Colorado Supreme Court is a court of appeals) Rogers pointed out that he grew up in a lawyer-teacher family. "I was brought up on the idea of a fair trial. I believe that, but I don't need to look at the bottom of the barrel to find a rusty nail to hang a decision on."

Rogers' father was dean of Colorado University Law School and also taught at Yale University.

Rogers, who is the only statewide statehouse candidate on the Republican ticket this year, said he had been campaigning with congressional candidates so far in the campaign, with the aim of working the less populated areas of the state early in the campaign, then concentrating on the more heavily populated areas in the last days.

"I met the poll last Sunday in LaPlata County," he said with a grin, referring to a public opinion poll reported in the Denver Post which showed him behind.

"I understand that 586 people were interviewed. According to the percentage, I was 15 people behind. My wife and I figured that a total of 160 people in each congressional district were interviewed. In the Fourth Congressional District, we figured that five voters in each county were interviewed, and that in Denver, one-third of a voter in each precinct was interviewed," he said.

Jokingly, he added, "I think the 15 voters I'm behind are in the Third Congressional District and so I'd like you people to do something about them."

Rogers said that he and his wife had counted bumper stickers as they drove around the state as their own poll, and that count had indicated a two-to-one victory for Republicans in the state.

"The momentum of two years ago must be kept," he said, referring to the GOP victory in the state in 1962 when the Republicans captured both houses of the state assembly, elected local Attorney John Love as governor, and elected a Republican senator.

"There is substantial Republican support in the state. The counties where we have weaknesses are that way because of local problems," Rogers said.

He said that El Paso County is one of the key counties in the state in his race and that he plans to campaign often here.

Wednesday night, Goldwater told a rally in Dallas that Johnson "and his curious crew live in a dream world" in dealing with communism.

"They have wishbones where they need a backbone," he told a wildly cheering crowd estimated at 15,000 and a television audience. "The result is a policy of weakness. The result is war — Johnson's war — in Viet Nam."

The Estes case charges Goldwater hurled at the Johnson administration were based largely on testimony presented to investigating senators more than two years ago.

"The real key to proper administration is the attitude of the very highest officials when they are faced with evidence of corruption, mismanagement or political favoritism," he said. He said Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman "faced that test when the Billie Sol Estes case broke — and he failed it."

Offer to Plead Guilty Turned Down in City Court

A defendant's offer to plead guilty to careless driving was turned down Wednesday in Municipal Court when Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac said the city would rather try him on the reckless driving charge.

Testimony by Patrolman Terry Hopt was that at about 4 a.m. on Aug. 24, Stephen Laveirge, 20, of 3118 Hudson St., was clocked driving 70 miles an hour on Circle Drive, that he changed lanes three times, and made a turn from the right lane across three traffic lanes to make a left turn into Hudson Street.

The officer also said Laveirge had a strong odor of alcohol about him when he finally stopped him.

Laveirge said he knew he was speeding in the 35-mile zone, and estimated he was driving between 60 and 62 miles an hour.

Judge Allan Asher found him guilty of reckless driving, imposed a $100 fine, and suspended his right to drive in the city for 30 days. If caught driving during that time, the judge told Laveirge he would face a jail term.

Samuel Reyes, 19, 414 S. Cascade Ave., was also found guilty of reckless driving on testimony by Sgt. Wayne Anderson although he was not in court when his case was called.

Anderson testified that at about 2:20 a.m. Aug. 20, he observed Reyes driving on Platte Avenue for some two blocks without lights, at a speed of between three and five miles an hour on the wrong side of the road. He said his attempts to pull Reyes over were ignored until the man's car struck the center parking on Hancock Avenue. He also said Reyes was under the influence of alcohol.

Reyes was fined $100 and suspended from driving for 30 days. A writ of execution was ordered issued immediately.

Michael Riley III, 21, a Ft. Carson patrolman, was found guilty of careless driving. Half of his $50 fine was suspended on condition he have no further violations this year and if he attends the traffic course Oct. 14 in the El Paso County Court House.

Patrolman Donald Bjornsrud testified that on Sept. 6 he observed two cars, a Corvette and a Ford, driving at high speed for two blocks on North Nevada Avenue. He estimated the Corvette's speed at between 60 and 70 miles, and said the driver of the Ford admitted to going 50 miles an hour.

When Judge Asher asked the officer why he didn't charge the two with drag racing, Bjornsrud said because he heard the Ford "grind for second gear and miss."

Riley maintained he was driving 20 to 25 miles an hour, and said he doubted his Corvette would go 70 miles an hour with its 300-horsepower engine.

"You've got the luck of the Irish," Judge Asher told him, in pointing out that he wasn't charged with drag racing, and handed down the guilty finding.

A speeding charge against Alvin Christensen, 66, 38 Elm Ave., was converted to a warning. Christensen testified that he had been driving since 1914 and had never been given a ticket for anything.

Shirley Coy, 50, 1208 E. San Miguel St., pleaded guilty to speeding. He was fined $15 with $10 suspended.

Willie Brown, 21, who listed his address at 425 E. St. Vrain St., and Robert Evans, 19, 630 E. Monument St., were found guilty of vagrancy charges. Each received $50 fines.

O. B. Pumphrey, 36, 314 E. Costilla St., pleaded guilty to riotous conduct and breach of peace charges filed against him by his wife. Judge Asher levied a $25 fine on the first charge but suspended it on condition there be no further charges of this nature against Pumphrey.

applaud German brinkmanship, which, he said, had been "disastrous for Germany and the other nations of the world" in two world wars.

Humphrey turned to another part of the Der Spiegel interview in which Goldwater was quoted as saying, "had not Germany in both wars been subject to the supreme command of men — or a man, in any case — who didn't understand war, I think Germany would have won both of them."

Humphrey said perhaps Goldwater was being respectful of his questioners' German sensitivities but, "what the sentence infers is that American and Allied commanders in both wars were inferior to their imperial and Nazi German counterparts, that Von Rundstedt was an abler commander than Dwight Eisenhower, that German troops were better led than American, British or French."

Humphrey also noted that on Sept. 9, Goldwater was reported to have said in Seattle in a reference to the aircraft industry, "You turned out aircraft which shot down a lot of enemies and you are going to do it again."

Humphrey asked, "Does Goldwater still believe in the inevitability of war? How can any man successfully work for peace if he is resigned to the inevitability of war?"

Said Humphrey: "We will wait with anticipation to learn the precise meaning of Goldwater's ideas; whether Goldwater believes that war is inevitable; whether Goldwater believes that imperial and Nazi Germany are examples to follow in the conduct of American foreign affairs and whether Goldwater believes that Social Security should be voluntary or private or just left alone."

Purse Reported Taken From Parked Car

A purse containing $45 was taken from a car parked on N. Nevada Ave. Wednesday, police reported.

Frances M. Fontes told police she was having car trouble at approximately 4:45 Wednesday, so she pulled over to the curb in the 500 block of N. Nevada. Mrs. Fontes, of Green Mountain Falls, told police she left the car unlocked and the windows down while she went for help. She said she got the car started when she returned, but that she didn't notice her purse was missing until she arrived at home.

Less Than Month Left For Voters to Register

By GLENN URBAN

Political Writer

You have less than a month in which to register to vote in the general election this fall.

The general election will be held Nov. 3, the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

The county registration books were opened after the primary election on Sept. 8 and will remain open until the close of the day on Oct. 14, according to Mrs. Harriet Beals, county clerk, and Mrs. Virginia Goodsell, elections clerk in Mrs. Beals' office.

Voters must register at the county clerk's office in the county office building, southwest across the corner of Tejon Street and Vermijo Avenue from the El Paso County Courthouse.

Registration hours this month are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., five days a week, Monday through Friday.

Beginning on Oct. 1 and continuing through Oct. 14, the registration desk will remain open until 9 p.m. every week day, and further will keep regular 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. business hours on the two Saturdays, Oct. 2 and 9, Mrs. Goodsell announced.

Both Mrs. Beal and Mrs. Goodsell pointed out today that if there is any doubt in your mind about being eligible to vote, to check with Mrs. Goodsell's section to learn how you stand.

She pointed out that 20,000 names were purged from the poll books after the last general election (1962).

Mrs. Beals said, "Many people think that because they voted in 1960 that they are still registered to vote now, even if they missed the 1962 election. But they are not."

Split Ticket Vote Will Not Hurt Voter

By GLENN URBAN
Gazette Telegraph
Political Writer

Nothing — that is the answer to the question being asked often these days.

The question is, "What will happen if I vote for a candidate from the other party?"

As one person put it, "I don't want to lose my registration. . . why I've been a registered voter in the party for all my life, and I don't want to change that."

What that elderly lady was referring to was the fact that she wanted to vote for the presidential candidate from the other party.

She was born and raised a member of one party, but doesn't want to vote for the party candidate — but someone had put a doubt in her mind. She was afraid if she didn't support the party candidate something might happen.

Since this seems headed toward being the "Year of the Switch" politically the answer to that lady's problem might as well be a guide for others.

Mrs. Harriet Beals, county clerk, and Mrs. Virginia Goodsell, elections clerk, pointed out these facts:

The voter does not have to declare a party affiliation to vote in the general election.

— The voter is alone in the voting booth; no one knows how the voter voted and the voter need not tell anyone.

— After the voter has left the booth, there is no way of telling how he voted.

— The poll clerks note on the poll book that the person voted, but no other marks are made.

— To switch or not to switch is the voter's own problem, and no one will ever know what the voter did.

Mrs. Goodsell explained, "often people come in to check on their registration and find they missed the most recent general election, while thinking they had participated. If people wait until election day to find out if they are registered, they will be surprised and disappointed," she said.

New Colorado residents, those who will not qualify to vote for the full ticket, must also register, it was explained.

New Colorado residents in this case are those who shall not have lived in the state one year by election day.

These new residents may vote for president and vice president under a new state law.

To cast their ballot, these residents must either use an absentee ballot, or vote with a voting machine during the period of Oct. 19 through Oct. 30, Mrs. Goodsell pointed out.

Mrs. Beals explained that these residents will not be allowed to vote on election day.

On the general election ballot this year in El Paso County will be these entries:

— The president and the vice president.

— Two members to the Board of Regents, Colorado University.

— District Attorney, Fourth Judicial District. No contest.

— District Judge, Fourth Judicial District, contest in Eastern Division, no contest in Western Division. You vote both districts.

— Two seats in the Colorado Senate. You vote only for one candidate, according to the Senatorial District in which you live.

—Five seats in the Colorado House of Representatives. You vote only for one candidate, according to the Representative District in which you live.

— Two county commissioners. You vote for two, regardless of which district you live in. First and Second district seats to be filled.

— Two judges of County Court. You vote for both seats. No contest.

Robots Will Help Teachers Teach, Educators Told

history of a new pupil and thus be aware of any special needs he or she might have. Educators and curriculum planners would have invaluable data at their fingertips.

"Suppose a researcher wanted to find out the average of sixthgrade students," Patton said. "With this computer we can give a complete environmental picture of the students, their schools, how big their classrooms are, who their teachers are, how much support they've been given with visual aid teaching methods, and so on.

"The purpose of the computer is to have a built-in answer to any question that could be asked."

Dr. Phillip Lewis, special projects director for the school board, said the computer is "going to get into a lot of areas that never have been touched."

The Total Information Service, he said, can even be used for guidance purposes.

The board now offers more than 50,000 teaching materials, "but how is a teacher going to find the one she needs?" Lewis asked.

The fire was the worst of five great blazes burning in California. Four others in the northern part of the state have burned 73,000 acres and 225 buildings, including farm structures.

A howling Santa Ana wind — the wind which blows to sea from California's desert interior — set the Santa Barbara blaze racing for the city with dramatic suddenness at dusk Wednesday.

At 7 p.m., U.S. Forest Service men thought the fire was moving into the Santa Ynez Valley over the mountain ridge inland of the city. It was the second time the fire had moved away from Santa Barbara. Winds were mild, the temperature 74.

Then the Santa Ana — the "devil wind" of Western lore — hit. In eight minutes the mercury was at 90 degrees, the wind 50 m.p.h.

At 7 p.m. the fire had burned 2,000 acres since it started early Tuesday afternoon. In two hours the acreage was doubled.

Sheriff James Webster warned residents to evacuate an area four miles wide by two miles deep — virtually the entire upper side of Montecito, a suburb noted for its heavy population of millionaires.

Two sets of evacuation centers were set up: one for people, one for horses. Some of the state's most valuable horses — typically the palomino breed — are stabled in the Santa Barbara foothills.

In the northern part of the state, fire officials were cautiously optimistic that they were winning battles against four big blazes.

The Northern California fires:

South of Eureka — Burning on both sides of the Mattole River; 10,000 acres burned, one farm building destroyed; 20 per cent contained.

Sonoma-Valley of the Moon — burning east into Napa County north of Sonoma, 10,800 acres burned, eight homes destroyed; 80 per cent contained.

Santa Rosa-Calistoga — North of Calistoga, 45,000 acres, more than 200 homes and other structures burned; 70 per cent contained.

Mt. George — Five miles east of Napa, 7,000 acres, no homes destroyed, 75 per cent controlled.

tary officers have nicknamed the "commissar," strongly voiced President Johnson's opposition to the two anti-Communist generals who led the troops that temporarily seized control of Saigon on Sept. 12-13 without firing a shot.

Ambassador Johnson, acting while Taylor was away, sent word of the White House's official condemnation in forthright terms to the two generals — Maj. Gen. Dyong Van Duc, whose fourth corps troops from the Delta occupied without opposition key points in the capital, and Brig. Gen. Lam Van Phat, who was fired from his key post as interior minister by Khanh as a result of pressure from Buddhist leaders.

THE FINAL CHAPTER

In directing the intervention that upset the Sept. 12-13 coup, President Johnson reportedly took the position that the Duc-Phat military rebellion, if not promptly smashed, would force his administration to abandon plans to set up a neutralist government in South Viet Nam after the U.S. election.

U.S. military intelligence reports clearly show that neither General Duc nor General Phat wanted any part of the Johnson plan since it was already attracting pro-Communists to the Khanh government. Instead, the two young generals favored winning a military victory over the Communist Viet Congs, charging that the neutralization of South Viet Nam would mean a Communist take-over.

These same intelligence estimates credit the blunt U.S. intervention as being the blow that stopped the Duc-Phat coup. One estimate says that many top South Vietnamese officers were in sympathy with the motives of the attempted coup, but stayed loyal to the government when they learned that their U.S. military supplies would be stopped.

At present, each South Vietnamese military commander has less than 20 days supplies on hand. Under these circumstances, a successful coup would have put these general in charge but would have left them unable to wage war against the Communist Viet Congs — for lack of U.S. arms.

Still being circulated among these military officers is the final plea of courageous General Duc, made just before he was relieved of his command. In it, he bluntly warned:

"During the last few months there were many things about the government's stand that made us fear for the country's survival, for instance the return of neutralist elements to the capital, the present of pro-Communist elements in the administration. We felt that if this situation continued it might bring disaster to the nation."

General Duc, looking wooden faced and gloomy, is now under arrest in South Viet Nam. Like Paul Revere, he sounded the warning. But few were listening.

Dr. Albert Burke, former professor of Geological Sciences at Yale, and now commentator on his own television program, will speak to the cadets at 9:10 a.m. in the Arnold Hall theater.

The public may attend.

Dr. Burke's appearance is in conjunction with Academy second year military history courses.

Miller Declares LBJ Shows Sign Of 'Cracking'

Introducing Miller, Hatfield said that "our party has room for disagreement. We don't demand that all people kow-tow to one leader."

In his speech, Miller renewed his pledge that a Republican national administration would adopt a more firm foreign policy and resolve various problems around the globe.

"The wall in Berlin is a monument to the strength of communism and to the vacillation and weakness of this administration" Miller said.

At a news conference Miller said that the recent departure of Grant Reynolds, a Negro attorney, from the Republican National Committee, should not be considered a sign that Republicans have written off the Negro vote.

Miller said he had brought Reynolds into the national committee office, and that the new party chairman, Dean Burch, had followed custom in bringing in his own top aides.

Expressway Bids to Be Called

Bids will be called for in about two weeks for completing the Manitou Springs to Cascade section of the east-west expressway, State Highway Engineer Walter Harris of Pueblo said Wednesday.

Harris spoke to city and county officials and the Chamber of Commerce Streets and Highways Committee on future road projects.

The stretch of four-lane highway between 30th Street and through Manitou Springs will be built after the Cascade to Manitou leg is completed.

Right - of - way purchases through Manitou are scheduled for fiscal 1965-66 and construction will start in late 1966, Harris said.

He said it would take two to three years to complete, noting: "That 2.7 miles is heavy work and will cost $1 million a mile."

The engineer said plans for Academy Boulevard call for an extension from the Air Force Academy to Security and eventually to Colo. Highway 115 south of Colorado Springs.

Other long range plans of the stage, Harris said, include a modified interchange at the B Street entrance to Ft. Carson where four fatalities have occurred in recent months.

County Commissioner Charles Smith listed the following priorities for highway construction in 1965 in El Paso County:

— Extension of Academy Boulevard into Security and connecting with the Ft. Carson B Street entrance.

— Extension of Circle Drive to connect with the Garden of the Gods Road, then south to the East-West Expressway.

— Continued improvement of Colo. Highway 83 near Black Forest to serve as an alternate route to U. S. 85-87 to handle traffic during Air Force Academy football games.

— A modern highway from Wildhorse to Limon east of Colorado Springs. This will be the 17th year the city, Chamber and county have sought this project.

— Continued improvement of U. S. 24 east of Colorado Springs.

It means the United States has sided with the Congolese government, whose leaders have denounced the effort to halt American assistance.

Announcement of the U.S. position came after Kenya's minister of state, Joseph Murumbi, had left for Washington. Other African nations represented on the mission are Ghana, Guinea, Nigeria and the United Arab Republic.

The five-nation delegation was drawn from a conciliation commission created two weeks ago by the OAU after a series of tribal rebellions had wrested about one-sixth of the Congo from government control.

Congo President Joseph Kasavubu told Diallo Telli of Guinea, secretary-general of the OAU, that the decision to send a delegation to Washington had "put in jeopardy" the independent status of the Congo.

Congo Prime Minister Moise Tshombe, in a message to Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya, chairman of the conciliation commission, complained that the action was contrary to the OAU charter.

The U.S. ambassador to the Congo, G. McMurtrie Godley, was instructed to confer with Tshombe, and William Attwood, U.S. ambassador to Kenya, relayed the U.S. position to the reconciliation committee.

That position, said McCloskey, is that if the government of the Congo is willing to participate in discussions of military aid, "U.S. representatives will be prepared to meet with representatives of the government of the Congo and of the OAU commission at a mutually agreed time and place and on the basis of a previously agreed agenda."

U.S. military assistance to the Congo is limited, McCloskey said, and was given "at the request of the sovereign government of the Congo to assist in maintaining law and order."

New Ford Line for 1965 Will Be Displayed at Phil Long Ford

The most changed Ford in the 15 - year history of the division will go on display Friday at Phil Long Ford, 117 S. Nevada Ave.

An ultra-modern six-cylinder engine rated at 150 horsepower—lighter, more powerful, smoother-running and more economical than any other six-cylinder engine previouly offered in the Ford line — heads a list of additional owner-benefits which include such items as the industry's first center -facing dual rear seats in 1965 Ford station wagons. Replacing the conventional third "jump seat" this new design affords seating for four children in the rear of the wagon.

All Ford models have been completely restyled. Five separate roof lines and different series ornamentation give new and more complete distinction between the models.

From the side, 1965 Fords feature straight - through lines emphasized by a sharp, full-length fender line from front to rear. The fender line carries forward of the headlamps, dramatizing Ford's long look. Two lightly sculptured character lines on the body side panels accentuate this appearance.

The rear of the 1965 Ford continues the luxury - car look with clean, simple lines. The traditional round Ford taillight becomes hexagonal for 1965 to carry out the rich styling motif.

Sharing features common to all 1965 Fords, the Ford Ranch Wagon, Ford Country Sedan and Ford Country Squire offer several new station wagon design ideas for 1965. All Ford wagons feature a unique rear window air deflector. Styled into the rear body pillar, the deflectors direct a curtain of air across the rear window surface to reduce accumulation of dust, water or snow.

The standard engine for all 1965 Ford cars except "XL" and "LTD" models is the new 240-cubic-inch six. Ford - developed lightweight, precision - casting techniques permit a weight reduction over the previous 223-Six, yet the new engine is rated at 150 horsepower compared with 138 horsepower for the earlier engine. The 240-Six is designed for quiet operation, economy durability through the use of hydraulic valve lifters, an automatic choke, and a seven - main - bearing support for the crankshaft. The Ford constant - mesh, 3 - speed manual transmission is standard with this new engine, with overdrive and Cruise - O -Matic optional.

The 289 - cubic - inch 2-venturi V-8, standard on "XL" and "LTD" models, has improved valve timing and intake manifold for 200 horsepower in 1965 while retaining characteristic operating economy.

The optional 352- and 390-cubic inch 4-venturi V-8 engines — rated at 250 and 300 horsepower respectively — feature new air cleaners designed for low - restriction air flow for increased over - all engine efficiency.

Ford's High - Performance 427-cubic-inch V-8 is continued for 1965 with a rating of 425 horsepower. Many detail changes in this famous engine — resulting from lessons learned in open competition — insure new levels of durability and continued outstanding performance.

Improved fuel economy and automatic chokes are featured on all five Ford engines choices for 1965. Four different transmissions and fiver rear - axle ratios in specified combinations complete a choice of performance - economy options designed to tailor a 1965 Ford to every customer's preferences.

The new Ford suspension — more than 10 years in development-combines a unit-structure steel body with a torque box frame and coil spring front and rear. In effect, the 1965 Ford body does not require frame support and is cradled in the frame rather than sitting on top of it. Road shocks are absorbed by the suspension and torque frame rather than being transmitted to the body and its occupants.

All 1965 Ford cars are equipped with a 42-ampere alternator charging system for more positive battery charging and to improve the over - all efficency.

Other standard - equipment features of all 1965 Fords include: Suspended accelerator pedal to improve foot comfort—especially for women wearing high heels; aluminized muffler for longer life; foot - operated parking brakes; metal-to-metal seat belts for front seats; foam padding on all front seats; crank - type vent windows; and electric windshield wipers with 16 - inch blades.

Ford's warranty for 24 months or 24,000 miles is continued for the 1965 Ford together with twice - a year or 6,000 - mile maintenace.

A new long - life, limited - slip differential is optionally available on all 1965 Fords except those equipped with the 427-cubic-inch engine. The unit is designed to transfer torque to the wheel with better traction for improved handling on slippery pavement and increased traction under all driving conditions.

A fold-down rear seat may be ordered in all 1965 Ford four - door sedans. This seat combines many of the advantages of a station wagon with the compactness and styling of the conventional four - door sedan.

A speed - control device is available on any 1965 Ford ordered with V-8 engine and Cruise - O-Matic transmission. The speed selected by the driver, is maintained automatically, regardless of terrain, permitting the driver to remove his foot from the accelerator. The unit is disengaged by touching the brake and the speed may be adjusted at any time by the control mounted on the instrument panel.

Other options include such comfort and convenience items as air conditioner; outside remote - control mirror; AM and AM-FM radio (with dual speakers standard on four-door hardtop models); reclining seat with headrest on Ford Galaxie 500-XL models; third seat heater for added interior comfort in station wagons; and retractable seat belts.

Copley Newspapers Endorse Goldwater

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — The eight Copley Los Angeles newspapers today editorially endorsed Republican nominee Barry Goldwater for president, saying they believe his principles of leadership offer a choice of freedom to the American people.

The Copley papers are the Glendale News-Press, the Burbank Review, the Culver City Star-News, the Monrovia News-Post, the Redodo South Bay Breeze, the San Pedro News-Pilot, the Alhambra Post-Advocate and the Venice Vanguard.

In the 1960 presidential election the Copley papers endorsed Richard M. Nixon. The papers have been traditionally Republican.

First Globe-Girdling Flight Is Remembered

The anniversary was marked Wednesday night at an Explorers Club dinner honoring the surviving five pioneer airmen — Air Force Col. Alva L. Harvey (ret.); former 2nd Lt. Henry A. Ogen; former Lt. John Harding Jr.; Air Force Brig. Gen. Erik H. Nelson, and Air Force Maj. Gen. Leigh Wade (ret.).

Donald W. Douglas Sr., who designed and built the four open-cockpit planes that made the historic trip, also was honored.

Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle (ret.), aviation pioneer and leader of the first bomb raid on Japan in World War II, received the Explorers Medal, the club's highest award.

BRUSSELS — Theives recently broke into a Belgian home and made off with a bottle of wine which is supposed to be over a hundred years old.

NEW FORD MUSTANG — This is a "fastback" Ford Mustang, which joins the hardtop and convertible Mustangs for 1965. The new Mustang provides seating for four, fold-down rear seats, functional air louvers styled into the rear roof and bucket seats. There is a floor-mounted shift for both manual and automatic transmissions, padded instrument panel and full wheel covers.

Mrs. Goldwater Gets Charm on Anniversary

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater's gift to his wife on their 30th wedding anniversary is a gold charm that recalls his winning the Republican presidential nomination and is inscribed: "To the woman who made this possible."

On the opposite side of the charm, about the size of a silver dollar, is the inscription "We want Barry, 1964 nomination." The charm is studded with diamonds, a ruby, a sapphire and an emerald.

Mrs. Goldwater gave her husband a bronze ash tray sculpted by Western artist Charles Russell.

STATE PREFERENCE

DALLAS (UPI)—A Texas insurance executive recently elected to head a national organization prefers state to federal supervision of his industry.

C. C. Yost of Dallas, new president of the National Association of Life Companies, said "it is much better to have 50 separate state insurance commissioners watching over the insurance companies and buyers of insurance than one federal office."

Yost said under the present system the industry has grown tremendously, with more life insurance sold in the 1950's than in the previous 50 years. He is senior vice president of Union Bankers Insurance Co. of Dallas.

State Is Cowed by Owner of Cows

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The state of Washington has been cowed into submission.

A year ago state earth-moving machines, building a freeway, dumped dirt on a cow path traversed by animals owned by John Nielsen of nearby Renton.

Nielsen hired Seattle attorney Joseph R. Matsen to unearth a defense. He did, explaining Wednesday that the state never had the right-of-way to the path it thought it did.

A settlement has been reached, Matsen said. The freeway will take another approach, bringing back bovine bliss.

VFW Auxiliary Members Attend District Session

Ladies' Auxiliary to Lt. Marion L. Willis Post 101, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was represented at the Department District 5 meeting held last Friday evening in Calhan.

Those attending, in addition to the auxiliary president, Mrs. Ethel Breeden, were Mrs. Willa Brown, senior vice president; Mrs. Ferne M. Price, treasurer; Mrs. Elma Robinson, district conductress; Mrs. Lulu Pankau, past district presidents, Mrs. Mildred Bagby and Pauline C. Hiddleson.

Mrs. Goldie Whitmore, a Past District President, was elected to the office of District Trustee; and Mrs. Hiddleson, District Treasurer.

Country Club Ladies to Award Golf Prizes

The top lady golfer of the Colorado Springs Country Club will be named and prizes for fall tournament winners will be awarded when the club's Ladies' Golf Association meets for its regular monthly luncheon at noon Tuesday, at the club.

The match play fall tournament has been held throughout the month of September. Medalist, flight and consolation winners and runners - up will receive prizes during the meeting. The ladies will order from the menu.

According to Mrs. Craig Ramsey, chairman of the group, a slate of officers for the 1965 golf season recommended by the nominating committee will be announced. The slate will be voted upon at October luncheon.

The golf association's by laws were recently amended to read, in effect, that ladies' days would continue throughout October rather than through just September. Therefore prizes for ringer tournament winners will be awarded at the October luncheon.

Play of the day Tuesday will be low gross (nine - hole competition). Hostesses will be Mrs. Thomas Hindman and Mrs. Joseph Fenton.

Coxtail Members Win Honors in Two Horse Shows

The Coxtail riding club split up its group the past weekend in order to support two shows. One group went to Boulder to the Green Meadow Riding Club horse show, while the other went to the Cavalier Riding Club horse show at Ft. Carson.

Both of the groups did well. The results of the Boulder show are as follows:

Junior Jumper: third Lanny Hill, Jenny Donald.

Green Hunter: first, Flasha Otto, Jan Karabin.

Walk and Lead: fourth, Barbie Hall, Gypsy.

In the Arabian horse show held at Penrose stadium the Coxtails gave an exhibition jumping class. This was won by Safesight ridden by Jenny Donald. Flasha Otto ridden by Jan Karabin was second, Rocky ridden by Renette Finley was third, Kevin O'Higgans ridden by Dainne Galt was fourth, and Harlequin IV ridden by Jill Nance was fifth.

As a whole the Coxtail members captured several Rocky Mountain Horse Show Association Championships for the year. In the junior division Jill Nance won the reserve championship in equitation 14 - 18 on Harlequin IV. Jenny Donald won the reserve championship in the equitation 13 and under on Safesight. Safesight also was third in the standing for junior jumper losing the reserve by a very slim margin. Flasha Otto ridden by Jan Karabin was third in the standings for the green hunter championships only a few points behind the reserve horse. Lanny Hill ridden by Mrs. Herb Goldstein won the open working hunter championship and the green jumper reserve championship.

Jenny Donald and Dianne Galt hope to take their two horses to New York in November to compete in Madison Square Garden in the ASPCA and AHSA Medal classes. Mrs. Herb Goldstein has Lanny Hill entered in the hunter classes at the American Royal in Kansas City in October.

Here's one way to remove mildew from bathroom shower curtains. Fill your automatic washer as usual with warm water. Put in about ¼ cup bleach. Mix well and add two tablespoons of your regular washing product. Place the shower curtains in this solution for 30 mintues, then turn on the washer and run two minutes. Take out the curtains, rinse, hang on a line and let the sun shine on them. The mildew will all be gone and the curtains will look like new.

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

I have acquired the reputation among my friends for being a mixologist.

An embarrassing moment came when I produced an olive jar with a white substance on top. It looked like a spoiled jar of preserves that mother used to make.

A friend advised me to place the olives in the refrigerator as usual, but to leave the top "off" the jar; all of which sounded like old-time witchcraft.

However, as I had nothing to lose, I tried it, and lo and behold in three days, a miracle!

Bottoms up! —Sidney Keate

As silly as this idea sounds, I was gullible enough to try it, as I had white scum on a bottle of olives, too.

It works!

It took five days for the white substance to disappear, but then, there may have been more of it in my jar of olives.

Don't forget to leave the top of the jar "off". Why this works I don't know. Do you? If so, write to me care of this paper.

Also, if anyone knows how to get rid of the "scum" on pickles, do not write to us. Once some types are open, they just "do".

And thanks, Sidney, for your fantastic hint.

We love you for it. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

For storing out - of - season clothing, a 20 gallon garbage can (new, of course) will serve the purpose.

Fold the clothing, and lay it in the can, add a few moth crystals in between the layers of clothing, put the lid on tightly, and no bug or moth can enter.

These cans can then be stored in a cupboard, basement, or attic, as they take up very little space. —Mary Jane Borgman

Dear Heloise:

I shellac all game boards (Scrabble, Checkers, Monopoly, etc.) before they are ever used.

I use a colorless shellac and stroke the first coat on with a very, very light touch. Too much shellac may cause smearing. I "let it dry thoroughly," then shellac again.

By using this method, it is so easy to wipe off crumbs, spills, etc . . . and the boards stay inviting so much longer.

Also, this is an A-1 way to protect cook book covers. Then they wipe clean so easily. —Paula Winkey

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

If you ever need an emergency screwdriver, try this . . .

Simply detach a garter from your girdle and use either end of the metal clasp. Works fine. —Mrs. G. Cox

Dear Heloise:

After three years of hanging onto the box our stainless steel flat ware came in, I finally found the perfect use for it . . . a tool box!

The slots for knives are perfect for screwdrivers and flat tools, while the hatches used for spoons and forks can hold wrenches, pliers, paintbrushes, etc. Room is still left for tacks, and a hammer and some nails.

Kept in a kitchen cabinet, the box looks attractive, and is so handy for odd jobs. —Judy Temple

Dear Heloise:

Since my husband and I are great believers in seat belts, we bought booster chairs for our two youngsters —the kind with thin metal legs — and we can now use regular adult seat belts for strapping each child and chair together.

This way, the children are sitting up high enough to look out the window, but still are secure. —Pat Altice

Dear Heloise :

When you take a bath, sit in the empty tub (with the stopper in the drain) put your feet under the faucet, and let the stream of water run over your toes until the tub is filled.

Oh, how wonderful for your feet! Almost like a whirlpool at the chirpodist's. —Mrs. Miles Rostowick

Faculty Wives Have Program, Tea at FAC

Nearly 200 Faculty Wives of School District 11 attended the membership tea in the music room at the Fine Arts Center Sunday.

A program was presented by Margaret Smith's string ensemble. Mrs. Smith is Instrumental Music teacher at Horace Mann High School and the ensemble consisted of some of her students. Trina Delaney, who is well known for her fine acting ability in local theater goers, did several dance numbers. Capt. Arnold Ballentine sang selections and Shiela Volkman accompanied herself on the auto harp, singing several numbers.

Mrs. Arthur Olson, wife of the new deputy superintendent of District 11, was introduced to the group by Mrs. Thomas Doherty. New faculty wives were also introduced by a representative from each school in the district.

Mrs. Charles Hall, program chairman, outlined the program for the coming year, telling a highlight of each month's meeting.

The October meeting will be held Oct. 12 in Palmer High School social room with Miss Inez Hunt giving a lecture on Marryin' and Buryin'.

Opening lead: Queen of ♣ South was fully cognizant of the danger involved in attempting to ruff out his clubs in today's four heart contract. He resolved his problems by engaging in a series of loser on loser plays.

West led the queen of clubs and, when he was permitted to hold the trick, he continued with the jack. East's king appeared on the second round and queen of diamonds was led to dummy's ace and a small diamond ruffed in the closed hand.

South now led a club covered by West but, instead of ruffing, declarer discarded a spade from dummy as a precautionary measure to avoid an overruff by East. West now shifted to a trump taken by South's eight, and he led his last club once more discarding a spade from the North hand.

West was in again with the ten of clubs and, since he could not lead another trump, he shifted to a spade. South won the trick with the ace and was now in position to ruff a spade with the nine of hearts. A diamond was trumped in the closed hand, and declarer ruffed his last spade with the queen of hearts. The ace and king of trumps took the last two tricks.

Declarer's precautions to avoid an overruff in clubs were duly rewarded when he succeeded in holding himself to the loss of three tricks—all in the club suit. East missed an opportunity to thwart his opponent, however. When South leads the fourth round of clubs and West is in, East should realize that his partner has no more trumps to lead. Therefore, in order to cut down the impending cross-ruff, East should trump West's trick to return a second heart. This will restrict South to one spade ruff and, in the end, he will be left with a spade loser for the setting trick.

TRAVELING SCHOLARS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A "traveling scholar plan" has gained good acceptance during its first year, says the new chairman of the Committee on Institutional Cooperation.

The chairman, Ohio State University vice president and dean of faculties Dr. John C. Weaver, said 41 graduate students took part. Several major Midwest universities are participating in the program, which allows a graduate student to go to another campus for a quarter or two to take advantage of a particularly good course or facility.

Meeting Calendar

FRIDAY

The Social Circle of Centennial Chapter 58, OES, will hold the annual dessert - card party at 1 p.m. at the Masonic Temple.

The Ellen T. Brinley Guild will meet at 2:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Albert Horn, 31 Broadmoor Ave.

Sunshine Rebekah Lodge 92 will meet at 7:45 p.m. in the Odd Fellows Hall.

Columbine Shrine 15 and the Sojourners will meet in regular session at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Masonic Temple in Manitou Springs.

The Catholic Alumnae Club will hold a social hour and dancing at 8 p.m. at the Hackney House, 900 E. Filmore St.

AAUW Tea Will Be Held at FAC Sunday

The annual acquaintance (tea) of the American Association of University Women will be held from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday at the Fine Arts Center. All women in the area eligible for membership are urged to attend.

UCW Schedules Friendship Coffee Tuesday

A city wide Friendship Coffee will be held at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, in room 203 of Rastall Center, Colorado College.

This coffee is sponsored by the Christian Social Relations committee of the United Church Women, headed by Mrs. Frank Argelander.

Plans are being made to divide the city into areas, so that area coffees can be held in the future involving more women who are interested in making friends of those of other racial and ethnic backgrounds.

There will be a nursery provided for those who wish to bring small children.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

She Leads a Dog's Life!

DEAR ABBY: Is there such a thing as a retarded poodle? We got this beautiful white miniature French poodle a year ago when it was only five weeks old, and it isn't any better trained today than the day we got it. It still wets all over. We can't seem to keep it off the furniture or to get it to let us know when it wants to go outside. Abby, I can't live like this any more. That dog has ruined every carpet in the house, all of the furniture and every bedspread. I told my husband I think we should give it away, but he says he would move into the garage with the dog before he gave it away. I like dogs, but this is ridiculous! What do you advise? —MRS. A.

DEAR MRS. A.: Ask your vet what's wrong with the poodle. If the vet says your dog is trained to the capacity of its intelligence, then by all means let your husband move into the garage with the poodle. They deserve each other.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think it is proper for a girl to wear shorts on a date? Most of my girl friends say they don't see anything wrong with it, but their mothers don't agree with them. My mother says she thinks it is okay on special occasions like an outdoor barbecue if it is a very hot night. I would like your opinion. —PATTI

DEAR PATTI: I agree with your mother. But it depends on the shorts. I have seen some short shorts that were not long enough to be worn in public.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, age 74, is a retired school teacher. Since his retirement he has had much time on his hands, and he uses it largely to carry on correspondence with numerous former pupils. Almost all of his correspondents are women. I have seen a few letters he has written to them. (He proudly shows them to me.) They are lengthy, flowery and full of affection. He literally BEGS them to write to him. I am not jealous, heaven knows, after 50 years with him, because he has never shown a romantic interest in other women. However, I would like to know why he feels the need to write these long and affectionate letters to women. And why he takes such pleasure in their replies. —LONG-SUFFERING WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I doubt if your husband cares whether his correspondents are women or men as long as he gets letters. It's not surprising that most of his letters are from women, however. They are far more faithful letter writers.

DEAR ABBY: Why does the mother of the bride always cry at her daughter's wedding? —WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Maybe it's because they've heard that girls tend to marry men just like their fathers.

Spain Renews Demand To Get Gibraltar Back

MADRID (AP) — Madrid's newspapers switched attention today from charges of U.S. responsibility for the pirate attack on a Sanish freighter off Cuba to Spain's demand before the United Nations for the return of Gibraltar by Britain.

Timed with the hearing now on before the U.N. Commission on Decolonization, the Catholic daily YA devoted its front page to photos of Gibraltar and its leading story to an account of Spain's claims.

YA called Gibraltar "an authentic colonial hinterland." The conservative-monarchist ABC warned that "to convert this territory into an autonomous enclave would be more than an offense to Spain."

The newspapers made no mention of anti-American demonstrations Wednesday night before the U.S. Embassy. More than 500 police ringed the embassy and kept a shouting crowd of about 200 young men moving

Whitewash Charged In Justice Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. George Meader, R-Mich., has accused Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., of the House Judiciary Committee of planning to whitewash the Justice Department instead of investigate it.

After the committee directed the investigation Tuesday over Celler's objection, the chairman issued a statement that the probe was intended only to air charges against the department by Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa.

Hoffa has accused the department of harassing him and spying on him during his trial last year on jury-tampering charges. He was convicted and the case is now on appeal.

Meader, noting that Celler plans to head the investigating committee of six Democrats and four Republicans, urged Celler to name another committee member as chairman.

Marriage Annulment of Heiress Uncontested

NEW YORK (AP) — Heiress Gambie Benedict Porumbeanu has a marriage annulment suit pending in State Supreme Court that is listed as "undefended."

She is expected to claim that her husband, Andre, a former chauffeur, is still legally married to his first wife, Helma.

Mrs. Porumbeanu, 23, and her Romanian-born husband, 39, were married in 1960 in a North Carolina hunting lodge, despite disapproval by her grandmother-guardian. Mrs. Porumbeanu is expected to seek the custody of their two children.

New York City Cracks Down in Narcotics Drive

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — A crackdown on narcotics users in this New York City suburb has resulted in the arrests of 10 more young men aged 17 to 23.

The arrests Wednesday night brought to 22 the number of persons seized in the drive, which began last month after city officials said narcotics addiction was spreading to sons and daughters of well-to-do families.

Police Chief William F. Polsen said the latest roundup was conducted by city police, Westchester County sheriff's deputies and federal narcotics agents.

The defendants were charged with various narcotics counts, burglary, assault and resisting arrest.

Polsen said the arrests solved a recent burglary of an animal hospital, where hypodermic needles were stolen. He also said some of the defendants stole auto parts to finance purchase of narcotics.

Daniel F. McMahon, public safety commissioner of this city of 200,000, announced last month that narcotics addiction was a growing problem among the youth of the city, especially in the better neighborhoods.

He said at that time that police had stemmed the narcotics traffic, "but we're left with a wake of addicts."

Indians Protested Being Ousted by Big Dam Project

By ROBERT COCHNAR

KINZUA, Pa. (NEA) — The man is big and tough. He has a big, tough job to do—building the Kinzua Dam. When finished, its backed-up waters will cover the native land of about 700 Seneca Indians.

Joseph Renouf is resident engineer for the Allegheny River Project of the Army Corps of Engineers. He has lived at the dam site in scraggly northwestern Pennsylvania since 1961 and has seen the great concrete and earthen structure take shape 180 feet above the river level. It is now nearly 80 per cent complete.

But the dam is only part of Renouf's giant responsibility. He is also overseeing the clearing of 10,000 acres of reservoir land. This means he must see that every tree, house, store, church, fence and utility pole is removed before the waters of the Allegheny back up behind the dam to form the reservoir.

The project will cost about $150 million. It is expected to save Americans at least twice that by curbing the restless waters of the flood - prone Allegheny

As an engineer and dam builder Renouf would prefer not to be involved in the human plight of the Senecas who inhabit the Allegany reservation in neighboring New York state. "I can't help what's happening to the Indians," he says. "I have a job to do and I've got to do it the best I can."

The dam and its reservoir, which the Indians call the "Lake of Perfidy," will also create one of the biggest tourist attractions in the east. More than 11 million people live within a 100-mile radius of the dam and they presumably will benefit from the fishing, hunting and scenic areas made possibly by the project.

Renouf says that, because of this, the dam is the "best thing that ever happened to the Allegheny Valley."

The Senecas to not quite agree with Renouf's evaluation because so many of them will have to be relocated on what they describe as "the worst area of the reservation." But they hope, nevertheless, to become part of the touirst attraction.

A greater part of the $15.5 million voted recently by a congressional committee as payment for the taking of 10,000 acres of Indian land is earmarked for "rehabilitation."

The Senecas hope they will be able to construct a Williamsburg-type "Indian village" for the benefit of tourists. They want to explain to visitors the traditions and customs of the Seneca nation. They hope this project will be profitable enough to erase much of the widespread unemployment among the Senecas.

The Indians also plan swimming, boating, fishing, hunting and recreation facilities on their reservation for tourists.

The Kinzua Dam, according to builder Renouf, will probably be the largest in the east and will cut the flood stage in Pittsburgh by at least two feet. Yet there are some people who think the dam and reservoir will not really do the job they are supposed to do.

Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, who was the first director of the Tennessee Valley Authority and a recognized expert on dam engineering, made a study for the Seneca nation several years ago. He devised an elaborate plan that would have diverted the water of the Allegheny into reservoir that would have been much larger than the one now ready to be filled. In addition, Morgan's reservoir would have diverted some Allegheny waters struction of a series of small dams and drainage canals.

The former TVA engineer and others also criticize the "pool levels" of the new reservoir. The land is being cleared to a height of 1,365 feet. But the summer "pool" of the reservoir will be 37 feet below that. This means that at the northern end, where the Senecas will live, much of the land will be nothing more than mud flats.

Nearly 170 years ago, the government of the United States entered into a solemn compact with the Seneca Indian nation. The United States promised, in return for the Indians' friendship, that these lands would forever belong to the Senecas.

The land is still there but it soon will be under many feet of water. The Senecas are still friendly but bewildered.

Brotzman Says Demos Fought Cut in Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Don Brotzman,—Colo., charged today that Democrats fought against dropping federal excise taxes as recently as last June.

President Johnson told the United Steelworkers Tuesday that he proposed to cut the taxes, which apply to such items as cosmetics, jewelry, watches and handbags.

Brotzman said, in a statement released in Denver, "The Democratic Party is welcome to the 'cut the excise tax club', but it's taken them a long time to see the light."

He said former President Harry S. Truman said in 1950 that the taxes were the most serious inequity in the nation's tax structure.

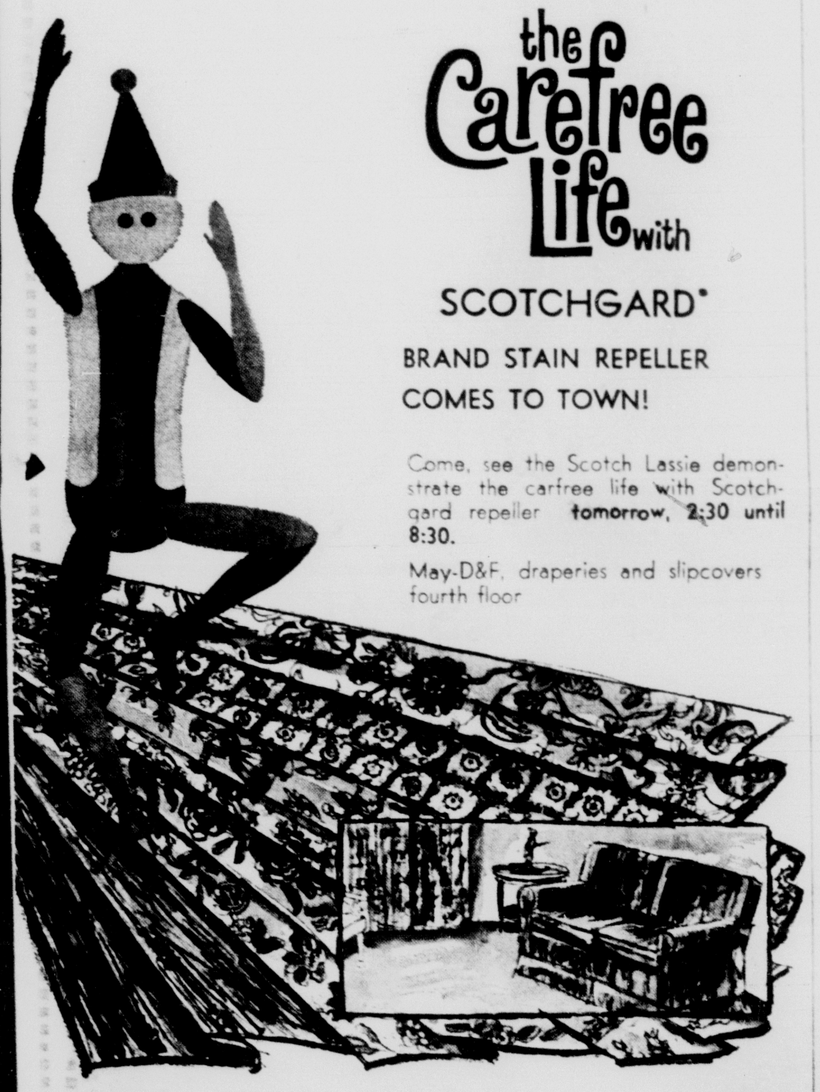

"Evidently the Democratic leadership never received the word from Missouri, because they have steadfastly refused to repeal them," Brotzman said.

The congressman said he supported a measure June 17 to reduce the taxes 5 per cent this year and repeal them next year. He said 207 congressmen voted against the measure and 206 of them were Democrats. The measure was defeated.

1912 Simplex Wins Tour Trophy in Glidden Event

W. P. Snyder of Sewickley, Pa., is the possessor of the Glidden Tour Trophy, presented by the American Automobile Assn., for the best pre-1914 car in the 19th renewal of the country's top competitive event for old-time automobiles.

The car that brought Snyder the most-cherished prize in antique motoring was a 1912 Simplex, which he drove in the five-day tour of the Denver area and the Pikes Peak Region.

The Glidden Trophy and other prizes were presented at the annual awards dinner in the Broadmoor International Center Wednesday night as the climatic event of the 1964 tour.

The 214 cars from 38 states and one from England wound up the tour Wednesday with a trip up Pikes Peak under perfect weather conditions. Tuesday was spent on a trip to Cripple Creek and the preceding day's tour was to the Royal Gorge. The tour arrived in the region Sunday from Denver after struggling through a blizzard in the Denver mountain parks.

The trophy for the best post-1914 car was awarded to Ken Brewer of Dallas, Tex., driving a 1929 Pierce Arrow. This trophy was presented by officers of the Mountain and Plains division of the Veteran Motor Car Club of America, sponsor of the 1964 tour.

Other awards were:

Best brass-age car trophy given by the Western Reserve Historical Society of Cleveland — 1909 Chalmers-Detroit roadster, owned by Thomas Lester, Chagrin Falls, Ohio.

Best car on Firestone tires — 1912 Packard roadster, owned by Ernest W. Gill, Cocheysville, Md.

Best Brighton class car (prior to Dec. 31, 1904), presented by Mr. and Mrs. Frances E. Davis — 1903 curved dash Oldsmobile, owned by Paul R. Andrews, Greensburg, Pa.

Car driven on most Glidden Tours — 1913 Velie, owned by James W. Ladd, Mt. Gretna, Pa. This was the 12th Glidden Tour for this car.

Best car entirely restored by owner — 1923 Rolls-Royce, owned by Lew H. Schaefer, Old Westbury, N. Y.

Best Silver Ghost Rolls-Royce — 1926 Rolls-Royce, owned by James G. Easton, Waterloo, Iowa.

Arthur G. Rippey, Denver, was chairman of the 1964 tour, the first held west of the Mississippi River since the event was revived in 1945. The only other Glidden Tour in Colorado was in 1909.

Frank Colton Jr., Colorado Springs, was in charge of the tour in the Pikes Peak Region, and members of the Pikes Peak Chapter of the veteran Motor Car Club were tour hosts, along with other chapters in the mountain and plains region.

City Manager Talks of Sales Tax at Meeting

City Manager John Biery made some remarks about the inventory tax Tuesday, following his talk to the Centennial Sertoma Club on the proposed city sales tax.

Biery said a city sales tax would help off-set the annual reductions in the assessed value on commercial and industrial inventory, equipment, furniture and fixtures.

Last year this value in El Paso County was assessed at $29 million, but by act of the state legislature that value this year is being reduced by about $2 million.

"Considering the feeling of the Chamber of Commerce and others on the inventory tax as an obstruction to industry coming to Colorado," he said, "it is quite possible that this tax may soon be entirely eliminated.

Biery has suggested that a city sales tax would make possible a badly needed capital improvements program and reduce the current city property tax mill levy.

Biery said reduction of the $29 million inventory tax in El Paso County would require an increase in the tax rate for city, county and school operation.

"A lowering of the tax on real estate by the city would help off-set this possible increase proposed by the county and schools," he said.

He added that the city is now providing many services to many institutions within its borders that are tax exempt.

The city manager acknowledged that employes of these institutions pay taxes, however, "the many churches and schools, the college, Ent Air Force Base, Union Printers Home and ITU School, American Legion, VFW, Masonic, Odd Fellows Lodge and the high rise apartment on East Kiowa Street pay no real estate tax."

He said all of these require city services such as fire protection, police surveillance, street cleaning and resurfacing, street lighting, traffic control, but pay nothing toward these services.

"If the city's mill levy was materially reduced and thus became a minor item of revenue, then these exempted properties would not affect the city's financial picture as they do now. The sales tax would be more equitable to the present taxpayer," he said.

If the city's mill levy is materially reduced, he continued, then industries now outside the cause of police and fire protection to annex, and thus again reduce the tax load on the homeowner.

"On the other hand," he added, "the trend in the United States toward more and more tax exempt institutions is increasing, and we can expect more in Colorado Springs."

"Thus, in the future of the tax base of assessed real estate value may decline or level off even though the growth of the city continues and cost of services multiply.

"The city should depend less and less on real estate taxes and more and more on sales tax and other miscellaneous revenues," he concluded.

Fearless Scorns Field In Bid for MM Honors

Tag Along Tramp better not, says Penny Taylor, 12, 1806 Alamo Ave., of her 20 - pound Cocker.

The Newbill youngsters of 2238 Drakestone Dr. are three of the latest dog owners to enter pooches in the MM. Michele, 14, is betting on Frisky to run faster this year. Frisky won the second preliminary race in the 1963 event. Sue, 12, will lead off with Chubby, and Bobby, 11, is going with Pixie. The first two are Terriers and the third is a Springer.

Sarah Barnhill, 14, 317 Fuller Rd., has also entered a Terrier who answers to the call of Inky. A second Inky, this one a Cocker - mix, is Randy Reynolds' hopeful. Randy is 8, and lives at 1331 Baylor Dr.

Paddy's tail is wagging to go for David Davis, 2222 Clarkson Dr., who calls his breed a Boxer-PLUS. David is hoping Paddy doesn't end up on the minus side of the ledger when the decisions are made.

An odds-on favorite to win the MM is Sam, a Lab weighing 75 pounds owned by 6-year old Steven S. Barron of 810 Mira Dr. Another Lab, Blondie, is entered by Susie Vidmar, 8, 2930 W. Pikes Peak Ave., but Susie lists this dog's weight at 40 pounds. Both dogs are 3 years old.

Gen Harwood has a Pal running for her — a Cocker Spaniel weighing 25 pounds. Gen is 12 and lives at 2226 W. Glen St.

Doxies are a popular favorite and Robert Lowry, 10, 1144 E. Madison St., has entered his 18-pounder Friskie who is 1½ years old. Poodles are still leading the field of favorites, and James B. Casey, 13, of the Air Force Academy, is betting on his Toby.

Ann Carbaugh, 12, also of the Academy, describes her entry as a "mongrel." The canine goes by the moniker of Peanut.

As of this morning, 79 dogs have been entered in the Mongrel Marathon which is being sponsored by the Gazette Telegraph and the Rocky Mountain Kennel Club.

* * *

All proceeds will go to the Youth Welfare Fund of the Pikes Peak Kiwanis Club, the members of which will be in charge of selling tickets and programs, and eatables such as popcorn, hot dogs, etc.

The deadline for entering the MM is Monday. If entries are brought to the GT newsroom, they must be in by 5 p.m. If mailed, the deadline is Monday at midnight.

Protest Group To Circulate Petitions Here

Petitions will be circulated and a group formed to protest the overgrowth of weeds, dandelions, clover and other plants on graves in Evergreen Cemetery, which is operated by the city, according to Mrs. Louise Huston, 126 W. Rio Grande Ave.

Mrs. Huston said businessmen and residents near the cemetery were unhappy over the condition of the graves in the section where the city has the responsibility for care.

A protest on types of planting at Evergreen was voiced at last Tuesday's City Council meeting.

The council passed an ordinance on the second reading to ban artificial flowers in city cemeteries. This brought additional protests from citizens who wanted to continue to place artificials on graves.

However Stuart Richter, director of City Parks and Recreation, said persons do not have to remove artifical grave decorations before Nov. 1.

Richter said there has been an ordinance on the books banning artificials between Nov. 1 and April 1.

So the new ordinance banning artificials for all seasons won't go into force until next April 1.

Richter said there are now many beautiful artificial and natural floral decorations in the two cemeteries.

Two Toy Poodles Take Denver Honors

Two toy poodles owned and shown by Mrs. Pat Walker, president of the Pikes Peak Poodle Club, took honors last weekend in shows in Denver.

The second poodle, a cream toy named Sillhou-Jette's Shortstop, took best of variety over two other specials and third in the toy group at the Sunday show.

Incorporation For Security To Be Discussed

Incorporation of the Widefield-Security area into a second class city will be discussed Friday at a public meeting.

Residents of the area are invited to the organization meeting between 7 and 9 p.m. in the all-purpose room of Widefield High School.

Purpose of the meeting will be to elect officers and a board of directors of a non - profit corporation called the Security-Widefield Planning Association, said Roy Adams, 131 Ithaca Dr., Widefield, spokesman for an informal committee which has been gathering information on the pros and cons of incorporation for months.

The nine directors, if elected by persons attending the meeting, would, with the association, have responsibility for all phases of planning, research and surveys relating to incorporation.

In corporation of the area with a present population of over 17,000 would make the two villages the thirteenth largest city in Colorado, according to the last U.S. Census figures.

"Initially the present tax structure would remain the same if we incorporated," Adams has said.

Presently, municipal services in the area are handled by the Security Fire Protection District, Security Water and Sanitation Districts, Security Park and Recreation District, all tax supported, and water and sewer services for Widefield by Widefield Homes Inc.

In promotional literature, Adams has said that "Incorporation could ultimate unite them under a single board."

Four Theft Cases Reported

Four cases of theft were reported to the sheriff's department Wednesday.

William A. Stokes, 1 Meadow Glen told Deputy Sheriff Bob Stone that a set of new seat covers worth $26.88 had been taken from his car together with six electrical adapters valued at $11.34.

The vehicle was parked on Academy Boulevard south of the entrance to the Air Force Academy Friday morning and when Stokes' wife went to get it Saturday she found the window had been forced causing $50 damage.

Ed Crowell of Ed's Frontier Station reported that several quarts of oil and some wheeler clamps worth $17 had been taken from the gas station on Arcturus Drive.

The third incident happened at a house belonging to Charles W. Orr at Palmer Lake. A set of dishes worth $100 and a $20 writing desk were stolen. Entry was made by forcing a window.

Stanley Sall of the Medallion Apartments reported the fourth case which took place at a house under construction at 26 Berthe Circle, Broadmoor. A Lasto sabre saw valued at $100 was stolen together with a $10 hand saw.

Vehicle Causes Planter Damage

Mrs. Joseph R. Gentile, 704 Main St., Security, reported to the sheriff's office Wednesday that someone had driven a vehicle into a brick flower planter bordering her property and caused $150 damage.

Deputy Sheriff Harry Orvis said it is unknown if it was an accident or vandalism.

Carson Static Display Open To Public

The static display of 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) equipment at Ft. Carson will be open to the public from noon until 5 p.m. on Friday.

The display will be held in front of the headquarters building as part of the September retirement ceremony, which is scheduled at the 4:25 p.m., retreat review in the same area.

Gen. John W. Gerhart, commander-in-chief, North American Air Defense Command, will be reviewing officer for the retreat and retirement ceremony.

The afternoon's activities will also honor visiting Air Force officers from Tactical Air Command bases in New Mexico.

All interested civilians, members of military families and visitors to the region are welcome to attend the display and ceremony. Drive south on Colo. 115 from Colorado Springs to the Carson main entrance then east on Nelson Blvd. toward the headquarters building.

Short Check Brings Suspended Sentence

Charles Boyer, 43, 858 Cimarron St. received a 60 days suspended on the understanding Jail from Justice of the Peace James F. Quine Wednesday for short check. The sentence was suspended on the understandin the defendant make $225 restitution.

Boyer was accused of writing a $20 short check Sept. 3 and giving it to the Seven-Eleven Food Store, 307 S. Hancock Ave. He was also ordered to pay $8.92 costs.

Maxine G. Forney, also charged with short check, received a 60 days suspended sentence in jail and was told to make restitution.

Mrs. Forney, 39, 708 E. Santa Fe St. was charged with issuing a $20 check Aug. 6 to Millers Super Markets. Costs of $7.80 were imposed.

Roy Burkeen, 35, 24 E. Cimarron St. was given a 30 days suspended sentence and $7 costs for assault and battery.

According to the charge filed against him he attacked Joe A. Leeper with his fists Aug. 30.

Burton's Hamlet Provides New Vehicle for Art Film

By JOHN FETLER
Arts Critic

They went to see Richard Burton, and got Shakespeare into the bargain — on film. The Chief theater is presenting Richard Burton's Hamlet in a new experiment in which 976 theaters are participating from New York to Los Angeles. All of the theaters plan only four presentations of the film. The first showing was Wednesday afternoon.

There should be little doubt that this version will re-start an old, interminable argument between the film people and the theatre people.

It is a bare-stage, modern-dress production, as at a "rehearsal" of the classic by Sir John Gielgud, as performed in New York last summer.

Press reports say reaction to the film recording of the stage production ranges from some complaints about the mechanics of the new process, to raves for Burton's performance.

If the camera, for instance, had taken in the entire stage—as the theatre-goer would see it, all through the play, the result would probably have been insufferable, for we would see only a vast expanse of the screen and tiny marionettes strutting in the distance, declaiming their lines.

As it is, Burton's Hamlet is followed, as it were, by the "candid" cameras, in a theatre, roam the stage, taking in larger scenes it is true, but depending for emotional power on closeups and panning, following the characters, being attentive to their speeches (and glorious speeches they are) and using all the other standard techniques of the art of the film.

Burton's Hamlet, therefore, in the form it was shown at the Chief, and at many other movie theaters in the country, is not really a stage play — much as stage-struck afficionados may have wished it — but an art film. And as such it is a quite powerful one at that.

Just about the only things that are lacking is a little more background music (although in some modern Italian, French and Swedish films this, too, is often dispensed with) and just a little more (not much) proper costuming; as it was, even the "casual clothing" which the actors wore "as to a rehearsal" very often had the rough, course, affinity to the atmosphere of the play itself, in the rough north country of Denmark at whatever time Hamlet's story is supposed to have been played out to its bitter end.

The curious thing is that even the setting of a fairly bare stage, with just a few props and elevations, was not at all out of joint, but rather a bleak kind of castle, quite a proper

Knob Hill Club Will Receive Charter Friday

The Knob Hill Optomist Club will receive its charter Friday night at a banquet in the Dublin House. Principal speaker will be Colorado State Sen. Ranger Rogers who is a Republican candidate for the Colorado Supreme Court.

Sen. Rogers will speak on the subject "Good Old American Optimism." Rogers served as Colorado's assistant attorney general before World War II, and after four years of military duty, he then became special assistant attorney general preparing new Colorado insurance administration laws that were ultimately enacted.

In 1952, Rogers was elected senator for Arapahoe and Elbert counties. He was minority floor leader from 1959 until 1962 when he became majority floor leader.

Fred Hammill, governor of the Colorado-Wyoming district of Optimist International, will present the charter to the new club which has been sponsored by the Breakfast Optimist Club of Colorado Springs.

Mayor Harry Hoth will welcome the club to the community. Representing the military will be Brig. Gen. Thomas R. Ford, deputy chief of staff for materiel, Air Defense Command. D. F. Hopwood, vice president of Optimist International, will install the officers, and Carleton Finney will be toastmaster.

Wallace Lundquist is president of the club.

County Doctors Urge Ambulances To Slow Down

Speeding through traffic and stop lights by ambulances was ruled unnecessary by local physicians at a recent meeting of the El Paso County Medical Society.

Dr. Clyde Blake said that speeding through traffic with a sick or injured patient creates hazards and does not benefit the majority of patients.

The red light and siren help the emergency vehicle through traffic, but speed limits and all traffic laws should be obeyed, said Dr. Gordon S. Riegel. Many other communities, including Denver, have adopted this policy.

Dr. Riegel's motion that the ambulance company be informed of the Society's stand was approved without opposition, and a letter was mailed this week to the E and E Ambulance Service. The letter ended: "This is meant as a constructive suggestion and certainly not as a criticism or complaint."

Charges Filed Against Two in District Court

Criminal charges were filed in District Court Wednesday against two defendants.

James Edward Hooper, 18, 2941 Marion Dr. was charged with burglary and larceny. Bond was set at $2,500 by Judge William M. Calvert.

The defendant is accused of breaking into the Circle Drive Liquor Store, 1820 N. Circle Dr. and stealing 31 quarts of liquor worth a total of $111 Sept. 4.

The second defendant, Lee C. Smith, 24, Ft. Carson was accused of larceny of mortgaged property.

According to the information filed against him he sold a $110 woman's diamond ring July 7 while he was the mortgager. The ring belonged to Zale's Jewelry Inc. 28 N. Tejon St.

By MILTON MARMOR

LONDON (AP) — Danish nuclear physicist Niels Bohr tried to get Prime Minister Winston Churchill to tell the Russians about the atom bomb in 1944, and Churchill considered having him confined.

This is told by Margaret Gowing in a book, "Britain and Atomic Energy, 1935-45," published today. It is the first installment of the official history of the United Kingdom atomic energy project.

Mrs. Gowing, the archivist and historian of the atomic energy authority, writes that Bohr, one of the key figures in the history of nuclear physics, became convinced that the Russians should be told what was going on in the world of the atomic bomb so they could be brought into a system of international control.

In 1944 he saw Churchill. The book says Sir Winston retained "a very disagreeable memory of the interview."

Bohr said they "did not speak the same language."

Churchill put his doubts to Lord Cherwell, his scientific adviser.

"Professor Bohr is in close correspondence with a Russian professor, an old friend of his in Russia. It seems to me, Bohr ought to be confined or at any rate made to see he is very near the edge of mortal crimes," the book quotes Churchill as saying.

Cherwell and other scientists came to Bohr's defense, saying he had done nothing improper and his letters had been agreed upon by British intelligence. The matter was dropped.

Bohr died in 1962 at the age of 77. He had escaped from Nazi-occupied Denmark to England in October 1943.

Mrs. Gowing also says that the British government was the first government in the world to be told by scientists that an atomic bomb was possible.

She reports: In the spring of 1940 two refugee scientists, Prof. Otto Frisch, now at Cambridge; and Prof. Rudolf Peierls, now at Oxford, drew up a memorandum at Birmingham University that an atom bomb was feasible and indicated how it could be built. Frisch then was 35 and Peierls was 32.

Out of the memorandum came the government's Maud Committee, headed by Sir James Thomson, which in 1940-41 did extensive research into the problems of construction of the bomb.

Mrs. Gowing writes: "Without the work of the Maud Committee, the clarity of its analysis, its synthesis of theory and practical programming, its tone of urgency, the second world war might well have ended before an atomic bomb was dropped. Certainly the world would have been different."

The Maud Committee got its name as the result of an amusing misunderstanding, Mrs. Gowing relates.

Bohr had sent Frisch a cable from Denmark ending tell Sir John Cockcroft, the British physicist, and "Maud Ray Kent."

"Maud Ray Kent" was thought to be either a garbled message or a secret one. After Bohr reached England, it was learned that Maud Ray, living in Kent, had been a governess for Bohr's children.

Japan Declares It Will Remain On Side of U.S.

TOKYO (AP) — Foreign Minister Esasaburo Shiina said today his government "is determined to eliminate all attempts to separate Japan and the United States."

Shiina made the statement at a luncheon given in his honor by the Japan-American Society.

He said "the friendship and cooperation Japan has consistently maintained with the United States as the basis of its foreign policy is indisputably the most noteworthy factor" behind Japan's postwar recovery and progress.

Shiina added that relations between Japan and the United States involve some problems.

"Of the ties that bind Japan and the United States," he said, "the most important is the mutual cooperation and security treaty."

Shiina said "the realities of the world do not permit us to entertain either neutralism based on unreal and one-sided hopes, or on a defense system without sufficient strength to guarantee Japan's security," Shiina said.

"With the development of U.S.-Japan economic relations, some of Japan's products have come to provide competition to U.S. products. Therefore our two countries have difficult issues to discuss and settle in such areas as textile goods or interest equalization tax," he said.

Soviets Tried to Make Atom Deal With China

By K.C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) — New evidence reaching the West has indicated that Russia demanded but was refused far-reaching controls over Red China as the price for supplying Peking with the atom bomb.

It was the nuclear issue which primarily set off the Sino-Soviet conflict. The ideological feud was at least in part window dressing.

On Oct. 15, 1957, Russia undertook to supply Communist China with a sample atom bomb and technical data for its production.

On June 20, 1959, Moscow, according to Peking, tore up the agreement and stopped all nuclear assistance.

What happened between these two dates is now known to have been a tenacious struggle between the two Red allies, with Moscow seeking to gain control over Peking's military and foreign policies.

This was the price the Kremlin had asked for helping Red China along the nuclear weapons path. But Mao Tze Tung's regime refused to submit to Soviet controls.

Russia consequently abrogated the 1957 agreement, stopped nuclear scientific intelligence and withdrew her experts. The Moscow-Peking axis cracked.

Red China's insistence on nuclear power status was prompted by the belief that the possession of the atom bomb would go a long way towards raising Peking's prestige and strengthening her position in her dispute with the United States over Formosa.

Peking also appeared to have calculated that nuclear capability would help it toward whittling down U.S. influence in Southeast Asia while raising that of Red China.

Nevertheless, Red China was unprepared to mortgage her political freedom to Moscow in return for nuclear knowhow.

The Russians apparently also asked for bases in China and a joint naval command in the Pacific as part of the price for supplying the atom bomb.

It was at this stage, according to the latest available information, that Peking decided to break with Russia and to go it alone, despite the inevitable hard-ships for Chinese industry and development.

President Meets With Foreign Policy Experts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson met Wednesday with 13 of his new foreign policy advisers and said they symbolize "the tradition of nonpartisan service on matters of war and peace."

Johnson gave the name Peace Panel to the group, which has 16 members in all. He named it earlier this month to advise the Pentagon, State Department and White House on foreign policy and defense matters. At that time he said members would be available to give individual advice but would not function as a group.

Panel members include former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, former Secretary of Defense Robert Lovett, Gen. Omar N. Bradley and form Director Allen W. Dulles of the Central Intelligence Agency.

"You gentlemen symbolize the tradition which goes back for a quarter of a century — the tradition of nonpartisan service on matters of war and peace," Johnson said.

"I see Democrats who have served in Republican administrations, Republicans who have served with Democratic administrations and a number of men who have held office under both parties."

The President added that "party affiliations really don't matter very much compared to the common concern and the great operating principles of our American foreign policy."

LIMB CAME AND WENT

Risley investigated during a hard rain but couldn't assess damage because of the leafy boughs.

A half-hour later, when rain subsided, Risley went out to check on his car and found that the storm had carried the limb off to parts unknown.

UTERINE FIBROIDS (MYOMAS

Is it possible for a pregnant woman with a fibroid of the uterus to have a normal delivery? The answer is yes, depending upon the size and location of the tumor. These lesions (myomas) often decrease fertility and increase the chance of premature delivery.

On the other hand, they do not interfere with labor or delivery of the baby unless a large growth near the opening of the uterus is obstructing the passageway. In such instances, caesarean section is required.

Fibroids are benign growths made up of uterine muscle tissue. At least 20 per cent of women over 35 years of age have one or more, frequently without symptoms or knowledge of their existence. They may be tiny or large enough to fill the abdominal cavity. Some are round, others are oblong or knobbed. They may protrude into the cavity of the uterus, whereas those near the surface bulge outward, giving the organ a nodular appearance.

Fibroids become bigger gradually; it may take five years to grow from the size of an olive to that of an orange. The first warning is likely to be a change in the menstrual pattern; the period becomes prolonged and the flow profuse. Pain seldom occurs unless these tumors press on nearby structures.

A pelvic examination is needed to make the diagnosis. Many physicians also recommend a D & C to determine whether symptoms are due to cancer or other disorders.

Removal of the uterus is suggested, especially when the woman has had her family or is approacing the menopause. Only the fibroids are carefully dissected away from the uterine wall when the victim is young and willing to take her chances on getting pregnant and carrying the child to full term.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelopes accompany request.

CLOSED STOMACH

J. H. W. writes: What can you tell me about a valve that closes, which prevents entry of food to the stomach?

REPLY

Thickening, or spasm, of the cardia (entrance to tthe stomach) is a troublesome condition. There is no difficulty in swallowing except that the food sticks in the lower part of the esophagus. The victim often learns that drinking liquid will help solids to pass through the narrowed opening. But in time liquids become just as difficult to swallow as solids. Emotional tension and stress usually aggravate cardiospasm. When sedatives fail to control the disorder, a mechanical dilator must be passed.

UMBILICAL HERNIA

Mrs. J. writes: A 1-year-old boy has a protruding navel caused by hernia. Can this be cured without an operation?

REPLY

Umbilical hernias in children usually heal by the second birthday. If they are large and do not heal within 6 to 9 months of continuous strapping, surgery may be indicated.

BROMHIDROSIS

A. M. writes: Is it normal for the perspiration of an 8-year-old girl to have an odor?

REPLY

It is unusual unless the girl is approaching puberty and the apocrine glands are becoming active. Cleanliness goes a long way because most of the odor is due to bacteria on the moist skin.

ADHESIONS AFTER SURGERY

F. M. writes: Could adhesions form 20 years after a gall bladder operation?

REPLY

Yes, but in all probability the scars developed shortly after the operation and remained unnoticed for two decades.

Experts Worry About U. S. Water Supply in Future

By JESSE BOGUE

NEW YORK (UPI)—Millions of Americans in drought areas of the far West and the Northeast know from personal experience this summer what it means to be without enough water.

There are thousands of other citizens in business, science and in government who may not have felt the effects of lack of water in this particular year. But they continue to worry about water for the nation in not-too-distance years ahead.

This is not a new problem Major water - using industries long since have grappled with the problem, contriving ways to stem pollution and to re-use available water, with some success. But growing population, and its concentrations in metropolitan areas, constantly raise new problems.

More than 3,000 persons concerned with portions of the overall problem will meet at Bal Harbour, Fla., beginning Sunday, for five days of discussions at the 37th annual conference of the Water Pollution Control Federation. This is a non-profit group with headquarters in Washington, D.C.; it is a technical and non-government association with more than 1,000 members and subscribers in the U. S., Canada and other countries, for the problems of water recognize no national boundaries.

The things they will talk about are a good outline of the manifold aspects of the water situation in the United States. They include the quality of water; federal legislation governing its supply and use; research; the part water plays in today's civilization; management; financing of water supply operations; design and operation of treatment facilities for water and for industrial waste and disposal.

Perspective, a publication of Calvin Bullock, Ltd., mutual fund management operation, said in its September issue that the United States may ultimately come close to the point where demand for fresh water will be ahead of the available supply.

Four Men Tell Of Survival in Deep Shaft

By JOHN LENGEL

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Instead of cold broth, there was steak. Instead of misery there was overtime.

Geore Cooper, 44, an electrician and weather-worn veteran of many construction projects, is a man with a happy story to tell about an 86-hour stay 1,800 feet below the Nevada desert that started Saturday and ended Tuesday with the liberation of four workmen.

One man was killed on the surface when cable whip-lashed up the shaft.

Cooper, Leland Roeder, 45, Floyd Shaw, 51, and Art Luhnow, 27, the group cut off, were sealed into a 30-foot-square room off the bottom of a nuclear test shaft at the Nevada test site, near Mercury, Nev.

Their jailer was 1,000 feet of tangled steel cable jammed into the final 300 feet of the shaft. Rescue workers worked round the clock to remove the cable and free the men.

Cooper, from Tucson, Ariz., told this story: "We barely stepped back from lowering the cable when we heard a swishing sound coming on like a train. It got louder and louder, then it was quiet."

Communications were rigged through a 10-inch ventilation shaft.

"I was on the phone first and asked them if anybody was killed at the top. You know how thoughts run through your mind.

"We never found out that Jim Gray was dead till we got out.

Soon a flow of heavy woolen blankets came down, with playing cards, magazines, a razor, hot coffee and ham sandwiches.

"We were busy all night talking to the guys on top — saying we were okay. We got our first meal at about nine Sunday morning.

"Nine large steaks for four men, we enjoyed that. They were medium done, just like we like it. There was gravy, mashed potatoes, hot rolls and coffee.

"They were real good ot us, gave us anything we wanted.

"Art got some real good cigars and said, 'They're from Reynolds rivate stock, I bet.'"

"We spent most of our time on the telephone reassuring our relatives that we were all right and that we had confidence in the fellows trying to get us out."

"We first got to sleep Sunday morning. Shaw and I spread some blankets on a table. Roder's pet place was on some packing cases.

What's Cooper going to do with the money?

Cooper thought about his wife, Vera, for a second and said: "I don't know what she plans to do with it."

Cooper planned to be back to work today. He said he had to turn in because he had to get up at 4 a.m.

HIGH LOW'S

NEW YORK (UPI) — How many calorie-counters are robbing Peter to pay Paul? A survey conducted for the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute disclosed that the swing to dietetic drinks is growing, but the users of the low calorie beverage consume more per capita than users of regular soft drinks.

Infantry Rocket To Be Given Critical Test

By RALPH DIGHTON

CHINA LAKE, Calif. (AP) — The controversial infantry antiaircraft rocket that many allied nations want — but which the U.S. Congress has refused to continue funding — gets a critical test today against a helicopter and a jet fighter.

Called Redeye, because of a heat-seeking "eye" that guides it to an aircraft engine, the four-foot-long solid-fuel rocket is designed to be fired from the shoulder by front-line troops — with as little as two weeks' training

Soldiers actually can be taught to fire the 28-pound weapon in 15 minutes. The rest of the instruction is aircraft identification.

Today's test at the Naval Ordnance Test Station here calls for a greatly improved Redeye to shoot down first a helicopter, then an F9F jet fighter, both unmanned and controlled by radio.

Military observers from 10 NATO countries, here to witness the demonstration, said they want the Redeye, or something like it, because of an obvious need for a sure and simple weapon against low-flying, radar-dodging attack planes, especially in limited warfare.

Congress refused to give the $29.5 million requested to continue limited production, partly because of doubt about the system's ability to discriminate between enemy aircraft and other heat sources, such as the sun.

An Army spokesman said Congress did not have, at that time, the results of tests with a new heat seeker to be fired for the first time today against full-sized aircraft.

A U.S. Army spokesman said the Redeye, built by General Dynamics at Pomona, Calif., would cost about $3,000 per unit in large-scale production.

Each unit consists of a 48-inch-long, 3-inch diameter rocket, and a shoulder-held fiberglass launcher equipped with a triggering battery and a telescopic sight.

Cigar Tycoon Helps Train Social Workers

NEW YORK (AP) — "I believe in doing things when they're needed," says cigar manufacturer Samuel J. Silberman, who has given $4 million to help train social workers.

His donation was announced Wednesday at a news conference in City Hall with Mayor Robert F. Wagner. The money will provide six floors in a new Park Avenue building for an expanded School of Social Work for Hunter College.

Silberman, board chairman of Consolidated Cigar Corp., said he hopes particularly to help minority groups enter the field of social welfare.

"You know," he said, "this is the kind of thing you usually do in your will. But I like to see things get done. I believe in doing things when they're needed, not when they're convenient."

Houses for Poor Families Too Fancy, He Says

By JOHN PIERSON

WASHINGTON (QUP) — The Comptroller General of the United States and the Public Housing Administration (PHA) have locked horns over an old but always challenging question.

How well should society provide for those who can't provide for themselves?

Comptroller General Joseph Campbell says the PHA is building too fancy for poor families —or at least fancier than Congress intends.

The PHA, which has spent about $3 billion in helping communities pay for low - income housing, says that if it built as plain as Campbell wants, it would be building barracks, not pleasant places to live.

Campbell, whose job is to prevent waste in all federal programs, has sprung to the attack with a 68-page report entitled "Inadequate Criteria for Identifying and Eliminating Elaborate or Extravagant Designs or Materials in Constructing or Equipping Low - Rent Housing Projects."

The report quotes from the Housing Act as well as the Congressional debates to prove that Congress want public housing built "at the most economical cost consistent with providing decent, safe and sanitary dwellings." In 1937, during the debate over the act, the then Rep. that public housing should be "free from frills and fripperty."

Investigators visited housing projects in different parts of the country and turned up a score of items that the Comptroller General regarded as extravagant. The list includes:

Outside ornamentation (e.g. a second story balcony on a high-rise apartment building decorated with a mosaic of a dragon, butterflies and birds), unusual design for building walls, extra - quality facing brick, hardwood flooring, awning - type aluminum windows, marble interior window walls, refrigerated air conditioners, cast iron plumbing fixtures and unusual door locksets.

In short, the report says, PHA seems to have placed more emphasis on "the environmental and aesthetic aspects of housing" than on economy.

PHA Commissioner Marie C. McGuire opens the counterat - tack by saying that her people are just as interested in economy as Campbell's, since the more money they save on each project, the more projects they can build.

Mrs. McGuire says some of Campbell's suggested economies are false ones, since better quality materials, although more expensive in the beginning, will last longer and thus be cheaper in the long run.

The Comptroller General fails to recognize — and here the issue is really joined — the "fundamental change in emphasis" that Congress wrote into the Housing Act in 1949 and in subsequent amendments, Mrs. McGuire says. Congress has now come to understand the importance of "good design," she adds.

As Mrs. McGuire explains it, good design is important unless public housing projects are to look like army barracks. And good design demands "a reasonable range of choice as to materials, components, plans and costs."

"Unreasonable choices" have been made in the past, but this is "a risk" the government must take, "unless we are prepared to accept only an institutional type housing," Mrs. McGuire says.

In a speech shortly after she became PHA commissioner, Mrs. McGuire said: "When this country provides for its unfortunate . . . it is not satisfied with providing the minimum. . . . Bare, stark, shelter has brought no happiness to us."

And in another speech: "Public housing 'plumage' will be part of the beautiful display that the entire community hopes to be. . . . Let us be peacocks among peacocks to the extent that we can."

WO Raith will be the battalion's maintenance officer.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — One aspect of Sen. Strom Thurmond's announcement that he is no longer a South Carolina Democrat but a Goldwater Republican has tenedd to be overlooked.

This is the fact that by changing his party affiliation on the basis of principle, he has posed an issue of political ethics which is peculiarly involved in this year's Presidential campaign.

Thurmond had the guts to be forthright about where he decided he should stand. In doing so, it is now realized, he has exposed the hypocrisy of many of his Southern Congressional colleagues who feel like he does but lack ocurage in their convictions.

And in the process he has also made some anti-Goldwater Republicans look bad. They won't quit their party, even if they much prefer Lyndon Johnson to Barry.

Thurmond has shown the whole lot up. His honest stand is most embarrasing, however to Southern leaders of the Democratic Party.

Thurmond has decided that his political pihlosophy jibes with the conservative viewpoint of Goldwater. So, for that matter, does the political philosophy of most other Southern Senators and Representatives.

If Thurmond is a narrow-minded states righter, so too is Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, Sens. James Eastland and John Stennis of Mississippi, Spessard Holland of Florida and Allen Ellender of Louisiana, to name just a few.

But none of these has any intention of breaking with his party. Yet their Congressional voting records have been straight down the conservative GOP line, as reflected in Goldwater's stand on domestic legislation.

Is this an ethical issue or isn't it? We enjoyed the way in which Lyndon's running mate, Hubert Humphrey, flummoxed on this issue in his "Meet the Press" TV questioning Sunday.

HUMPHREY FINDS A DIFFERENCE

Humphrey found a real difference between a Southern Democrat like Thurmond who had the decency to switch from his party and a Dixie Democrat who clung to his party affiliations but surreptitiously knifed the national Johnson-Humphrey ticket.

Humphrey preferred the knife - in - the - back of Democrat to the Thurmond type. He even said he didn't think such switchers should lose their seniority status on Senate committees if they failed to support the national ticket.

Just how ethical is it for an influential politician in either major party to act as an inside termite, when he opposes his own party's national ticket?

There is no dispute over the past record of such Senators as Byrd and Holland in this phase of party loyalty. The Byrd machine in Virginia saw to it that the state went Republican in 1952, 1956 and 1960.

Of course, this year it is hoped that Byrd's machine will operatein behalf of Johnson. This explains Humphrey's reluctance to threaten Byrd and others with a possible purge, depriving them of Congressional seniority privileges unless they work actively for LBJ.

The fact is that even if Byrd and the others who think like Thurmond but lack his fortitude doublecross the Johnson-Humphrey ticket, they are not going to be punished.

Such a purge of Mississippi Congressmen was proposed in 1961 after the entire House delegation supported the anti-Kennedy slate of electors. The idea was to deprive the off-the-reservation Southerners of their committee seniority rights.

The attempt flopped when it was pointed out that in 1956 Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-N.Y.) had supported Ike for President, not Adlai Stevenson, and was allowed to keep his committee assignments.

Right now, in an apparent effort to keep Southern Democrats from operating within their party in behalf of Goldwater, House Democratic leaders have privately warned of disciplinary action. It is along this line: In committee assignment preference will be given to party members with unblemished loyalty records.

This is a lot of malarkey, and Southern Democrats know it. Imagine the mess that would ensue, particularly if the Senate followed the House with such a cackdown. Byrd definitely would be ousted from his chairmanship of the Senate Finance Committee. Eastland would no longer control the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Thurmond has never been one of our political heroes. His long-winded oratory in the Senate is as deadly dull as that of Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.). But his honest break deserves praise. He is not going to stab the Johnson - Humphrey ticket in the back as a Democrat.

And by supporting Goldwater and declaring himself a South Carolina Republican, he is also acting ethically — in line with his conservative views.

The effort already under way to discredit him is typical of the way the Administration often acts to cut down to size its political enemies. The word is being passed that Thurmond did not act from conviction but to save his own political future.

The Senator, so the word goes, knew that he could not be renominated as a Democrat in 1966, when he must run again. So he decided this was the time to make his move to get the Republican nomination.

This is dirty pool. Thurmond has strong opinions and political convictions and never has hesitated to express them. Above all, he abhors the hypocrisy of allegiance to a party which does not reflect his views.

Solar Paddles Jammed On Weather Satellite

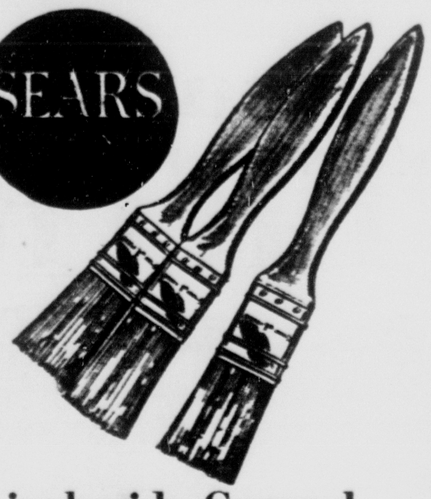

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency reports that a jamming of the solar paddles has halted operations of the Nimbus weather satellite after it had taken more than 27,000 pictures.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Wednesday that the jamming prevented the paddles from rotating toward the sun and this, in turn, halted use of solar power to recharge batteries that operated Nimbus' electronic equipment.

The anticipated life of the satellite, launched Aug. 28, had been six months.

NASA reported that the Syncom 3 communications satellite, hovering above the Pacific in preparation for televising the Olympic Games to the United States from Japan, comes within five seconds of matching exactly the earth's rotational speed.

Wineries Are Popular With Coast Tourists

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Vacationing Americans by the thousands visit California's wineries each year. They admire the scenic vineyard country and the intricate processes and machinery that turn grapes into wine.

They also swallow a considerable number of free samples available in the tasting rooms maintained by many wineries.

But they buy only a drop more than 93 per cent of one gallon per person a year. In the same time, the average Frenchman consumes 35 gallons.

Despite this, there's an air of optimism in the huge California wine industry, which covers 477,000 acres, producing 80 per cent of the wine used in the United States.

Robert G. Mondavi of St. Helena, Calif., past Chairman of the Board of the Wine Institute, said California wines "at long last are receiving the broad - scale recognition which they deserve. We are well on our way toward that long hoped for goal of wine as a widely used mealtime and party - time beverage."

'Some think this shift is the most significant change to occur in our industry during the past 30 years and I'm inclined to agree with them," he said.

He said after repeal and until the early 1950s "we had primarily a dessert wine industry" with sales volume as much as four times greater than table wine.

"Today sales of table wine are running over one-half those of dessert wine and — if present trends continue — California table wines will outsell dessert wines within five to seven years," he added.

Mondavi and his colleagues in the industry are determined that when that "long hoped for" goal is a reality that it's an American wine and not a bottle of the European variety that sits next to the catsup bottle on the American dinner table.

European wines have long been a status symbol in the United States, a wine institute spokesman said, and attributed it, not to quality alone, but to the magic of the word "imported."

Don W. McColly, president of the Institute, said U.S. wines are barred from the international market while foreign wines come freely into the United States.

McColly told the Tariff Commission and the Trade Information committee in Washington, D. C., that "we are subject to restrictions which prevent our products from taking their place in the world market."

He said this is because of "extremely high tariff duties or import controls or multilateral treaties."

"By virtue of these restrictions the California wine and brandy industry is confined almost entirely to the United States market, unable to benefit through the development of foreign markets."

In the meantime, the wine growers are battling laws at home.

U.S. Exports Reach New High Level

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. exports reached a new high of $22.3 billion in 1963, $5.1 billion more than imports, President Johnson reported today.

The President sent to Congress an annual report on the operation of the trade agreements program.

In his transmittal message, Johnson said the Trade Expansion Act of 1962, which permits still further reciprocal tariff cuts, "will, I am sure, rank as one of the greatest monuments to President Kennedy's leadership, and I reaffirm the commitment of my administration to its full and vigorous implementation."

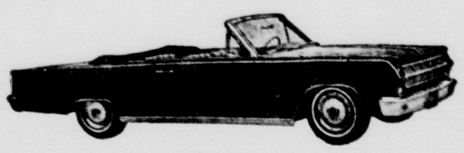

The report said that during 1963, exports of U.S. farm products rose to a record of $5.6 billion, free world trade continued to grow with exports climbing to a record $135 billion, and further progress was made in freeing U.S. exports of foreign restrictions.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Census Bureau estimates there were 22 million teen - agers in the United States in 1963 and that by 1970 the number will have risen to 29 million.

Woodland Park News

By MRS. VERNA ROBERTS 687-9398

The Chamber of Commerce met Thursday night in the Saddle Club Building with a covered dish supper and regular business meeting. Paul Kleinschmidt showed his slides of the Fourth of July Pikes Peak Hill Climb, which he takes part in as a driver.

The Band Parents met Thursday night in the new music room of the Junior-Senior High School to plan the years projects to raise money for band trips, uniform, instruments and, etc.

It was decided to have a membership due of one dollar per family per month during the nine months period. There was a bazaar planned for November, the date to be set later.

The Band will have an exchange with other schools, as they did last year, the first being on Sept. 26, with our band going to Fort Collins. The group will leave the school at 6:30 a.m.

The PTA Executive Committee met in the grade school lunch room Friday night, planning the year's projects and the year's program. Several ways were discussed to raise money, and where in our school it was most needed. This issue being decided at a regular PTA meeting. The room serving as hostess was decided so that the programs could be done by the next meeting.

The procedure of the meeting was discussed as was the purpose and how many meeting the executive committee was to have. Each of these meetings to be reported in our local papers and the executive meetings to be reported at the regular PTA meeting.

Those attending were: President, Georgiana Burns; secretary, Mrs. Frank Hendericksen; reporter, Verna Roberts; treasurer, Dorothy Hunt; program chairman, Doris French; Ways and Means chairman, Lorene Lynch; refreshments chairman, Bess Inmann; and magazine sales chairman, Lola Olson.

The membership drive will be starting soon and we urge as many to join and come to make our PTA a much better and worthwhile organization.

Tuesday night supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Davis and family were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Roberts.

The sewing and knitting group met Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. Marilyn Cummins, with the group doing a variety of needle work. Present were: Mrs. Charlene Seaney, Mrs. Olive Karraker, Mrs. Sharon Ward, Mrs. Fern Hammer, Mrs. Judy White, Mrs. Wanada Cummins, Mrs. Rose Davis, Mrs. Verna Roberts and several children. Those remaining for lunch with Mrs. Cummins were Mrs. Seaney, Mrs. Karraker and Mrs. Roberts.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Meyers and Mrs. Judy White held an ice cream and cake party Tuesday night, honoring Alvin White's birthday. Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Mert Cummins and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kessler and Gretchen, Mr. and Mrs. Fay Roberts and sons, Cindy and Bart White and Miss Amanda Workman.

The Teller-Park Extension Clubs were host to the District VI meeting Thursday at the Green Mountain Falls Community Building. Lunch was served to 135 members and guests from six counties. Following the regular business meeting a film, "Cripple Creek" was shown by George Bowmen.

The Teller-Park Extension Clubs presented Everett McKean with a gift of appreciation. Mr. McKean is leaving our county as extension agent after serving this capacity the past eight years.

Mrs. Fern Evelyn Hammer and Mrs. Bess Inmann, Manitou Park Grangers, entered in the Needle Craft at the State Grange Fair Friday, both taking second on their entries. Attending the Fair were Mrs. Edith Atwell and Mrs. Dorothy Hunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis was called to Oakley, Kan., Saturday because of the death of Mr. Davis' brother-in-law.

Funeral services were held at the grave for Miss Mary Elsie Lofland Saturday morning, Dr. Walter G. Schaefer officiating.

Miss Lofland was born in Green Mountain Falls Aug. 7, 1886, and had been a lifelong resident of the region.

She was a member of the Ladies Guild of Green Mountain Falls.

Survivors include two sisters, Mrs. Edith Roberts, Green Mountain Falls, and Mrs. Laura Sterry of Grand Junction; two brothers, Ralph Lofland, with whom she made her home until her illness 19 months ago, and Jesse Lofland of Monument, and many nieces and nephews.

Out of town guests here to attend the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Lofland, of Monument; Mrs. Bessie Myers, of Florence, and Mrs. Ruth Shugart, of Colorado Springs.

The Manitou Experimental Station is being considered as the site for a Job Corps camp as part of the Johnson Administration's Anti-Poverty program. Other National Forest sites in Wyoming, Colorado and South Dakota are also being considered.

The purpose of the camp is to make sure that more young people get a decent break and a fair chance to make good.

The wedding of Mrs. Mary Easdon to Mr. Raymond Eldred of Chipita Park took place in the First Southern Baptist Church September 12, with Rev. Roy Dean Seaney officiating at the candlelight ceremony.

Mrs. Olive Karraker and Mrs. Jane Bonifield provided a prelude of wedding music, during which Lorenz Lynch and Joyce Covault started the service by lighting the candlabra on each side of the altar. Mr. Bill Ward sang "The Lords' Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Karraker and Mrs. Bonifield.

The wedding party was made up of Mrs. Easdon's children. First attendant, Mrs. Anita Wilmore was escorted by groomsman Dean Wilmore. They were followed by the attendant Miss Donna Herrmann and groomsman Durward Easdon. Serving as Best Man and Matron of Honor were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baird, long time friends. Mike and Joleen Wilmore served as ringbearers.

The bride wore a turquoise knit suit with pink accessories. The attendants were attired in yellow lace dresses with white accessories. The matron of honor wore a beige lace dress with beige accessories. All wore corsages of pink and white carnations.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pickett are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pickett and family formerly of Hayden, Colo.

Guest speaker at the Community Church Sunday was Rev. G. E. Lang. The Rev. and Mrs. Lang presented special music. They are from Nebraska.

The Rev. and Mrs. Roy Dean Seaney were host to 14 youngsters Saturday to celebrate their son, Danny's, eighth birthday.

Sunday guests of Rev. and Mrs. Roy Dean Seaney and family were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Throgmorton and son of Cripple Creek.

Recent dinner guests of Rev. and Mrs. Roy Seaney were Mr. and Mrs. Glen Davis and family.

Mrs. Adeline Golden entertained the Book Club from Colorado Springs Thursday.

Mrs. Nel Brinkley of Divide has been employed at the Woodland Pharmacy.

Those attending the "New Ways With Vegetables" clinic were members of the Progessive Dames H. D. Club: Mrs. Adeline Golden, Mrs. Bess Inmann, Mrs. Jessie Gaymann and Mrs. Dixie Smith. Those attending from the Woodland Project H. D. Club were Mrs. Iva Kelley, Mrs. Helen Moreland, and Mrs. Edith Atwell.

Mrs. Smith, Extension Nutritionist of Colorado State University, was the leader of the program. She, also, talked about her trips to many foreign countries.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vade Hollingsworth and family at Rush were Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hollingsworth and children.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Phillips were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wood of Canon City.

Mrs. Jane Okey was released Friday from Penrose Hospital, where she has been a medical patient.

There will be a series of lecturers for members of Our Lady of the Woods Catholic Church for people interested in the Catholic religion for the next two months. Rev. Michael Kavanagh will be the lecturer of these series, which will meet each Wednesday at the Church at 7:30 p.m.

The First Southern Baptist Church will be having Promotion Sunday, Sept. 27. Plans have been made to take pictures for a permanent record of those enrolled in Sunday School. This will be done each year.

Sunday evening service at the Baptist Church for the next few Sundays will be messages dealing with, "Finding the Will of God."

The junior-senior high students held their annual Student Council election Friday with Apryle Yarnell being elected president. Vice president is Steve Shorees and Ann Fleischer is secretary-treasurer.

Saturday two bicycles and a car collided below a crest of a hill on Lake Street. Miss Nancy Carroll, driver of the car, was reported to be in satisfactory condition at Penrose Hospital. Bob Winterfeld, one of the bicyclists, was reported to be in satisfactory condition this morning, also, at Penrose Hospital. The other bike rider, Rod Eisele, was reported in fair condition at the Mamie Doud Eisenhower Hospital. They were not sure who ran into whom.

The wedding of Mrs. Wanda Miller to Mr. Marvin Hines was performed Sept. 16, in front of the fireplace in the bride's parents' home.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kientz and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hines. The Rev. Roy Dean Seaney officiated. Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hines.

The bride wore a street length dress of pink nylon over pink taffeta with white accessories. Her only jewelry was a single strand of baby pearls. She wore a corsage of an orchid.

A buffet supper was served to the guests, made up of the immediate members of the couple's families and close friends.

Wilson, a native of Phoenix, Ariz., and Goldwater, the republican presidential nominee, were in the same Arizona Air National Guard unit.

When Goldwater was in Charlotte Monday night Wilson took the opportunity to say hello.

During a 45-minute chat, Wilson asked Goldwater if he remembered the time he and other buddies ran a pair of the senator's bermuda shorts up a flagpole.

"I don't like to remember things like that," Goldwater replied.

Adlai Charges Barry's Views Are Co-Existence

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson assailed Sen Barry Goldwater's views on foreign policy today and declared that they mean co-extinction.

The chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations said in a speech prepared for delivery to the World Affairs Council that a "militant minority" had rejected bipartisan American foreign policy in favor of "a doctrinal rag-bag filled with bits and pieces of old dogmas and new provocations."

This minority view, Stevenson declared, "sounds more like a call for religious war than a policy for peace.

"And if it can be thought of as a policy, it can be thought of only as a policy of conversion or extinction. And nowadays that means co-extinction."

Stevenson, Democratic presidential nominee in 1952 and 1956, did not mention Goldwater by name, but the Republican presidential nominee and his supporters were clearly his targets.

"If the practice of tolerance is equated with appeasement," said Stevenson, "if courage is equated with nervous readiness to pull the triger; if restraint is equated with cowardice, and maturity with indecision; if fear of nuclear war is derided and verbal violence encouraged; then the values — the first principles — on which this society was built are sunk without trace."

He said the U.S. government had worked hard "to move the world out of the sterile stalemate of cold war" and "toward an alternative to Armageddon."

American foreign policy, Stevenson said, was not a Democratic or a Republican policy but "genuine bottled-in-bond American forein policy — the product of the Presidents and the State Departments and the Cabinets and the National Security Councils and the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the congressional leadership of four American administrations."

That policy, Stevenson declared, was "broadly based on the approval of a majority of the American people" and had been "tested in the fiery trials of what may well prove to be the most dangerous and hopeful period in the history of mankind."

He said the world had become less dangerous than it was a short time ago not through "reckless bluff" but "through plenty of power used with plenty of restraint."

Pedestrian Does Not Want That Car, Either

He strapped a knapsack on his back and walked away saying: "I gave $50 for this car and it's been nothing but trouble since. You can have it."

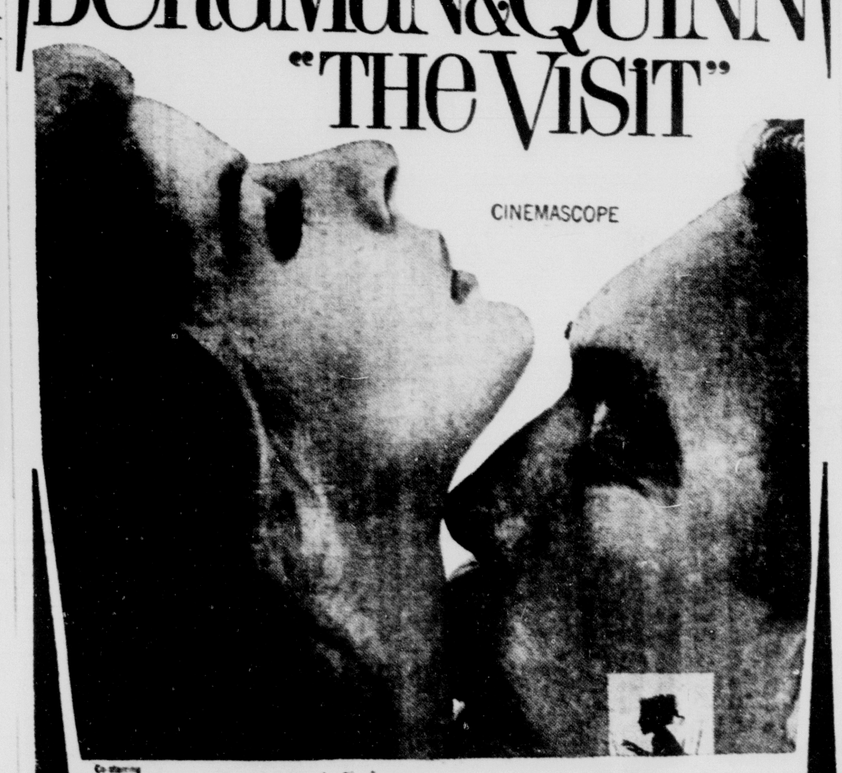

Even though Mrs. Smith lives on East Street, she didn't want it. She called the sheriff to tow it away.

Fashion Bar Celebrates 31st Anniversary

Jack Levy, president, reported that business for the year has shown satisfactory increases and that the picture for the balance of the year looks even more favorable in all Fashion Bar towns.

HOLE-IN-ONE?

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—Larry Carr scored a hole-in-one at Rolling Meadows Golf Course, or did he?

Carr's ball bounced, hopped and then dropped into the cup. Trouble was it was on No. 1 green and he was aiming for the cup on No. 2.

Speaker Salutes Free Enterprise At Club Meet

Ed Richardson, chairman of the Salute to Free Enterprise Committee, speaking before the Colorado Springs Lions Club declared that everything that is done in the world is done by individuals and nothing happens until somebody does something.

He pointed out that the more freedom the individual has the more he strives to accomplish things.

The American system of free private enterprise has enabled the people of the Uenitd States to outproduce the world and we have the highest standard of living in the world, he said.

Most of the time we spend producing and distributing the goods and services. Rarely do we pay much attention to the system that makes it possible, he said.

About three years ago, he said, a small town druggist in Massachusetts decided to do something about it. He wrote a proclamation declaring a certain day as a Salute to Free Enterprise Day and asked his friends and neighbors to participate in the celebration.

An appropriate service was held in front of his store, a preacher offered an invocation, the mayor made a few remarks, a businessman spoke on what free enterprise meant to the people of the community and the service closed with a benediction.

In the meantime this original idea has spread all over the country and recently a bill was introduced in congress to make Free Enterprise Day a day of national significance.

Richardson informed his listeners that a group of local businessmen met last month and decided to get behind this observance and really promote it in the region.

He asserted that the committee members were happy to spend time and money for their belief that the man and women who make the private enterprise system work are entitled to all the praise and thanks that we can give them.

We hope that thousands of persons in the region will join us and literally fill the newspapers and airways with many kind of declarations as to how we personally feel about this wonderful way of life, he said.

He pointed out that many unpleasant things are going on all around us, but that if we have the right attitude toward our friends, neighbors and others seem to have less significance. He illustrated his principle suggestion by pointing out how we spend a lot of time and money sending out appropriate cards at Christmas, and he remarked that we could do the same thing on this occasion to all the employes and management in private enterprise. However, this might be almost prohibitive, he said.

He informed them how the newspapers, radio and TV stations were just as enthusiastic supporters, but they could not be expected to carry the entire load. Although they might offer to do so, they could not act or speak for us.

Since they were willing to do their share, it remained for the thousands of individuals who enjoy the benefits of their services, and they are also private enterprises, to purchase time on the radio and TV (to praise and salute) and space in the newspapers.

He placed much emphasis on his concluding remarks, which was next thing to a prayer, that the Salute to Free Enterprise committee hopes that there will be so many requests for radio and TV spots and newspaper advertising spade that the regular advertisers will step aside for the entire week of September 28th to October 5th.

"If they don't call you, you call them," he concluded.

One Year Jail Term Given on Narcotic Count

Gilbert David Martinez, 20, 726 Prospect LAke Dr. was sentenced to one year in County Jail plus a $100 fine by Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane Wednesday for accessory during the fact to obtain a narcotic drug.

He pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing

According to the charge he was present when Kathryn Carol Orozco attempted to obtain fraudulently meperidine hydrochloride Aug. 27 and made no effort to dissuade her.

A charge of attempting to obtain a narcotic by fraud against Miss Orozco was dismissed Sept. 16 by the district attorney's office due to "insufficient evidence." According to a report in the office Miss Orozco, 21, 915 E. Cucharras St. was completely exhonerated. The report said she was the tool of Martinez and had no intention whatsoever of using the drug herself.

Leroy Edward Fischer also known as Lee Fischer, 30, Arrow Hotel, 320 E. Pikes Peak Ave. received a year in County Jail with three months suspended for short check.

Fischer was accused of writing a $25 short check Aug. 30 and giving it to Dr. Lucky Simpson.

Phillip Juvera, 35, 826 S. Wahsatch Ave. was given a 60 day suspended sentence in jail and fined $25 plus $18.60 costs for unemployment fraud.

The defendant was charged with defrauding the Colorado Department of Employment Sept. 10. The judge also ordered him to make full restitution.

USO Schedules Bus Trip for Service Men

The USO has scheduled a bus trip to Cripple Creek and Victor Sunday for service personnel. The bus will leave the USO, 211 E. Colorado Ave., at 11 a.m. and return to the USO by 5:30 p.m. Elizabeth Dickey, USO Executive Director, said that a prize will be given for the best pictures taken.

The group will visit the Cripple Creek Museum in the old railroad station and may visit one of the gold mines. They will also visit points of interest in Victor.

Accompanying the group will be Henry Coupland of the Colorado Springs Historical Society.

Servicemen are asked to request from their mess sergeants a lunch of sandwiches, fruit, and cake to take with them on the tour. This is the first time the USO has been able to secure a bus for a trip, and there will be no charge to the men for the trip or for entrance to the museum.

Servicemen are asked to sign up at the USO if possible, but reservations may also be made by phone.

Denver Post Has New Building In Springs

The Denver Post has been operating out of its new distribution office located at 2925 N. El Paso St., during the summer.

The new building contains 2,000 square feet of working space which includes a general office and the office of Charles Richards, general manager.

The building was erected by Colorado Building Systems and was built to Post specifications, Richards said.

Circulation and classified advertising is handled at this building. Equipment in operation includes five delivery trucks and the vehicle used to service the Air Force Academy.

Church Burglary Intent Reported

A church was broken into and damaged by intruders apparently intent on burglary, police reported.

The Grace Episcopal Church, at 631 N. Tejon St., was broken into between 10:30 p.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. Wednesday, police reported. The intruders gained entrance by breaking a small pane of glass in the door leading to the Youth room of the church.

Three offices in the church were broken into by breaking glass in the office doors and reaching through and unlocking them. File cabinets in the offices were pried on but the thieves apparently couldn't get them open. Desks were ransacked and letters were torn open, but church officials said it couldn't be determined at this time what was missing.

A custodian said he secured the church at 10:30 Tuesday after a meeting, but didn't hear any noises in the night. He didn't discover the breakin until Wednesday at 8 a.m.

Coffee Council Controls World Coffee Prices

By SAM CAMPBELL

If you've been nicked 15 cents for a cup of restaurant coffee lately, that's a sign the International Coffee Council is back on the job.

The idea of the coffee braintrust is to manage the price that you pay for coffee by policing shipments of coffee beans. The braintrust is made up of representatives from 59 of the world's major governments.

Just why the United States should be paying your money to send delegates to such a board has not yet been explained since the net effect to date has been to raise the price on the beverage you drink.

Back came a letter from the World Coffee Information Center, 1730 M. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20036, taking note of the levity of those remarks.

The letter stated in part as follows:

"That cup of coffee. . . represents a huge segment of world trade and commerce. Most years, coffee is second only to petroleum in world trade, dollar value — bigger than steel, wheat, cotton, sugar, for example.

"World coffee trade creates some 13 million jobs and $1.4 billion foreign-exchange revenue for Latin America (1962).

"And that cup of coffee stimulates jobs and income in the U. S. A. too. In 1961, approximately 662,000 jobs and $3.2 billion in wages and farm income were generated by coffee. For it is the income derived from coffee that permits many countries especially those of Latin America, to buy U. S. industrial and farm goods. The coffee - exporting countries in 1961 purchased $3.4 billion worth of products from U.S.A."

The letter was signed by Samuel E. Stavisky, director.

What Mr. Stavisky is saying, in effect, is that coffee is so important that we just must hire a braintrust to manage this giant enterprise for us.

But the part that he fails to point out is how the coffee industry became such a tremendous endeavor.

Did it grow to its present dimension because of efforts of the International Cofffee Council? No, because the council had not been formed in 1962, the year from which Mr. Stavisky cited his statistics.

Did coffee become the most popular beverage for Americans by virtue of the fact that a bureaucrat now sits on every bag of beans?

Did coffee become great, a medium for funneling dollars to the peons of South America, because of regulations, restrictions and uniformed port policemen?

No, Mr. Stavisky, coffee became a major item of world trade because individual growers, processors, traders, and wholesalers hereto have had the freedom to bargain with one another and to arrive at a price that they knew the consumer would be willing to pay.

Freedom made the coffee market. Mr. Stavisky. Then after the coffee market was made, the bureaucrats bored in. They saw a good thing and they wanted part of it — at the expense of taxpaver and at the expense of the consumer.

Well, Mr. Stavisky, there is no way that the victimized taxpayer can keep the know-it-alls and manage-alls from spending his money to support the subsidized coffee experts on the International Coffee Council.

But the consumer, at least, does have one resort— he can turn down his cup.

By the way, waitress make mine water.

Duckwall Store Opens Today in Shopping Center

A new Duckwall store opened today in the Venetian Shopping Center, Dave Henderson, district manager of the Duckwall store chain in the Rocky Mountain Region announced.

* * *

* * *

Located at 3029 N. Hancock Ave., the store will be managed by Roger Karlin, of 906 First St. Karlin, a native of Hays, Kan., has been a resident of Colorado for four years. He worked his way up through the Duckwall chain, starting out as a stock boy in a Duckwall store in Hays. He moved to Denver after receiving his BS in business administration from Ft. Hays College, and he comes to Colorado Springs from Pueblo.

Henderson also announced that Jerry Gross, a native of Kansas, will be the assistant manager. Gross, who attended Hutchinson Junior College, has been working at the Duckwall Store in Nob Hill since 1963, when he arrived in Colorado Springs.

The new store, sixth to be opened in the local region, will carry the basic Duckwall lines, including lingerie, hosiery for women, women's and children's apparel, small household items, toys and hardware. The store has been completely remodeled and redecorated, and will afford 5,000 square feet of space.

Hours are 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Foster Parents Group Holds Annual Picnic

The first annual foster parents' picnic was held Sunday in the Garden of the Gods, with 64 foster parents attending.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Hargrove took top honors for having given a temporary home to the greatest number of displaced children. The Hargroves have taken in a total of 143 children during the 17 years they have been foster parents.

County Commissioner Charles L. Smith told the group, "We are constantly aware of the fine job you are doing. You are carrying a great load, because there are still far too few foster parents. But you carry your load admirably."

Vard V. Gray, director of county welfare, congratulated all the foster parents, especially those who have been in the program for many years. These included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kerr, 15 years; Mr. and Mrs. Maxie Romero, 12 years and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Adams, 10 years.

Guests included Dr. and Mrs. Robert C. Cunningham and attorney William Lamont Carew. "We hope to interest more professional people in the foster parents program," said Elisa DeVos, a child welfare official.

Election of officers for the coming year was held and Col. H. G. Christian was re-elected president; Ed Pankau the new vice president; Mrs. Herschel Stanley, secretary and Mrs. Laurence Riebschlager, financial secretary.

Negro Arrests Follow McComb Bomb Explosions

MCCOMB, Miss. (AP) — An undisclosed number of Negroes have been arrested in this racially tense area on warrants charging them with "criminal syndicalism" — a new state law prohibiting unlawful acts to bring about a political or social change.

A bomb was hurled Wednesday night at the home of a former Negro city police officer who was en route to Washington to talk to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission and the Justice Department.

The house of Ardis Garner, the former policeman, was not damaged. No one was in the structure when the bomb exploded.

A second bomb explosion was reported shortly after midnight near Percy Quin State Park southwest of McComb. Several Negro churches in the vicinity of the park have been burned during the summer.

The FBI was reported investigating the two latest bombings — 15th and 16th in this area since June.

Authorities declined to say how many warrants had been issued on the syndicalism charges. There was no total available for the number arrested and booked at nearby Magnolia, seat of justice for Pike County.

One officer, however, did say he had a list of 24 Negroes for whom warrants were prepared.

The Atlanta, Ga., offices of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee said it had learned that about 25 arrests were made Wednesday. A SNCC spokesman said about 75 other Negroes had been arrested on various charges earlier in the week.

More arrests were expected today in this town of 13,000, a rail hub for the Illinois Central.

The criminal syndicalism law, approved in the spring by the state legislature, makes it unlawful to advocate, teach, aid or abet the commission of criminal acts to effect a change in ownership, political or social change, or for profit.

Punishment ranges from fines of from $200 to $1,000 and jail sentences of 1 to 10 years for violating or encouraging others to violate the law.

Seven Negroes already have been bound over to the Pike County grand jury on the syndicalism charges. Police reported they found a bottle filled with gasoline in the possession of the seven after a rock-throwing episode Monday night.

Garner had gone to Jackson earlier Wednesday to appear before the state's advisory committee to the Civil Rights Commission. Then he left for Washington.

The actors in Hamlet, of course, have the intensity of professional stage actors, which the film-closeups show to best advantage, such as in facial expressions and delivery, and it was a beauty to see and hear. Which again illustrates the principle of the film, for which the stage provided a convenient backdrop.

Burton's style is something, it seems, that sets him apart, rather than "above" that of the other actors. He has great flexibility in speech, although his voice, surprisingly does not "growl" as it has been said; it is rather higher pitched; no growling power here, in that sense. He has great mobility in action, or gesture, as well. Moreover, his gestures seem to have symbolism as a style, which goes beyond the merely illustrative, and whish, for better or worse, recall Eisenstein's ideas, and again bring the image of the film into the picture.

Burton is, in a way, a jongleur, meaning it in the good sense of the term, an "artist." His motions are gestures of effect, not as a "pose," but rather a motion "in the round," a sculptural quality in time, a three-dimensional gesture, one might say, although he is not above striking a pose, but only as a pause in the motion, and then he goes on. His mobility is made possible by his far above average flexibility in all the facets of the art, voice and motions.

In other words, Burton is rarely still — unless he is still when the spotlight is not on him, dramatically speaking. His strength would not seem to be in the arresting, magnetic pose, but rather in ceaseless, arresting movement.

The audience Wednesday afternoon seemed to be quite knowledgeable not only with acting, but with Shakespeare as well, judging from its response. But it was Burton's unusual mobility, and flexibility, in action, voice, and not the least, face, which was undoubtedly the most interesting to see. In this respect, those who went to see Burton, got their reward in full measure, as only a camera can provide, which the usual theatre-goer, especially in the last row, could hardly hope to see. This is made possible by the successful transference of a stage production to an art film.

It has been said that the film prints will be destroyed after these showings throughout the country; that would be a pity, for the film provides not only a quite dramatic presentation of Hamlet, but a most interesting study of acting techniques as well which should be a standard library item in every acting school and drama department. It could also serve as a starting point in the development of filmed drama, providing a closer interpretation of stage drama, and of play authors, than possible in a "film version" especially in the Hollywoodian sense.

Merle E. Nielsen Died at Hospital

Merle E. Nielsen, of Fort Morgan, Colo., retired real estate salesman, formerly of Colorado Springs, died at a Fort Morgan Hospital Tuesday. He had resided in Fort Morgan for 10 years.

Mr. Nielsen was born in Monument, Colo., May 30, 1900. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Maude May Nielsen, of Colorado Springs; four brothers, Victor Nielsen, of Colorado Springs; Lloyd Nielsen, Grants Pass, Ore.; Vincent Nielsen, Payton, and Virgil Nielsen, Whittier, Calif.; three sisters, Mrs. Laura Shonts and Mrs. Winona Widmoyer, of Colorado Springs, and Mrs. Eileen Brunette, Grand Junction, and several nieces and nephews.

Graveside services will be held at 11 a.m. Friday in Evergreen Cemetery. The Rev. Willis Goettel will officiate. The Law Mortuary has charge of arrangements.

Police to Sell Abandoned Cars In Public Sale

The Colorado Springs police department's public sale of 40 abandoned cars will start at 10 a.m. Saturday at Peterson Field.

The department's storage area is located northeast of the terminal building at the airport, and the enclosed area will be open by 9 a.m. Saturday in order to permit prospective buyers to inspect the vehicles.

All cars were abandoned on city streets and have been unclaimed for at least six months.

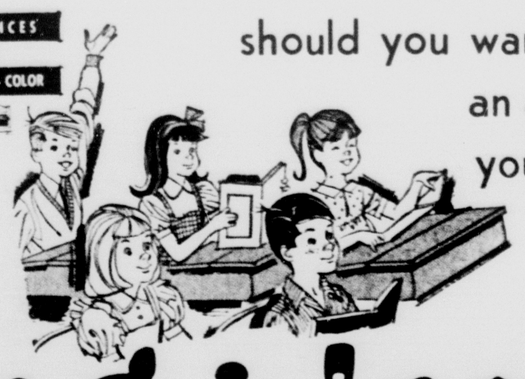

Cars will be sold on an "as is" basis and for cash. Net proceeds of the sale will go into the police pension fund.

The Peterson Field storage lot will be closed following the sale since a new storage will be utilizd in the future. This lot is located near the Martin Drake Steam Plant.

Hall also reminded that the police department has a lot of unclaimed bicycles and tricycles. Persons wanting to check on these vehicles should not do so by telephone but should contact Hall at the police department.

WARDS OWN BRANDS ARE IN DEMAND -- FOR THEIR QUALITY AND DEPENDABILITY

Solons to Start Own Campaigns For Reelection

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — For some of the country's top-ranking commuters, the end of a strenuous and expensive period may be in sight.

These commuters are members of both houses of Congress who have been trying to campaign for re-election at home and also maintain a proper attendance record on Capitol Hill.

Their hopes were high today that the Senate may be nearing a settlement of the reapportionment dispute that has stalled adjournment.

They can now expect to come back to Washington once more — for a burst of work that could wind up the session next week — and then go back to the home grounds for intensive speech making and hand shaking until Nov. 3.

Congress had hoped to adjourn before the Republican National Convention in July, or at least before the Democratic convention in August. Instead, it found itself still meeting, still with an unfinished backlog of work, late in September — long after the traditional opening period for the campaigns that involve all seats in the House, one-third of those in the Senate.

The always busy telephones in the offices of congressional party leaders have been ringing more than ever this month. Congressmen or their secretaries were checking daily. Will there be a record vote on anything tomorrow? When is the next important piece of legislation up? Would it be all right to stay in the district another day — or until next week?

Some members, with little or no opposition, could stay in Washington with no great hardship, even if they would rather be at home; some confined their campaigning to long weekends, but many left for protracted tours in the districts.

The double life, legislating in Washington and campaigning at home, runs into money — especially if home is across the country. Members are reimbursed for three round trips a year; the cost of further shuttling is on them.

The Senate had to adjourn abruptly three times last week, and the House once, when someone forced a quorum call on what had been billed as a quiet day. There just wasn't a majority of members on hand.

The Senate's work is by no means over when it agrees on some settlement of the dispute over the Supreme Court's decision that state legislatures must be apportioned by population.

It has still to consider the always-controversial foreign aid bill and its accompanying appropriation; President Johnson's program of special help for the chronically depressed Appalachian region and a $1-billion catchall appropriation for agencies running short.

Both houses also must come to some agreement on a number of measures they have separately passed in different form.

The knottiest of these conferences is on the years-old issue of health care for the aged under Social Security. President Johnson wants such a bill and for the first time the Senate passed one, adding it to a House-passed measure to increase Social Security retirement benefits. Opposition by key House members seems as firm as ever.

Rehearing in Estes Case Is Turned Down

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals has turned down Billie Sol Estes' motion for a rehearing on his appeal of a mail fraud conviction, Assistant U.S. Atty. Fred Morton announced Wednesday.

In Dallas, Texas, U.S. Atty. Barefoot Sanders said Estes' trial on charges of filing false financial statements which was set for Nov. 9, will not be held until early in 1965.

The appeals court at New Orleans last month denied Estes' appeal of his conviction by an El Paso jury on federal charges of mail fraud and conspiracy in connection with mortgages of non-existent fertilizer spiracy in connection with mort-tanks.

U.S. Dist. Judge R.E. Thomason sentenced Estes to 15 years in prison.

Estes, former Pecos promoter who now lives in Abilene, has 30 days to petition the U.S. Supreme Court for a stay of sentence pending an appeal to the high court.

Yankees Fete New Reliever After Sweep From Indians

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — The New York Yankees played it cautiously after sweeping their second straight doubleheader from the Cleveland Indians Wednesday night but whooped it up for their new ace reliever Pedro Ramos.

Beating the Indians 4-3 in 11 innings and 6-4 in the nightcap, with ex-Indian Ramos saving both games, the Yankees increased their American League lead to four full games over the second place Baltimore Orioles and to five games in the important loss column.

Asked if he felt he had it wrapped up, Manager Yogi Berra said:

"We've got a chance."

Reminded that he had said before the series that he would be satisfied with a split, the Yankees' manager said, "I would have been happy to win three out of four. But now that we have won all four, it feels pretty good."

Ramos, who came to the Yanks Sept. 6, pitched the 11th inning of the opener without permitting a hit and an 1 2-3 of the second, striking out four men.

In 15 1-3 innings since joining the Yanks, he has had four saves, won one game and lost only one. He has made eight appearances.

Berra said Ramos' relief pitching had been a major factor in the Yanks' climb to first place.

"We knew he was a good relief pitcher, but we had no idea he would help us so much," said Berra.

Ramos, 29-year-old Cuban, went around the Yankee locker room telling his mates that this was his third wedding anniversary.

"It was a good way to celebrate," he said.

Ramos said he didn't mind his role as fireman, but he would only be a reliever for the Yankees.

"I would not pitch relief for anybody else in the world, but the Yankees told me I pitch only relief and I do it," he said in broken English. "I am happy to pitch like this for this club."

He said he got no special satisfaction out of beating his former teammates.

"They are a good bunch — I like them, all except Tebbetts (Manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Indians)."

Ramos said Tebbetts never gave him an opportunity to pitch, sometimes keeping him idle as long as nine days.

"I must pitch often to do good," he said.

Tebbetts, who let Ramos go to the Yanks for $75,000 in cash and players to be named later, said the Cuban had insisted on starting when he asked him to do relief work only.

"He demanded a two-year contract if he pitched only relief," Tebbetts said. "I started him sometimes and pitched him in relief other times. He didn't like it."

Lakewood Retains Top Spot In High School Grid Poll

Mighty Lakewood easily retained its position as the number one team in Colorado high school football this week, attracting 224 points in the Denver Post poll of sports writers and coaches.

The Tigers, who hold decisive triumphs over Boulder, Wasson, and Pueblo Central, held a sizeable margin over Aurora Central, which placed second for the second straight week. Denver Washington was third and Pueblo East of the South Central League fourth.

The breakdown by leagues saw the Denver League with three teams in the top 10 (Washington, Lincoln, and South); the South Central with two (East and Trinidad); the Centennial League with three (Aurora Central, Englewood, and Grand Junction); the Jefferson County League with one (Lakewood); and the Northern League with one (Loveland).

Palmer of Colorado Springs was ranked 19th with eight points while Wasson tied for 24th.

Pueblo East Favored in SCL

(Editor's note: This is the second of two articles reviewing the teams involved in the South Central League football race which starts Friday night.)

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

A favorable schedule, the conference's most experienced personnel, and an excellent preseason performanee have stamped Pueblo East as the team to beat in the 1964 South Central League race.

The Eagles, as it was pointed out in Wednesday's article, have veterans at every position — many with starting experience ranging back over two years. There is the added fact that East is a team which thrives on defense, and the SCL has gained a reputation over the seasons as a league that emphasizes good defense.

East's early season showing against non-conference opposition produced a 37-0 victory over Pueblo County, a 6-0 win over Fort Collins Poudre, and last week's 26-0 thumping of highly-regarded LaJunta. Those games give the Eagles a strong winning momentum to carry into the league campaign. As a final important factor, East will not leave the turf of Pueblo's Public Schools Stadium again until the final conference game of the season, against Palmer Nov. 7.

Behind the Eagles, the league picture is muddled. But based on the opinion of coaches, and taking into consideration the caliber of early opposition, plus the areas where the most improvement is likely to occur, the standings should look something like this at the end of the season: 1. Pueblo East 2. Trinidad 3. Wasson 4. Palmer 5.Centennial 6. Pueblo Central 7. Pueblo South.

Wednesday we reviewed the prospects of East, Palmer, and Centennial. The following is a resume of the remaining four teams:

WASSON — The Thunderbirds remain as the league's top questionmark heading into the start of the campaign Friday night. The team, which has been victimized by errors and unfortunate breaks during its first three starts, is potentially an excellent one.

Much of Wasson's success will depend on how the squad bounces back from the disheartening early season record. The T-Birds' most serious need at present is simply a good win!

Coach Gib Funk and his assistants have had continual problems during the early weeks in placing personnel. Injuries, the large number of junior players on the squad, and some dropouts have prompted this thorny situation which still carried over into this week.

With the return of fullback Bob Toof, who is a talented runner, the T-Birds can be expected to return to their favorite weapon of past years, the fullback offense. Quarterback Jim Smith, another fancy stepper, gives the team two excellent running threats, but the halfback posts are still unsettled.

The line has more size than in the past, but many of the players are still learning some of the basic facts of the game. In early games, the pursuit has not been what it was in the past and there has been little consistency. If this group jells in the next couple of weeks, the T-Birds could still go all the way.

Strong points: Excellent runners. Improved size in line. Improved depth. Weaknesses: Lack of strong passer. Tendency toward disasterous mistakes. Lack of a strong field leader.

TRINIDAD — Coach Dutch Nogel made his usual early prediction of a disasterous season for the Miners. "I'll be very pleased if we win a game or two in our always tough conference. This could very easily be our worst season. Everything seems to look dark. . ."

Nogel, who is one of the state's most skillful coaches, has since won three straight games and has outscored his opposition 81-13, despite the mournful tone of his pre-season warnings. The Miners' opposition was not the strongest, but the team obviously has its customary excellent defense and there is certainly no club in the league that plays tougher football, year in and year out.

The Miners have 10 lettermen, and most of them are in the line which means the team should be well-stacked in that vital area. Quarterback Mike Bosso and halfback Tony Maccagnon are returning starters in the backfield.

As always, Trinidad's problems revolve around squad depth. If the team stays away from costly injuries, it should be a title contender. If not, the Miners' think ranks could break down by the crucial late games.

Another factor in the Miners' favor is their schedule. They have both Palmer and Wasson at home and must travel only to meet Pueblo Central this Friday and East late in the campaign.

Strong points: Experience in line. Excellent defense. Home schedule. Weaknesses: Lack of size. Serious lack of depth.

PUEBLO CENTRAL — Ed Lesar's Wildcats are another of the league's questionmark teams. Thus far they have show little of the offensive strength that has been a hallmark of Central teams in the past.

Since their state championship team of 1961, the Wildcats have had continual personnel problems also. The squad has been small and seemingly injury-prone.

Central lost several excellent starters from last year, including quarterback Jim Soldano and standout lineman, Gary Gehlhoff. Dave Struthers has taken over at the signal-calling post and he gives the team another capable passer. In addition the Wildcat defense came up with some sparkling plays against Lakewood last week, eliciting praise from Lesar.

Central will probably be a troublesome club for all opponents, but the 'Cats do not appear to have the personnel to be a title contender this year.

PUEBLO SOUTH — The Colts, with another host of returning lettermen, still do not figure as a strong threat in the SCL in 1964.

Early performances have shown them to be a rugged, scrambling team on defense but the offense is sorely lacking. In backs Verle Davison and Shermon Jones, there is fine breakaway speed but in early contests they got past the line of scrimmage too infrequently to have much chance to utilize it. The passing game is not impressive either, except for a screen which the team has worked with some success.

The Colts have fair size in the line, but not to the extent of their past teams. However, the linemen react well and hit hard. Thus it would appear that their rushing defense may be the strongest point. The secondary has not been thoroughly tested.

Strong points: Good defense along line. Excellent speed in backfield. Weaknesses: Lack of offense. Lack of experience on starting unit.

'WE'VE GOT A CHANCE' — New York Yankee manager Yogi Berra appeared deep in thought Wednesday night after his team swept its second straight doubleheader from the Cleveland Indians. Asked if his team, now four games ahead in the American League, had it wrapped up, Yogi nervously tugged at the side of his nose and replied, "We've got a chance." The Yanks whipped Cleveland, 4-3, in 11 innings in the opener and 6-4 in the nightcap. (Associated Press Wirephoto)

Thing of the Past

The usual "breathers" on opening day seem to be a thing of the past for most of the nation's collegiate football powers, judging by the number of upsets that dotted the first big go-around of last wekend.

But more and more it looks like the word "upset" should be stricken from the record along with the description of "breather" for the once popular soft touch for the season's beginning. It all comes down to the fact that among the schools which take the game deadly serious —especially when depositing the receipts from the latest take at the ticket booth— there are increasing number of teams of equal ability.

When such is the case, and because of the above mentioned trip to the nearest bank, when scheduled with one another the bounce of the egg-shaped sphere more often than not determines the outcome.

Which all leads to a near impossible task for the suffering prognosticator who must rely on a daily flood of proaganda from team publicists through the mail, comparative scores which often are completely inaccurate, apparent improvement from game - to-game . . .and then usually a flip of a coin.

Anyway, here's the way the two - bit piece fell for this Saturday's menu:

REGIONAL

MICHIGAN 20, AFA 17 — An under - rated Air Force defense surprised Washington and just about everyone else last week, but the folks around Ann Arbor are getting an early scent of Roses when looking forward to New Year's. Don't count out Ben Martin's Falcons until the final gun, but the Wolverines will be harder to stop than were the Huskies.

COLORADO 14, OREGON ST. 8 — Looking for an "upset" by the Buffs in this year's first showing at Boulder, but the Sophomore - laden pass defense will have to be extra sharp. Also counting on more production from CU's go - team, which was described by one Los Angeles writer as "archaic" after the 21-0 loss to Southern Cal.

HASTING 20, CC 7 — Colorado is having trouble generating much of a threat on the scoring end of the game, and the injury situation hasn't improved any over the week.

OKLAHOMA 14, USC 13—The Sooners came awfully close to being side - tracked before getting untracked, but Gomer Jones should have been working his changes over - time for one of the better matches of the day.

ALSO: Iowa State over Oklahoma State, Colorado State U. over Pacific, Utah State over New Mexico State, St. Mary's (Kans.) over Southern Colorado (Pueblo), Adams State over Eastern New Mexico, N. M. Highlands over Mines, Colo. State College over Kearney State, Western State over Ft. Hays, and New Mexico over Montana.

EAST

KANSAS 13, SYRACUSE 8—The home field makes it close, but watch the Jayhawks as possibly the big surprise of the midlands with Gale Sayers and Steve Renko a tremendous one-two punch.

PRINCETON 20, RUTGERS 7 Believe it or not, the Tigers have the third best winning percentage in the country (all time) and they'll add another in easy fashion. (Incidentely, Yale is No. 1 and Notre Dame 2).

ALSO: George Washington over Boston University, Brown over Lafayette, Columbia over Colgate, Buffalo over Cornell, Holy Cross over Villanova, Navy over William and Mary, Penn over Lehigh, and Yale over Connecticut.

SOUTH

OLE MISS 10, KENTUCKY 7- Should be closer than some suspect.

ALABAMA 28, TULANE 0 — A dream for us guessers. Back of the Week Joe Namath in a field day.

GEORGIA TECH 21, MIAMI 7 — The Hurricanes just a breeze without George Mira.

ALSO: Auburn over Tennessee, Duke over Virginia, Maryland over S. Carolina, Florida over Mississippi State, Michigan State over North Carolina, N.C. State over Clemson, Georgia over Vanderbilt, VPI over Wake Forest, and West Virginia over The Citadel.

MIDWEST

NEBRASKA 20, MINNESOTA 12 — It's on the picture box in what should be a good headknocker. The Huskers will have to get serious after last week's 56-0 slaughter of South Dakota.

NOTRE DAME 15, WISCONSIN 13—Figuring another slight "upset" over the geneally favored Badgers — on the strength of the debut of Coach Ara Parseghian.

NORTHWESTERN 14, INDIANA 10 — A second straight scare for the Wildcats who edged Oregon State last week, 7-3.

ALSO: Cincinnati over Dayton, Iowa over Idaho, Ohio State over SMU, Purdue over Ohio U., and Missouri over Utah.

SOUTHWEST

TEXAS 20, TEXAS TECH 14—No cinch for last year's top team.

RICE 8, LSU 3—The stadium may rock for a week after this evening tussle.

ALSO: Arkansas over Tulsa, Florida State over TCU, Texas Aggies over Houston, and West Texas State over Arizona State.

FAR WEST

ILLINOIS 14, CALIFORNIA 7 Defending Big Ten champs show for the first time with too much defense for the upset-minded Bears.

WASHINGTON 21, BAYLOR 13—The Huskies will be barkin' and bitin' after the rude visit by the Air Force.

PENN STATE 15, UCLA 14—Bruins looking for a second win over Pennsylvania powers with a week's rest after tripping Pitt. No sneaking up on this one, however.

ALSO: Pitt over Oregon, Stanford over San Jose State, Wyoming over Washington State.

Mump-Beset Howell Shares Golfing Lead

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Ron Howell of Washington, D.C., suffering from the aftermath of an attack of mumps, shared the lead with four other players after the first round of the Victorian State Open Golf Championship today.

Howell, unable to move his neck and still feeling the effects of the illness, toured the 6,755-yard Victoria Golf Club course in a three-under-par 70.

Third Charity Night Pays Off High

The Twin Quin made another of its higher pay-offs Wednesday night as the third annual Charity Night race card was run at the Rocky Mountain Kennel Club. The Twin Quin payoff was on the 7-8 with the 2-7 for a total of $1,138.60.

The 1964 Charity Night Card, with RMKC giving its entire gross share to charity, made the Colorado Springs area richer by a total of $10,241.75. The special committee that will make the distribution of these funds is J. F. Angell of the First National Bank; Robert W. Morris of the Exchange National Bank and Frank Arnold of the Colorado Commercial Bank. The report of the committee will be made public as soon as the allocation of the 1964 funds has been made.

George S. Murphy's T. V. Hoss, the longshot in the 10th, paid $46.20 to win Wednesday night for the highest win pay-off of the night, and the 8-1 Daily Double paid $127.20 as it made its first appearance of the current meet.

Don Abernathy's Pay Off Girl, the greyhound that really lives up to her name, will be racing out of the number 4 box in the featured ninth race tonight. Her eight times out on the RMKC oval this year have seen her tally eight times in the money. She will be keeping company with Handy Lace, T.V. Shane, Konya, Bonnie Abbe, Chryser, Time Honor and Happy Hook.

Konstanty Likes Curve Ball Hurler in Relief

ONEONTA, N.Y. (AP) — "I always figured that a breaking ball pitcher would be more likely to get the record than a fastball pitcher," said Jim Konstanty.

Konstanty may have been a terrific relief pitcher but he's not much of a prophet.

Two fast ball pitchers — Boston's Dick Radat and John Wyatt of Kansas City — made their 75th appearance of the season Wednesday night, surpassing the record of 74 set by Konstanty with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1950.

Tad Polumbus To Miss Game With Beavers

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Colorado began tapering off its drills Wednesday as the home opener against Oregon State this weekend grew nearer.

The Buffuloes confined their practice work to charges against heavily padded reservists. Shortly after practice, coach Eddie Crowder announced that sophomore end Tad Polumbus would not see action in Saturday's game because of an ankle injury.

Academy High Stock Rises After Initial Victory Over Pueblo South

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Terry Mackey, the former miracle worker of Harrison's grid teams, has developed a potent football team in his first term at Air Academy High.

Mackey added another milestone of achievement in his short coaching career, including being voted the Pikes Peak League Coach of the Year last season when he guided the Harrison team to a remarkable 7-1 won-loss record. Last weekend Mackey's fired-up Kadets of Academy High defeated Pueblo South of the South Central League, 18-7.

This was the first time a Colorado Springs suburban team has defeated a SCL member and the aroused Kadets pulled out the stunning victory in the final period.

The Big Blue's victory over Pueblo South further indicates the Academy High's team strength and they should make the forthcoming Will Rogers League chase a two-team race with Cheyenne Mountain the slight favorite to cop the first championship. However, the talented Kadets have proven themselves on the gridiron in the last two outings defeating Pueblo South and highly regarded Thornton.

After dropping their season's opener to Boulder Fairview, Mackey has managed to get the kinks out and the Kadets have developed into a first rate ball club.

They proved this last weekend in Pueblo with a sterling come - from - behind finish to dump Pueblo South!

Mackey credited the victory to the sub-wingback, Scott Haney, who was recently coverted to a defensive specialist. Haney returned a South punt 68 yards to pull the Kadets ahead, 12-7, and ignited the Big Blue offensive which scored another TD to sew up the victory.

"Although our kids were outstanding on defense, it was Haney's punt return which gave our team the impetus to go ahead and pull out the win," Mackey stated.

"Haney really put forth a big effort to make that punt return go for a touchdown and Vance Wilson (tackle) made the key block which enabled him to score. We had two other linemen that deserve credit for their outstanding performance. They are John Parsons (center) and Bob Gosline (guard)," Mackey further stated.

"I had a feeling it would take a long drive to break open the game and Haney's brilliant run did just that," Mackey concluded.

Mackey also had special praise for his 175-pound fullback Roger Kaolick and tailback Bill Wood, who leads the Kadets in scoring and rushing.

* * *

Wood also did a great job in punting as the Rhode Island transfer student averaged a whopping 44.0 yards per kick. Wood's boots covered 40, 47, 50 and 57 yards from the line of scrimmage.

Despite the fact that the Kadet offensive drive stalled in the first three quarters, the Big Blue rallied in the fourth-quarter scoring all three TDs. In the first half, the Kadets failed to pick up a single first down and only compiled 19 yards rushing.

But the aroused Kadets came back strong in the fourth period to register the impressive victory.

* * *

Reds Proving Phillie Fans Wrong As National League Gap Closes

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Can 63,000 Philadelphians be wrong?

Yes, say the Cincinnati Reds, and they're playing as if they mean it.

The charging Reds defeated the National League-leading Phillies 6-4 Wednesday night for the third straight time and moved to within 3½ games of the top. No one has been that close to Philadelphia since San Francisco was three games out Aug. 11.

The Phillies' fifth loss in their last six games came, ironically enough, on the day they began accepting orders for World Series tickets. Postmen delivered 18 sacks of mail holding more than 63,000 ticket requests.

The Reds weren't accepting orders, but they had authoriation to print tickets. They also had optimism.

"We're smelling that Series money now, and we don't intend to let it go," said Vada Pinson, whose two homers in consecutive innings brought the Reds their seventh victory in eight games.

Philadelphia Manager Gene Mauch disagreed.

The Phillies have nine games remaining while Cincinnati, with three more losses than the leaders, has 10 to play.

The remaining Phillies' schedule has them hosting Milwaukee in a four-game series starting tonight, then traveling to St. Louis for three games before finishing with two at Cincinnati.

The Reds have an easier time — at least on paper — meeting the Mets in New York five times, then returning home for three games with Pittsburgh and the final two with the Phillies.

In other NL games Wednesday, New York nipped St. Louis 2-1, San Francisco defeated Houston 4-1, Pittsburgh trimmed Milwaukee 7-4 and Chicago downed Los Angeles 9-6.

Pinson's first homer, in the sixth inning, put the Reds ahead 2-1, but Alex Johnson retaliated with a two-run homer in the Phillies' sixth.

Then the Reds struck in the seventh. John Edwards and Leo Cardenas rapped singles and one out later, Pete Rose singled across Edwards with the tying run Pinson then drilled a three-run homer, his 23rd, over the right field wall.

The Cardinals lost a chance to climb when the Mets exploded for two runs in the seventh inning. Ed Kranepool doubled in Bobby Klaus, then scored the decisive run as pitcher Roger Craig picked up Ron Hunt's bunt and threw the ball past first base.

The victory, their 51st, tied the Mets' record set last season.

Juan Marichal became the majors' second 20-game winner, reaching that mark with a five-hitter over the Colts. Marichal, who has lost seven games, also became the first Giant to win 20 games in consecutive seasons since Carl Hubbell did it from 1933 through 1937.

Marichal received all of the support he needed when the Giants scored two runs in the sixth inning on Jose Pagan's single and triples by Harvey Kuenn and Matty Alou.

Larry Jackson posted his 22nd victory against 10 defeats for the Cubs. Billy Cowan and Len Gabrielson contributed homers to the Chicago attack while Ron Campbell and Ernie Banks added triples. Tommy Davis drove in four runs with two homers for Los Angeles.

The Pirates exploded for six runs in the second inning, the last three on Willie Stargell's inside-the-park home run.

Funk Has Own Style on Mat

The Southwestern junior heavyweight wrestling champion, Dory Funk is in a class by by himself on the mat. At least he has a style that's been copied from nobody and through years of experience he's gained a reputation as one of the best in the business.

He'll be one of the headliners this evening when professional wrestling returns to the City Auditorium with four bouts on tap. The first match is slated for 8:30 p.m., and tickets are available at the City Aud box office.

Funk is considered one of the very best with the drop kick, the flying tackle and the knee lift . . . just to mention a few of his specialties.

He usually relies on these three maneuvers to soften his opponent for the clincher. And that clincher of the match is a hold he perfected himself. It's the vicious outside, step-over toe hold — commonly known as the spinning toe hold. The match usually doesn't last long once he applies the hold.

The somewhat cocksure German is a native of Hammond, Ind., and he attended the University of Indiana where he played fullback on the football team and was a middleweight on the wrestling squad.

After graduation, Funk turned to the lure of professional wrestling and he divided his time between the ring and semi-pro football. In the Navy during World War II, Funk remained in Japan after the shooting and there learned jujitsu.

Also on tonigh's card will be Funk's son, Dory Jr., who will battle Tokyo Tom, Art Mielson against Ricky Romero, Red Raider against Black Bart and Funk against Larry Henning.

NY Has Four Reasons For Four Game AL Lead

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

There's Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris and Mel Stottlemyre and Pedro Ramos. All good reasons why the New York Yankees have taken an imposing four-game lead in the American League pennant race with only 10 games remaining.

But the Yankees may actually have started moving to the front of the pack when Yogi Berra stepped to the back of the bus.

That was the day the Yankee manager blew the whistle on Phil Linz and his harmonica playing, the discordant notes apparently resulting in a greater harmony that has carried the Yankees from 4½ games behind to four in front.

Since Linz went "toot, toot" on his $2.50 mouthpiece, the Yankees have played .727 ball with 24 victories in 33 games, including the sweep of a doubleheader from Cleveland 4-3 in 11 innings and 6-4 Wednesday night.

And Linz, who hasn't played his harmonica since Aug. 20, figures to get his chance soon. He has made this promise:

"If we clinch the pennant, I'll bring my harmonica into the dressing room and play a tune. The only notes I know now are 'Way Down Upon The Swanee River.'"

Lake Erie would be more fitting.

The doubleheader sweep against the Indians was the Yankees' second in two nights, gave them a 9-0 record at Cleveland this season and extended their latest winning streak to nine while lowering their magic pennant-clinching number to six.

Any combination of victories by the Yankees and losses by the runners-up will bring New York its fifth straight pennant.

Baltimore and Chicago wound up the day tied for second place, the Orioles losing to Detroit 10-3 while the White Sox defeated the Los Angeles Angels 2-1.

Though not impossible, the pennant chances of Baltimore and Chicago have almost vanished. Should the Yankees win only half of their 10 remaining games, the Orioles and White Sox would have to win all eight of their games to get a tie.

Ramos, who came to the Yankees from Cleveland Sept. 6, came on in relief to nail down both victories against the Indians. He pitched the 11th inning of the opener without allowing a hit and checked the Indians on one hit over the final 1 2-3 innings of the nightcap while striking out four.

Elston Howard stroked the key blow for the Yankees in the first game, a leadoff homer in the 11th. Howard also scored what turned out to be the decisive run in a three-run fifth inning uprising in the second game, racing home as reliever Tommy John uncorked a wild pitch.

The Orioles, who led the league just a week ago, made three errors and also helped the Tigers along with two passed balls while Bill Freehan led the Detroit romp with two doubles and a single for four runs batted in.

The Tigers moved ahead to stay in the fourth with two runs on one hit. After a passed ball by Dick Brown put Tigers on second and third, Dick McAuliffe hit a sacrifice fly and George Thomas scored on a grounder.

The White Sox won it in the ninth when Gene Stephens singled and came all the way home on a single by Gary Peters as the ball got by outfielder Bob Perry. That tagged the loss on 19-game winner Dean Chance, who made his first relief appearance since May 17.

Young America Football Kicks-Off Season With 16 Games Saturday

Nearly 1,000 youngsters on 37 teams start the 25th season of Young America League football-for-fun Saturday with 16 games at Memorial Park.

Players are split into three divisions — lightweight, middleweight and heavyweight. A rookie division, for boys in the fourth grade, will hold an independent practice and game schedule.

Teams will play each Saturday through Nov. 14 at 8:30 a.m. and 10 a.m. In addition, games are scheduled for Wednesdays at 4 p.m. through Nov. 4.

The lightweight division, composed of boys in the 5th and 6th grades with a 95-pound weight limit, is the largest section of the recreational program. Fourteen teams are divided into American and National Leagues. The middleweights, boys in the seventh grade with a 115-pound weight limit, have 11 teams in a single league. The heavyweights, eighth graders not exceeding 135 pounds, also have 11 teams.

New entries in the YAL program include Harrison Junior High in middleweight and heavyweight, Lewis Palmer in heavyweight, and Washington Irving Junior High in middleweight and heavyweight. In addition, teams outside of Colorado Springs include Ft. Carson, Air Force Academy, Fountain Jr. High and Deaf and Blind School.

Eight fields will be utilized at Memorial Park for all games. Five border Hancock Ave., one borders Pikes Peak Ave. and two others are arranged on the Memorial Park baseball field.

The lightweights will play a roundrobin schedule in their leagues. League champions will meet for the division title on Nov. 14. Deaf and Blind will play an independent schedule, contesting several teams from each league.

The middleweight division champion will be the team with the best won-lost record, as will the heavyweights. Due to school regulations, Fountain Jr. High will play only six games and Lewis Palmer will play only seven. Deaf and Blind School games will not count toward league standing.

Rookies, many playing organized football for the first time, will spend the first three or four weeks in two-a-week instruction under competent coaches, learning fundamentals. They then will play several practice games, but will not compete for a championship.

The YAL program was chartered in 1939. Two years before several local clubs played a city schedule. The Park and Recreation Department later took over the program and now issues uniforms and coaches for most teams.

Sports Group Seeking AFL Franchise

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Associated Sports Enterprises, a group that would like to land an American Football League franchise and operate it in Anaheim, will make a presentation to the City Council next Tuesday.

The group, made up of Orange County businessmen and civic leaders, will ask the council for permission to use Anaheim Stadium, now under construction.

One tenant already has been lined up for the municipally owned stadium. The Los Angeles Angels will move their franchise here in 1966.

What progress Associated Sports Enterprises has made in its bid for an AFL franchise is not known.

Four American Gals Vie for British Title

By THOMAS A. REEDY
Associated Press Writer

SANDWICH, England (AP) — The prospect of an all-American final in the 1964 British Women's Amateur Golf Championship loomed today as more than likely.

Four Americans, two British, one French girl and a Canadian teed off in the quarter-finals over the 6,017-yard par 73 Prince's course, and the odds were in Uncle Sam's favor.

There was some obstacle ahead for the Americans, however. Three of them were bracketed together, with only one to survive the firing over the 18-hole quarter-final and semifinal matches today. Nancy Roth of Hollywood, Fla., who was drawn in the lower bracket, was in the best position of the U.S. girls.

The 110-pound, 5-foot-4 Nancy played well in the American Curtis Cup victory over Britain at Porthcawl in Wales. She has played well here on the shore of the English Channel and was tipped by some experts as at least a finalist and perhaps the next champion.

Miss Roth meets Canada's Joanne Goulet, and if she survives then takes on the winner of the all-England battle between Bridget Jackson and Ann Rampton.

In the top bracket the Americans were virtually staring at each other. Phyllis Ann Preuss of Pompano Beach, Fla., engaged 19-year-old Catherine LaCoste of France. Barbara Fay White of Shreveport, La., took on Carol Sorenson of Janesville, Wis., in what promised to be the match of the day.

Wednesday's two rounds took their toll of some fine players. Among the victims were Brigitte Varangot of France, the defending champion, who lost 2 and 1 to Miss Roth, and England's Curtis Cup star Marley Spearman, who was knocked out by Miss Goulet 3 and 2.

Miss White, who has been at the peak of her game, lost some of her touch Tuesday but survived a poor round against Ireland's Ita Burke.

"I'll have to be better than that against Carol Sorenson," she said.

The petite Miss Roth conceded that being this far in the British Championship on her first foreign invasion appeared to her to be somewhat rarified atmosphere.

"But I don't mind," she said simply. "I am having a very good time. All our girls have played well and I believe it is because we had the experience of playing in the Curtis Cup. Quite a few girls came here from other countries sort of cold, and we had this advantage of being sharpened up."

Good weather with bright sun has held all week, rather surprisingly on this seaside course often plagued by autumn rains. But the wind has continued to be tricky and the mistress of the breezes will be the titleholder in the end.

Balding Grabs Early Lead In Greater Seattle Open

By JACK HEWINS
Associated Press Sports Writer

SEATTLE (AP) — Al Balding, a thin Canadian hungry for victory, led the pack today in pursuit of the loot in the $40,000 Greater Seattle Open golf tournament after shooting a six-under-par 64 in Wednesday's opening round.

Not since July have so many done so much with so little.

Fifty-three professionals carried sub-par scores into the second round, the golf tour's biggest assault on par since 59 cracked the standard in the first 18 holes of the Insurance City Open at Hartford, Conn., in July.

Shooting for his first major victory since winning the 1963 Canadian PGA crown, Balding had no choice but to keep putting pressure today on the Broadmoor layout's par-70.

Five pros as hungry as he were at his heels with 65s, another seven were clustered at 66, eight at 67, 10 at 68 and the rest of the 53 a t69. The field of more than 150 will be cut to 70—plus ties—for Friday's third trip around amiable Broadmoor and most of them anticipated the lowest cutoff point of the year.

The low mark was 143 at St. Petersburg in March.

Although scores were fantastic, Balding was one of the few who made the first round look easy. He never skidded over par and his most exhilarating shot was a 50-foot putt for one of his six birdies.

"I played horribly," said Bob Charles, the New Zealand southpaw who is thinner than Balding.

In spite of trouble with trees, traps and missed greens, Charles used a hot putter to earn a share of second place. He dropped one 40-footer, two of 30 feet and two more of nearly 20 for five of his seven birdies.

Bracketed with him at 65 were Johnny Pott, Al Geiberger, Frank Wharton and Jack McGowan. Bobby Nichols, the defending champion, was lost in the crowd of 68s along with Billy Casper, third ranking money winner on the tour.

King of the scramblers was Nick Locke, professional at a Portland, Ore., course also named Broadmoor. Locke hit one shot out of bounds, took six bogeys, had only three pars, but tallied seven birdies and eagled one hole by sinking a 100-yard wedge shot to come home in 69.

U. S. Open champion Ken Venturi was far back with a 72 and in need of a sensational round today to survive the cut.

Cheyenne Crushes Centennial

Coach Bob Grive's Cheyenne Mountain tennis team swept to its seventh consecutive victory this season when the Indians dumped visiting Pueblo Centennial Wednesday afternoon on their home courts.

The Cheyenne team scored an 8-1 victory over Pueblo Centennial with the Bulldogs only scoring a win in one of the three doubles sets.

The Indians won all six singles matches with top seeded Bill Pearce defeating Don Yaron, 6-0, 6-1. Other Cheyenne victors in singles play were Steve Walrod over Christy Bivin, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4; Dick Miller over Ralph Huddin, 6-3, 6-2; Fred Ritchie over Roger Crosby, 6-1, 7-5; Scott Lewis over Gary Beatty, 6-1, 6-4; and Mike Link over Bob Sakshang, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1.

In the doubles competition, the Cheyenne duo of Miller and Jon Williams downed Yaron and Bivin in a pro set, 8-6; and Cheyenne's Pearce and Walrod defeated Huddin and Beatty, 8-3. The Bulldogs picked up their single point when Crosby and Sakshang topped Ken Ormond and Greg Davis in pro set 8-3 triumph.

Next Monday the Indians attempt to record their eighth straight win when they tangle with the Canon City tennis team on their home courts at 3:30 p.m.

Association Will Give Awards To Top Athletes

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — The National Sportscasters and Sportswriters Association said today it will name outstanding athletes in selected categories during next year's sixth annual Granny awards program.

Winners of the new awards will be selected by the nation's more than 7,000 sportswriters and sportscasters, who already name a sportscaster and sportswriter each year.

The two-day program is held in Salisbury in April and is sponsored by citizens of Salisbury, who inaugurated it in 1960.

Era of Ara May Bring Honors Back to Irish

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — For the last decade Notre Dame football fans have had little to cheer other than going back to the two great chapters in Irish grid history — those of Knute Rockne and Frank Leahy.

With those pleasant and victorious memories, Irish followers are ready to cheer what has been dubbed the Era of Ara. Ara is Ara Parseghian, the new head coach who could bring Notre Dame back to the days of championship football.

In 13 years of coaching at Miami of Ohio and Northwestern, Parseghian's teams had a combined record of 75-41-2. When he took over Northwestern, the Wildcats had posted but one Big Ten triumph in three preceeding seasons.

Parseghian quickly changed all of that and developed the Wildcats into a power in one of the strongest leagues in the country.

Notre Dame opens its season Saturday at Wisconsin and a victory would be a step up since the Irish have a 4-19 record in their last 23 games against Big Ten opponents.

"Our side is adequate but we're lacking in depth and in team speed," is Parseghian's summation of the 1964 Irish. "This a hungry team, hungry for victory. That's good. Their willingness to work has really been something. Their attitude is wonderful."

Parseghian has done some shuffling to adjust for shortcomings. Jack Snow and Paul Costa, a couple of big backs, have been converted to end positions with pleasant results.

John Huarte will be the quarterback, a position which had been a headache to Hugh Devore last year and to Joe Kuharich in 1962. Neither Kuharich nor Devore could field a regular for the entire season at quarterback.

"Huarte's work was a pleasant surprise in spring practice and this has continued this fall. I have confidence in his ability," says Parseghian.

With his go-get-'em spirit, Ara might launch a new era in Notre Dame football history. But he has a long way to go. Rockne carved out a record of 105-12-5 from 1918 to 1930. Leahy's 11-season mark was 87-11-9.

Ex-Center Blasts Soft Pro Softball

NEW YORK (AP) — Alex Wojciechowicz, Fordham's star center of 30 years ago, put the blast on professional football today as "just glorified basketball."

Before one of the younger generation of pro fans cries "he's just an old fogey" let it be said that Alex played with the Philadelphia Eagles when they won the National Football League championship in 1948 and 1949. He first played with the Detroit Lions after his graduation from Fordham in 1938.

Wojey, as he was known in his days as one of Fordham's Seven Pillars of Granite in the famed scoreless ties with Jock Sutherland's Pitt Panthers in 1935-'36-'37, now lives in Atlantic Highlands, N.J., and is co-coach with Steve Van Buren of the Newark, N.J. club in the Atlantic Coast Football League.

"Heck, we hit harder in the Atlantic Coast League than they do in the NFL," he said.

"There's no punch today, no sustained running attack. It's just glorified basketball and you can quote me.

Broncos Put Lassiter On Waivers

DENVER (UPI) — Leroy Moore or Billy Akins were picked as probables Wednesday to replace defensive lineman Isaac Lassiter in the Denver Broncos' Sunday game here against Houston.

Coach Jack Faulkner placed Lassiter on waivers, but he was not claimed. He will be ineligible for 16 days under American Football League rules.

Organization, Not Luck, Reason For Yankee Successes -- Tebbets

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Lucky Yankees? Choke-up Orioles and White Sox?

Don't try to peddle that line of talk to Birdie Tebbetts, manager of of the Cleveland Indians, reeling from New York's two-day sweep of a four-game series which put the Yankees on the threshold of another American League pennant.

"There's not an ounce of luck in it, it has to be the organization," said the articulate, sharp-witted Cleveland pilot, relaxing in his dressing room after the Yanks won 4-3 in 11 innings and 6-4 in Wednesday's twilight-night doubleheader.

"When they get in trouble, they just reach down in their system and bring up a man who bails them out. Like this young fellow Stottlemyre (rookie pitcher Mel Stottlemyre).

"They lose White Ford and things look bad. Then they call up Stottlemyre and before sports writers learn to spell his name he has won eight games, and the Yankees are on top again."

"They lose Whitey Ford and like Jim Bouton (17-13) and Al Downing (13-8). You can't call it luck at all. You've got to call it organization."

The latest victories made nine straight for the bounce-back Yankees, their 13th in 15 games and 24th in the last 31. Since Aug. 20 when they were six games out of first place. they have moved four games ahead of the sagging Baltimore Orioles and Chicago White Sox.

Tebbetts refuses to subscribe to one popular theory that teams such as the Orioles and White Sox shiver at the sight of the traditional Yankee pinstripes and, in the late season heat of a close pennant race, collapse from sheer fright.

"If anything, they have shown us that the day of the Yankee cake-walk is over. The Yankees have had to fight this year — and they haven't won it yet. Next year, it'll be closer.

"We have a lot of talent in this league — a lot of good clubs. I think Detroit right now is the best team in the league, and that includes the Yankees."

The Cleveland manager said the basis of the Yankees' success, besides a good farm organization, lay in the strength of its defense.

JACKSON WINS NO. 22 — Chicago Cubs pitcher Larry Jackson, in this view through the screen behind home plate at Chicago, put one across against Los Angeles Dodgers' pinch-hitter Willie Crawford in the sixth inning of the game Wednesday. Jackson went on to win his 22nd game of the year. Crawford hit a later pitch for a single but failed to get beyond first. Umpire is Ed Sudol and catcher is Dick Bartell. Cubs won, 9-6. McKinley, Ralston May Be in Last Davis Cup

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston have a special incentive in the Davis Cup Challenge Round this week-end — both admit it may be their last.

McKinley, 24, plans to abandon the international tennis circuit after this year and concentrate on a career in stocks and bonds. Ralston, 22, is seriously eyeing the pros.

"If we should lose the Davis Cup, I definitely wouldn't be available to go to Australia," McKinley, recent graduate of Trinity University in San Antonio, Tex., said today. "I wouldn't have time.

"I plan to go into business — the financial end of it, maybe Wall Street. I might play Wimbledon but I wouldn't take a month out of the summer to make the tour."

Ralston, 22 with another year to go at the University of Southern California, acknowledged that he was more than casually interested in joining the pros.

"I would like to win Wimbledon or our championship first, but that's not essential," he added. "If we won here and I got a good offer, I'd probably take it."

Ralston and McKinley, who wrested the cup from the Australians last year in Adelaide, will try to defend it in tennis' world finals Friday, Saturday and Sunday on the green clay composition court of the Harold T. Clark Stadium.

They will play both singles and doubles against the heavily favored Australian tandem of Roy Emerson and Fred Stolle.

The draw was scheduled at 11 a.m. EST today at a midtown hotel, arrangin gpairings for the three-day, best-of-five match series.

The first two singles matches will be played Friday, starting at 12:30 p.m., EST. The doubles, sending McKinley-Ralston against Emerson-Stolle, start at 1 p.m., EST Saturday, with the final singles reversing pairings Sunday.

The presence of the 27-year-old Emerson on the Australian team gives the challengers a conceded edge. The tough, nut-brown Queenslander is the acknowledged No. 1 amateur in the world, winner of the Australian, Wimbledon and American championships.

In any world rankings Stolle, a tall, stylish attacker with a big serve and volley game, would have to be placed second. He was runner-up to Emerson at both Wimbledon and Forest Hills.

The Americans, however, are counting on the soft clay surface to take some of the zing out of Stolle's powerful game and make him a sitting duck for both McKinley and Ralston. Then the yanks might concede the Australians Emerson's two points and still keep the cup by winning the doubles, in which they have the more experienced team.

In the draw, the Americans are hoping that the names of Ralston and Emerson are pulled out for the first match.

Ralston has a good record against the top Aussie, winning two of their four meetings on grass, and he has the kind of all-around game to give Emerson trouble. Emerson owns McKinley.

"If I get Emmo (Emerson)in the first match, I think I have a good chance of winning it," Ralston said. "If we could beat Emerson, we could really jar up the Aussies."

Harry Hopman, the Australian captain, said he had no preference for the fall or the draw. "Every player has to play each of the others," he said. "It makes no difference."

Statistics Prove Rams Have Best Defense in NFL

NEW YORK (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams have the biggest defensive line in the National Football League with Lamar Lundy, 6-foot-7, 250 pounds, Merlin Olsen, 6-5, 275, Rosey Grier, 6-5, 291 and Dave Jones 6-4, 260. The latest statistics indicate they also have the best over-all defense in the league.

The defensive unit that Coach Harland Svare has fashioned in the Coliseum leads the NFL because it has allowed only 354 yards in two games. The Rams rank third on rushing defense with 159 and top the heap in pass defense with 195.

The Rams also have allowed the fewest points, 31, the fewest first downs, 22, the fewest first downs passing, 10.

Dutch Van Brocklin's Vikings are first in rushing with 421 yards; passing, 455 yards and total offense, 876 yards. Surprising Philadelphia is second, followed closely by St. Louis, Dallas and Green Bay in total offense.

Conversely, the leakiest defense belongs to the Baltimore Colts, who have given up 771 yards, and the least potent offense, despite an upset of New York, is Pittsburgh with a total of 381 yards in two games.

Adcock Lost to Angels With Broken Thumb

LOS ANGELES (AP) — First baseman Joe Adcock will be lost to the LOS Angeles angels for the remainder of the season with a broken left thumb, the club learned Wednesday.

Houston, Texas A&M to Resume Annual Rivalry With Aggies Holding Edge

HOUSTON (AP) — The University of Houston and Texas A&M clash in their 13th football game Friday night with the Aggies holding a one game edge.

A&M has won five times, Houston four and three have ended in ties.

The Aggies, generally picked to finish near the bottom of the Southwest Conference standings, looked good in losing a close one to highly rated Louisiana State in the season opener last week.

Although LSU won the game 9-6, Aggie Coach Hank Foldberg said he was pleased with his team's performance. Independent Houston opened its season two weeks ago downing Trinity University 34-7 but was beaten 30-0 by strong Auburn last week.

Foldberg praised the work of senior quarterback Dan McIlhany in the LSU game. He said he liked the way the quarterback threw the ball and added his one interception was not his fault.

"It was one of those tip things, not a poor throw," he said.

However, he warned his players that Houston was a much better team than the Auburn score indicated. He said Auburn scored nine legitimate points and the rest were gifts.

Meanwhile, the Cougars have made changes in their offensive unit, notably increasing the work load at quarterback for sophomore Bo Burris and giving Mickey Don Thompson a shot at right half. Thompson had been playing defensive end.

Foldberg said the Aggies came out of the LSU contest in good physical condition. Houston Coach Bill Yeoman said senior halfback Rocky Hernandez is listed as a doubtful starter. He is suffering from a dislocated shoulder. He said there were no major injuries in the Auburn game.

A near capacity crowd of 35,500 is expected in Jeppesen Stadium for the 8 p.m. kickoff.

Markham Golf Tourney Begins

Texan Who Broke Tie Runs for Senate Seat

By RELMAN MORIN

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — On Sept. 24, 1948, a tall Texan named Charley Gibson had a headache and it almost cost Lyndon B. Johnson a seat in the U.S. Senate.

Fortunately for Johnson, Gibson found an aspirin in time to cast one of the most critical votes in Johnson's political life, a vote that broke a deadlock.

"I voted 'aye,' that is for Lyndon," Gibson says today. "And then somebody pushed over the chair I was standing on, and to this day I don't know whether it was friend or foe."

In 1948, Johnson, then a congressman, ran for the Democratic nomination for the Senate. His opponent was Coke Stevenson, erstwhile governor of Texas.

"Coke figured to win," Gibson says. "He was well known and he had a good organization. But Lyndon simply out-campaigned him."

The election was a cliff-hanger, with Johnson finally ahead by 87 votes out of nearly a million cast. A fight developed over charges of fraudulent voting. The majority report of the party canvassing committee, however, showed Johnson with 494,191 votes to Stevenson's 494,104. A minority report disagreed with the figures.

In September, the Democratic Executive Committee met in Fort Worth to vote on the proposition:

"All those in favor of certifying the name of Lyndon Baines Johnson for Democratic nominee for the U.S. Senate say 'aye.'"

Gibson, a member of the executive committee, wasn't present when the balloting began.

"I had a headache," he says, "and I left the convention to look for an asprin. I didn't think they'd get around to voting for several hours."

He found the tablet, "visited for a while with a friend," and returned to the convention.

He found that the roll had been called and the result was a tie 28-28.

"Lyndon's friends were looking for me and they yelled for me to quick get in and vote. They knew I was for Lyndon," Gibson says.

"But the crowd around the door was so thick I couldn't get in. So I stood on a chair and caught the chairman's attention and cast the vote that broke the tie.

"It thrilled me to death to cast that vote and I've never regretted it." Gibson says.

A double ring ceremony Aug. 23 at the First Presbyterian Church of Fort Morgan united in marriage Miss Katherine Louise Simpson and Larry Alan Little. The Rev. Frank L. McCormick was officiating minister. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Clyde L. Simpson, of Fort Morgan, and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Little, of Penrose. Music was provided by Mrs. Carr, organist, and Arman Schutz, vocalist, who sang, "One Hand, One Heart" and "Wedding Prayer."

The bride was attired in a peau de soie gown designed with a bell skirt and chapel length train. An orchid lace jacket with long sleeves embroidered with seed pearls was worn over the gown. A lace flower crown outlined in seed pearls and embroidered with crystals secured the finger tip veil. She carried a cascade of yellow roses with ivy and stephanotis.

Mrs. Mildred Ewing, of Denver, was the matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Carol Jones, of Florence; Miss Paula Novak, Pueblo, and Miss Linda Jung, Fort Morgan. They were attired in apricot taffeta sheath style gowns with silk organza over the taffeta. Each carried crescents of white pom pom mums and carnations.

Best man for the bridegroom was Bill Hambric, of Penrose. Groomsmen were Mike Simpson, Bob Ewing and John Behrendt.

At the reception which followed the guest book was submitted by Carol Zambo. Those serving were Iola Behrendt and Ernestine Carrithers. The bride was graduated from Florence High School. The bridegroom graduated from Penrose High School and attended Pueblo Junior College. He is employed as office manager for Ward Transport Inc. of Pueblo.

Following a honeymoon to Yellowstone Park the young couple will reside in Penrose at the Beaiur Park Water Co. Apartments.

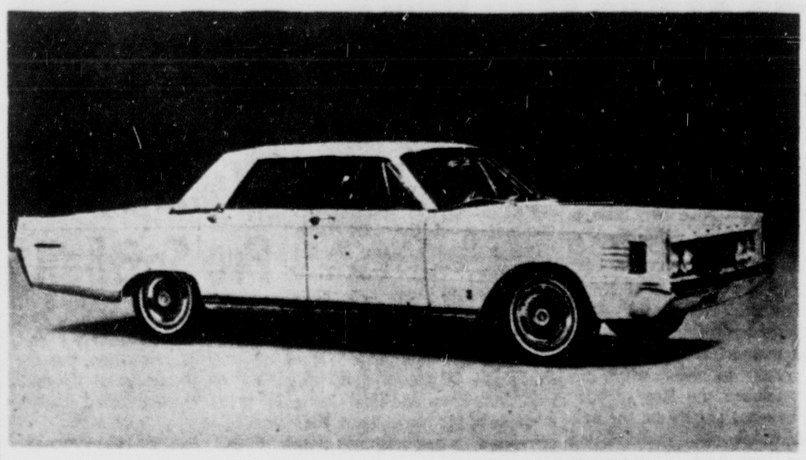

Reds Reject Standing U.N. Finance Group

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union has rejected a U.S. proposal for the creation of a standing U. N. finance committee to apportion assessments among member nations for peacekeeping operations.

Soviet delegate Viktor F. Ulanchev told the General Assembly's 21-nation working group on peacekeeping finances Wednesday that the proposal was a device to circumvent the Security Council's powers.

The plan called for the committee to originate all financial arrangements for peacekeeping operations. The committee's recommendations would require approval by a two-thirds majority vote of the assembly.

Arguments on Civil Rights To Be Heard

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Hugo L. Black of the Supreme Court has stayed enforcement of a ruling by a three-judge federal court that declared unconstitutional part of the new civil rights law.

The ruling involved a Birmingham, Ala., restaurant.

The high court plans to hear arguments on the case Oct. 5, immediately after hearing an Atlanta, Ga., case in which three federal judges upheld the constitutionality of the rights law's public accommodations section.

"It is an established rule of law that courts of equity will not exercise their power to enjoin enforcement of an Act of Congress except under the most imperative or exigent circumstances," Black said in granting the stay.

He said he had been authorized by the five other judges here to say the court is willing to hear the case when it opens its fall session Oct. 5.

On Aug. 10, Black refused to block enforcement of the civil rights law in the Atlanta case.

The Birmingham case involves Ollie's Barbecue, a restaurant owned by Ollie McClung Sr. and his son, Ollie Jr. It is located several blocks from the nearest interstate travel.

The Atlanta case involves a motel owned by Moreton Rolleston and a restaurant owned by Lester Maddox which is located adjacent to an interstate highway and thus close to interstate commerce.

Longer Mercury for 1965 At Bob Foss Motors Friday

The 1964 Mercury, three inches longer and more luxurious than in 1964, will go on display Friday at Bob Foss Motors Inc., Pikes Peak at Wahsatch. Showrooms will be open until 10 p.m.

Conceived, developed and crafted in the Lincoln Continental tradition, the new Mercury brings to the medium-priced field new standards of comfort and engineering excellence.

Even in its styling, the Mercury for 1965 resembles the Lincoln Continental with its clean, classic look of elegance and formality.

The new Mercury has a 123-inch wheelbase, is 218.4-inches in over-all length and features new frame design, front and rear suspension, and rigid body construction.

The mercury will be available in a broad selection of 15 models in three series, Monterey, Montclair and Park Lane. There will be six roof lines, including the Breezeway four-door sedan, again unique in the industry. Other roof lines are the conventional two-door and four-door sedan, a formal four-door hardtop, a two-door fastback hardtop, plus the convertible an the station wagon.

The appearance of the Mercury, is dominated by slim blade-like front fenders and flat, uncluttered side panels, similar to the Continental. Slender parking lights at the extreme edge extend from bumper to fender top. Tall, vertical taillights frame the wide, clean trunk lid, so that the crisp rear frontal styling character.

Mercury's reputation as an outstanding road car is strengthened for 1965 with engineering advances in body, frame, suspensio nand steering. The over-all design nests the body deep into the new torque box frame, increasing the floor space and the body interior height, while the over-all height of the car is decreased. The torque box frame is lighter and absorbs more of the road shocks, preventing them from being transmitted to the passenger. More interior spaciousness is gained in the driver's compartment, too, with a reduction in transmisson tunnel and a recessed instrument panel.

Better balanced road stance is obtained by increasing trea to 62 inches, up one inch in front and two inches in rear. New front and rear suspensions inprove roadability. The drag strut frot suspension permits compliance fore and aft when the front wheels encounter uneven road surfaces. The rear suspension is a new coil spring cushion-link design which gives a softer ride than the leaf springs formerly used in the Mercury.

Improvements in steering include a reduction in over-all steering ratio and a new power steering pump. Wheel diameter is increased from 14 to 15 inches, contributing to better braking and longer brake lining life. Low-profile tires lengthen tire life.

A new emergency signal system, which puts front and rear parking lights on a flasher cycle, is available for all models. Another safety feature is a mechanical switch mounted on the brake pedal arm which turns on the stop lights when the car decelerates.

Mercury again offers its husky 390-cubic-inch displacement V-8 engines as standard in all models. They are teamed with standard three-speed manual transmissions, three-speed automatic and four-speed manual transmissions to suit all driving conditions and driver preferences. Horsepower ranges from 250 to 330. A higher performance optional engine of 427-cubic-inch displacement is available with two four-barrel carbureators. It is rated at 425 horsepower.

The accelerator pedal is suspended, allowing greater flexibility of foot angle and eliminating binding and dirt collection which occurs with conventional pedals attached to the floor.

A deep-well trunk is gained by mounting the gas tank vertically. Room is created for an additional two-suiter, and it is easier to load because the trunk sill is lowered 5.4 inches.

Mercury for 1965 is so new that even the keys were changed. The teeth on both sides of the Mercury key are identical so that it can be put into the ignition or door lock "upside down."

Attempt to Restore Severed Arm Fails

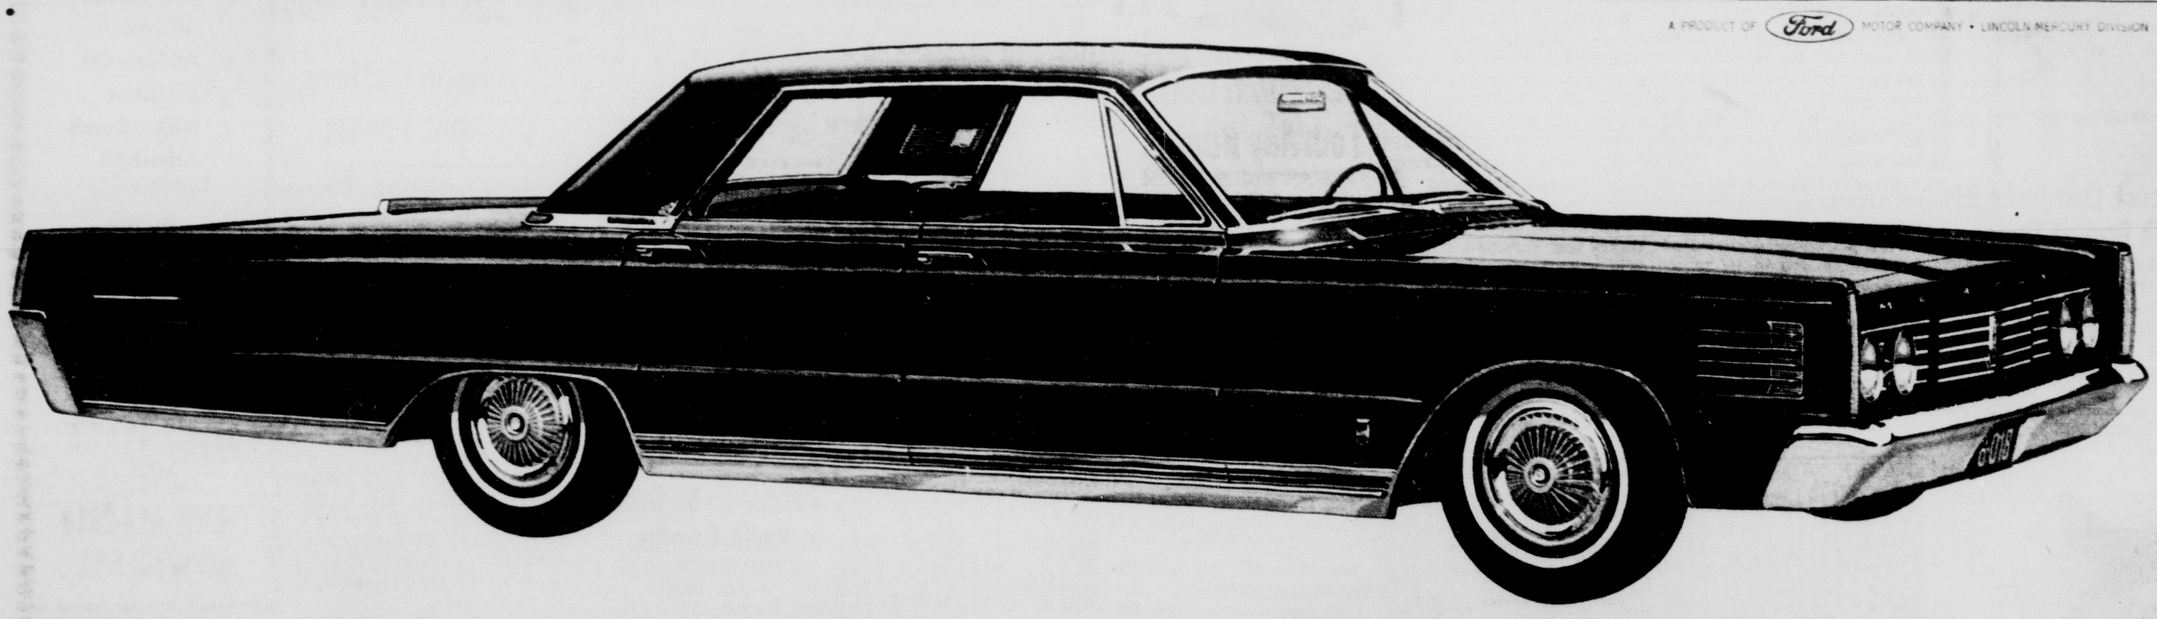

WREXHAM, Wales (AP) — An attempt to restore the severed arm of an 18-year-old girl has failed.

The girl's condition deteriorated Wednesday. The arm was removed and the girl was reported improving.

His remarks will be made during a noon luncheon Saturday in Taylor Hall at Colorado College.

SMART BUSINESS STRATEGY

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — One of the first businessmen to arrive at the 1964 Iowa State Fair was a 12-year-old lad, who began his fourth year as a shoeshine boy at the exposition.

He approaches fair visitors and offers to shine their shoes for a nickel. And when they ask him why he charges so little, he explains:

"If I tell a man I'll shine his shoes for a nickel he says 'go ahead,' and he usually gives me a quarter or at least a dime. But if I tell him a shine is 15 cents or a quarter he won't even let me get started."

Chipita Park News

By MRS. JENNIE WYATT — 684-9612

At a recent meeting of the stockholders of the Chipita Park Company, held at the offices of the company in Chipita Lodge, members of the Board of Directors were elected: Howard C. Wilson, president; O. Bruce Goffe, Pueblo, vice president; Dr. Claud F. Young, Washington, D. C., treasurer; Conrad T. Wilson, Chipita Park, secretary manager, and Joan W. Wilson, Chipita Park, assistant secretary. At the meeting, activities during the past year were discussed and plans for the coming year were announced. Serving as caretaker for the coming year will be Rex Speckman.

Mrs. John Early, of Lufkin, Tex., was a recent visitor in the Park. Mr. and Mrs. Early own a home on Fountain Road which is presently occupied by Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Copeland.

Nearing completion on the corner of Picabo and Shoshone Roads is the attractive A-frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Schnellinger.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hoey, of Colorado Springs, have purchased the home of Ruth Dils Hendricks.

J. O. Anderson and Roy C. Stout, of Colorado Springs, have purchased the Will Speed cottage on Mohawk Trail.

Fall and Winter schedule for garbage collection has been announced by the Chipita Park Company. Garbage will be collected every Monday morning until next June, weather permitting. Because of extremely dry weather, fire danger in the forest remains high. When the weather permits, road grading is planned. In case of snow or high winds on regular garbage collection days, collection will be delayed. Inquiries in regard to the various services should be directed to Conrad Wilson, manager.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Harder, of Plainview, Tex., have purchased the home of Dr. and Mrs. Francis Shields on Timpa Road.

Judge and Mrs. Ben F. Wilson, of Houston, Tex., are occupying their home on Maveta Road through the month of September.

Mr. and Mrs. Clem A. Robertson of Colorado Springs, have purchased the Romans Smith home on Mesa Road.

A United Fund coffee for the Ute Pass Volunteers will be held at Chipita Lodge at 9:30 a.m., Monday, Sept. 28. Hostess will be Joan Wilson, local chairman. Addressing the group on the aims and plans of the United Fund of the Pikes Peak Region will be Mrs. Thomas Fischer, of Colorado Springs. Volunteer workers this year are: Cascade, Jean Anderson, Sue Carson, Lucia Church, Jennie Wyatt, Donna Kohl and Jean Sanborn; Chipita Park, Joan Hey, Dolly Jones, and Maxine VanArnsdale; Green Mountain Falls, Betty Beal, JoNell Ewart, Carolyn Houchin, Helen Knight, Margaret Longacre and Helen Quinn. Volunteers will solicit contributions from those residents who have not contributed through the places of business. United Fund agencies, consisting of some 33 organizations, benefit all residents of the Ute Pass Communities. Among these are: American Red Cross, Colorado Springs Day Nursery, Family Counseling Service, Legal Aid Society, Salvation Army, Boy Scouts, Boys Club, Camp Fire Girls, Girl Scouts, USO, YMCA, YWCA, American Social Health Association, American Hearing Society, Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, El Paso County Association for Mental Health, Retarded Children Inc., Multiple Sclerosis Society of Colorado, United Cerebral Palsy of Colorado Springs, United Health Foundations, visiting Nurse Association, plus other state and National United Fund Agencies. New residents and others who are not otherwise contacted and wish to make a contribution to the United Fund, regardless of size, are asked to call Joan Wilson, 684-9367, and one of your neighbor volunteers will call upon you.

Mr. and Mrs. Ren Gregg have purchased the Henry Baker home on Picabo Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker were recent visitors in the Park.

Mrs. O. S. Shore entered Penrose Hospital for observation and treatment Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Dave Walker attended a committee meeting on preparing the schedule for the Flower Show at the State Fair in Pueblo Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Smith on Lake Ave. in Pueblo.

Mrs. Virginia Cox, has been spending the past two weeks at Layton, Utah, with her daughter, Mrs. Steven Kuhn, and family. They are stationed at the Hill Air Force Base, where he is in training.

The mixed classic bowling team sponsored by KRDO bowled Friday night. They are in second place, with 6 wins and 2 losses. Total pins being 4105.

West Berliners May Get Through Red Wall

BONN, West Germany (UPI) —The West German cabinet today approved a new agreement to give West Berliners passes through the Communist wall, a government spokesman said.

The new agreement would allow West Berliners to visit relatives in East Berlin four times a year, informed sources said. The spokesman said disclosure of details would have to await signing of the agreement.

The spokesman said the agreement probably will be signed Thursday.

Quiet Seacoast Town in Maine Makes Comeback

By ROBERT H. BOONE

BLUE HILL, Maine (AP) — This quiet seacoast village, prosperous in the bygone era of sailing ships, now hopes to strike it rich as a mining town.

It has long been known that metals-copper, zinc and lead-silver ores - lie beneath rocky soil about two miles outside town. A copper mining operation was carried on briefly in the 1880s and again in 1917.

But only recently has the value of the ore - perhaps as much as $100 million - been realized and the possibility of extracting it been judged feasible.

On July 29 the first metal mining venture north of Virginia in 30 years got underway at Blue Hill when Gov. John H. Reed set off a dynamic blast beginning a 1,300-foot shaft to the ore body. Work on the shaft is now going on.

Thus far the new mining activity has not ruffled the serenity of the Hancock County resort community.

But Blue Hill has known more hectic days.

Its busy harbor echoed to the sounds of shipbuilding, sawmills, a cotton mill and granite quarries during the 19th Century. In those days, when small industries could be operated profitably, Blue Hill and many other now-forgotten towns along the Maine coast thrived.

But with industrial progress and the passage of years the town mellowed. The mills went out of existence; ships no longer called. Blue Hill's populations declined by nearly a third-to its present 1,300 persons.

Now the community has a new economic lease on life.

The mining is being done by Black Hawk Mining Co. Ltd., a subsidary of Denison Mines Ltd. of Toronto, a large Canadian uranium producer.

It is a rare example of a Canadian mining company controlling an operation in the United States.

The ore body is estimated to contain several million tons - with a mining potential of 10 to 20 years.

Black Hawk eventually plans to build a mill to concentrate the ore. The company expects to employ 200 to 300 men with an annual payroll of $1.5 million.

Spruce-covered, 950-foot Blue Hill gives the town its name, and has formed the backdrop for its 200 years of history.

IT FIGURES

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The state capitol building of Texas contains 500 rooms and has 18 acres of floor space. It was built in the three-year period 1885-1888 of pink granite from Marble Falls, Tex.

The building is 528 feet long and 290 feet wide, not counting steps. Its great dome is 311 feet high, making the Texas capitol second in size only to the national capitol.

Mercury Comet for 1965 Has New Appearance

The 1965 Mercury Comet, with an entirely new appearance and major mechanical advances, will be displayed Friday at Bob Foss Motors Inc., Pikes Peak at Wahsatch. The showrooms will remain open until 10 p.m. the day of the unveiling.

The car is wider, yet sleeker. The sporty Cyclone series has its own distinctive grille and ornamentation.

Mechanical improvements include power train advances, more responsive steering, a new electrical system, better ride and increased comfort, and new low-profile tires. A wider choice of new options and accesesories is offered.

Over - all dimensions are changed only slightly, with width increased 1.5 inches. Wheelbase remains at 114 inches. Wheelbase remains at 114 inches, offering maneuverability, with the ride and handling characteristics of larger cars.

Front end sheet metal — hood and fenders — are new for all models, along with new bumper, grille, vertical headlamps and ornamentation. Two- and four-door sedans have a new, crisp roof, giving these models a tailored look.

Rear end sheet metal — deck lid, rear quarter panels and back panels — bumper and taillamps are new for all except station wagons. Taillamps and rear ornamentation are new for station wagons.

Interiors feature a restyled instrument panel with all circular dials, plus exciting new trim schemes and fabrics. The Cyclone hs a tachometer as standard equipment and elapsed time clock and vacuum gauge optional.

Series and model line-up for 1965 remains unchanged. Base series is the 202, intermediate series the 404, luxury series the Caliente, and the Cyclone. Bucket seats are available in four of the 11 models.

A new 200-cubic inch, 120 horsepower six-cylinder engine with seven main bearings is offered both with standard and three-speed automatic transmission. Comet's optional three-speed automatic transmission teamed to a 2.83 rear axle ratio, offers improvements in both performance and economy.

Increased V-8 performance for the 1965 Mercury Comet is offered with the 289-cubic-inch engine, an option in 1964 which becomes the standard V-8. With a higher 9.3 compression ratio, this V-8 is rated at 200 horsepower with a two barrel carburetor and is designed to operate on regular grade fuel. Two optional V-8s with four barrel carbureators are offered to operate on premium fuel, a new 225 horsepower version and a high performance 271 horsepower version which powered the Comets during the 100,000 Mile Daytona Durability Run. The 225 horsepower V-8 is standard on the Cyclone. Improvements for performance and durability have been made in the 289-cubic-inch engine. An optional power-transfer rear axle is available.

Steering improvements are achieved from new manual steering linkage on V-8s, a new power steering pump which is quieter and more efficient, and a reduction in a power steering ratio. An optional ride and handling package for the Cyclone includes a 21.6 to one manual steering ratio and stiffer suspension.

Improvements in ride and comfort are obtained with softer, lower rate front springs and new materials in the sound insulation package.

New low profile 6.95 x 14-inch tires provide more traction, longer tread life and less heat build-up at high speeds.

A new convenience option to improve vision is the interval selector windshield wiper and washer system which provides intermittent action for light rains and continuous wiper action for downpours. A remote-control deck lid release is optional.

Continued are such popular options as power steering, power brakes, air conditioning, and, in V-8 models, a four-speed manual transmission. Also continued are the service-saving features of self-adjusting brakes, 36,000-mile major lubrication, and oil and oil filter change at 6,000-mile intervals.

Unemployed workers on Cyprus are said to be "sitting," which they do all day to avoid stimulating their appetites.

Contraband Goods Flourish In Egypt Capital

By MAURICE GUINDI

CAIRO (UPI) — Frustrated customs officials are pondering how to stop a thriving sidewalk trade in contraband which openly flouts import restrictions.

Walking along the main streets in downtown Cairo, you frequently come across foreign-made goods spread on blankets or stacked on wooden contraptions on the sidewalks.

They are all things you cannot find in any law - abiding shopkeeper's store — American soap and cosmetics, Japanese transistors, Australian canned cheese, British shaving blades an chocolates, Dutch toothpaste and Swiss instant coffee.

The government has banned the import of such items either because it considers them luxury goods or because they are produced locally. The ban is in line with President Gamal Abdel - Nasser's policy of saving the country's small hard currency earnings for industrial and other development projects.

The contraband goods seep into the country overland from Libya and the Gaza sector and from ships calling at Alexandria, Port-Said and Suez. They also come with passengers on more than 800 planes which land at Cairo Airport every month. The smugglers are helped by the small size of most of the items involved.

Efforts by the Customs authorities to block the incoming flow of contraband have had little success. And the proof is there on sidewalks in the heart of Cairo where the smuggled wares are on display. A 500-yard stretch of Sherif Street in the center of the city features seven or eight such mobile shops.

The contraband peddlers are doing excellent business despite their high prices. A small-size cake of American soap sells for 14 piastres (about 33 cents), a 1-lb. can of Australian cheese for 40 piastres (about 90 cents) and a single - wave Japanese transistor for 15 pounds (35 dollars).

Those who can afford it, and there are many in Cairo and the big cities, buy because they believe quality is better than local production and because they cannot find the merchandise elsewhere.

The sidewalk trade is conducted on a smaller scale in Alexandria, Port-Said, Suez and other major cities.

The customs Administation's dilemma has been worsened by a ruling handed down by the State Council, the nation's highest administrative court, which said that it was up to Customs to prove whether and how the goods are smuggled and not for the dealers to prove that their goods had been obtained legally. Another Council ruling exonerates passengers who evade payment of customs duties on banned items they bring into the country once they are out of the customs zone at airports, harbors and border posts.

Customs officials were also disheartened by the lenient view taken of the problem in the higher echelons of government.

Premier Aly Sabry, who personally replied for the government, conceded that it was illicit trade but said the government preferred to look at it from the human rather than legal side. He said the number of contraband peddlers was people who did not have the means to open shops and do legal business.

"Before we think of taking action against them, we must think of trying to find decent, legal work for them," Sabry said.

British Pull Several Ships From Maneuvers

LONDON (UPI) — Several British ships have been withdrawn from the massive NATO maritime exercise "Teamwork currently being held in the Norwegian sea, it was announced Wednesday.

A U.S. Navy spokesman said the ships were withdrawn "to take part in other commitments, such as the Maltese independence celebrations."

A Soviet Kotlin class destroyer, spotted Tuesday, still was trailing the giant armada, said to be the largest task force in the Atlantic since World War II.

Introducing Comet 1965:

livelier, more beautiful sequel to the World's Durability Champion

We couldn't make Comet much tougher, so we made it more beautiful. Made the outside sleeker, sportier—from every angle. Made the interiors more luxurious. Made every engine bigger, from the thrifty 200 cu.-in. Comet "6" up through the hefty new 289 cu.-in. Cyclone Super V-8 (225 hp). Made the ride even smoother, more solid and silent.

The one thing not new in this racy '65 sequel is the stamina that made Comet the World's 100,000-Mile Durability Champion. And you wouldn't want that to change, would you? It didn't.

Mercury Comet

New Dodges to Be Displayed At Marksheffel Motor Co.

This new Dodge models, designed to compete in the highest volume sectors of the automobile market, will go on display Friday at Marksheffle Motor Co., 22 N. Cascade Ave.

There are 50 Dodge models for 1965, with sweeping changes in appearance, exterior size and interior roominess.

The new styling of the entire Dodge line emphasizes a long lean silhouette, with new dimensions in width. A new six-window body style makes its first appearance in the Custom 880 series.

The complete 1965 Dodge line offers buffable acrylic enamels in 19 color and 73 color trim codes, automatic transmissions lever located on the steering wheel column, and improved engines and drive trains for more powerful yet quieter and longer operation.

The 1965 Dodge Dart will remain the biggest compact in the industry with its 111-inch wheelbase. It has all new front end with new grille, hood and bigger bumpers.

The rear end has been sculptured to enhance new oval tail lamps. The entire car looks wider than ever before.

The 20 Dart models for 1965 are in three series: Dart, Dart 270 and the Dart GT. For the first time a 2 - door hardtop is available in the Dart 270 series. The Dart GT offers a vinyl roof in hardtop models for the first time.

Power train and engine refinements have been engineered to bring improved distrubutor operation, longer spark plug life, stronger and quieter electrical components and improved starting. An improved automatic transmission with higher torque capacity is introduced to give a more durable transmission life.

The Dart has four engine options. The 170 - cubic - inch 6 - cylinder is standard. A 225-cubic-inch six, and a 273-cubic-inch V-8 engine are optiinal. The most powerful powerplant is a 273- cubic - inch V-8 with four-barrel carburetor and tuned exhaust.

With a 117 - inch wheelbase, the all - new line of Coronet is the largest in the intermediate-size field. There are three series, Coronet, Coronet 440 and Coronet 500, in five body styles: 4 - door sedan, 2 - door hardtop, 2 - door sedan, convertible and station wagon.

Eight different engines are available for the new Dodge Coronet line. These range in size from the economical 225-cubic - inch, six - cylinder engine to the 426 - cubic - inch "Hemi - Charger" V-8 developed especially for use in sanctioned, competitive stock car events.

The 121-inch wheelbase Dodge Polara for 1965 has an over-all length of 212.3 inches. New styling emphasizes greater width and length and roomier interior dimensions. The combination of an expansive grille and massive bumper gives the Polara a broad, solid quality. The roof appears level and thinner, yet is structurally stronger. Curved side windows are standard. New large delta - shaped tail lamps set the car apart from all others.

The new 383 - cubic - inch engine, with a two - barrel carburetor is the standard V - 8 for the Polara. A four - barrel carburetor higher compression ratio version is also offered. Optional are a 413 - cubic - inch and a 426 - cubic - inch high - performance engine.

The Custom 880 for 1965 is a medium - priced car with luxury appointments. The series includes a 2 and 4-door hardtop, a 4-door sedan, a convertible and six and nine-passenger station wagons.

Engine options are the same as in the Polara series.

The Monaco, a new name for the Dodge line, is a prestige car in the medium - priced field. It is a 2-door hardtop with an optional convertible - type vinyl top. It has bucket seats, full console, high fashioned seat backs with wicker basket weave inserts and interior colors that stimulate leather shades.

The standard engine for the Monaco is the 383 - cubic -inch V-8 with four-barrel carburetor. Two high-performance engines are optional.

NEW DODGE DART — Dodge's sporty two-door Dart GT hardtop, above, features an optional black or white vinyl covering for the roof. The GT hardtop for 1965 is one of 20 six and eight-cylinder models offered in the '65 line of family-size Dart compacts.

Freedom Issue Is Debated at Vatican Council

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY, (AP) — More American prelates of the Roman Catholic Church planned to add their voices today to the Vatican Ecumenical Council's controversial discussion on religious freedom.

Bishop Ernest Primeau of Manchester, N.H., one of the top orators among the 244 Roman Catholic bishops of the United States, was to be the day's first American speaker before the 2,500 council fathers in St. Peter's Basilica.

Also listed to speak were Archbishop Lawrence J. Shehan of Baltimore and the Most Rev. Father Joseph Buckley of Wheeling, W.Va., superior-general of the Marist Order of Priests.

A member of the council commission that drafted the proposed declaration on religious freedom said there was little doubt that it would be approved eventually.

"We are hoping to win not votes but convictions," he said.

The declaration says that every human has the right to free exercise of religion according to the dictates of his own conscience. It adds that man should be immune from any outside force in his personal relations with god.

American bishops made a strong defense of the proposed declaration as soon as it was introduced for debate Wednesday.

Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston considered the subject so important that he spoke in the council for the first time since it began in 1962. He said the entire world awaited council action on man's freedom to follow his conscience on his religious convictions.

Cardinals Albert Meyer of Chicago and Joseph Ritter of St. Louis also urged approval of the declaration. The other two American Cardinals were not present. Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York is in the United States recovering from an operation and James Francis Cardinal McIntyre of Los Angeles is convalescing in Rome.

The declaration was opposed by conservative cardinals from Italy and Spain, led by Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani of the Roman Curia. Ottaviani said it might encourage the spread of religions that would "harm the unity of Catholic nations" and might be used as an argument to get the Roman Catholic Church out of the missionary field.

Council experts said many of the bishops regarded religious freedom as a topic overshadowing even the key theological subject of collegiality — the sharing of the bishops in the Pope's power over the Church — because it has the Roman Catholic Church confronting a vital issue affecting all in the modern world.

One area of trouble thus far in the debate is over the extent to which governments can involve themselves in matters of religious belief or non-belief, and when government regulation should extend to the religious field for the "common good."

"The notion of 'common good' is not much used in the American vocabulary," said the Rev. John Courtney Murray of Woodstock, Md., a leading American Catholic theologian on church-state affairs.

"In fact we have no such thing as 'the state' in our political- legal terminology, unlike the Europeans."

Del Rio Residents Driven Out by Flood

DEL RIO, Tex. (AP) — Flood waters drove Del Rio residents from homes near San Felipe Creek late Wednesday night for the second time in three days.

Civil defense workers in high-wheeled vehicles helped nearly 400 people to safety. About 100 were housed in the Del Rio High School. Others took shelter with friends and relatives.

Similar flooding from another small creek was reported just across the border in Villa Acuna, Mexico.

At the International Bridge between Del Rio and Villa Acuna the Rio Grande, laden with runoff from heavy rains the past four days, climbed to 21 feet — five feet above flood level.

Leontyne Price Praises Audience of Russians

MOSCOW (AP) — American opera star Leontyne Price says "the warmth of the audience was incredible" at her first performance in the Soviet Union.

The audience called the Mississippi-born Negro soprano, conductor Herbert Van Karajan and other soloists back for 16 curtain calls Wednesday night after a performance of Verdi's "Requiem."

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

When Philip was speaking in Rockford, Illinois, recently he received one of the best evidences of the newspaper's broad educational effect. For the newspapers wield a vaster influence for good than most readers ever imagine. They offer cultural "fringe benefits" to your entire area!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE T-481: Dr. Philip Crane, American history professor at Bradley University, delivered a recent speech in Rockford, Illinois.

Later I was talking to him on the long distance telephone.

"Dad," he began, "I met a young wife at Rockford who wanted me to pass along her thanks to you for all you had done to help her."

To which I replied, "And what had I done to merit such thanks?"

Philip then informed me that she had been the daughter of "society" parents.

"They were gone much of the time," she had told Philip, "so I grew up as a 'loner.'

"For we didn't have very much in common and they apparently thought I would magically acquire the 'facts of life' without any home advice.

"So I turned to your father's column and devoured it daily.

"I also sent for his booklet 'Sex Problems of Young People' as well as his 'Tests for Sweethearts.'

"Although your father doesn't know it, but I was reared largely on his newspaper column in our Rockford newspaper."

This indirect type of compliment is most gratifying to any teacher, whether of the classroom variety or a newspaper professor.

And that doesn't include such cases as this Rockford girl who had two parents but still led a rather lonely existence.

For millions of children live in a "normal" home but there is a barrier that seems to separate child from parents.

That is especially true as regards the "facts of life," for most American parents feel awkward about this situation.

And they often lack specific scientific facts.

* * *

This column is really by psychology clinic, offered by courtesy of this progressive newspaper, to supplement the school and church — and benefit millions of homes.

If any of you readers feel shy or inept at solving the myriad social problems confronting you, then you will find similar cases every day in this "print clinic."

You can then project yourselves into the actual office cases which I employ.

You can also try the tested methods that I offer you, whether for writing a letter of application for a job or for carrying on interesting conversation, etc.

You may have noticed that I stress PRACTICAL psychology which you can use, right there where you live or work or attend school.

I don't stay up in the educational "stratosphere" but get down to brass tacks, here on terra firma where you need help.

So scrapbook this clinical column, as thousands of doctors, clergymen and other professional folks are doing.

And send for the booklet "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents, so your teen-agers can read it.

Catholic, Jewish and Protestant clergy employ it routinely, and so do high schools, coast to coast, so add it to your scrapbook.

Rockefeller Prepares Welcome for Barry

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is putting down the welcome mat here for Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential candidate.

Rockefeller, who has said little in support of the man who defeated him in the fight for their party's top nomination, Wednesday night invited Goldwater and his wife Peggy to visit the governor's mansion Friday.

Rockefeller previously had promised to appear with Goldwater at the State Office Building. No other contact between the two had been scheduled.

The New York Republican campaign committee announced Wednesday night that "Goldwater's busy schedule has been altered to include sufficient time to see the mansion and meet with the governor."

The Arizona senator and his wife are scheduled to arrive at Albany County Airport at 10:35 a.m. and will go directly to the mansion. Goldwater will speak about noon. He will be introduced by Rockefeller.

Rockefeller's plans last week called for him to be out of town Friday but his schedule was changed.

Senate Squabble Erupts Over Issue of Desk

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The political realignment of Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina has caused an upheaval in the Senate — over the question of who has whose desk.

When Thurmond moved from the Democratic to the Republican side of the Senate chamber, the word was that he wanted to take his desk with him but that the Democrats balked.

Thurmond reportedly was under the impression that the desk had been used by John C. Calhoun, a 19th-century South Carolina statesman who was noted as a champion of states' rights.

Now it turns out that not Thurmond, but Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., has been sitting at the Calhoun desk.

Long's aides report that he asked for the desk not because Calhoun had used it but because it is the desk that his late father, Huey (the Kingfish) Long, had occupied while a senator before his assassination in 1935.

Before Russell Long got the desk, it had been used by Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, R-Mass. Long put in his bid for it after Lodge was defeated for re-election in 1952 by the late President John F. Kennedy.

Sen. Olin D. Johnston, D-S.C., said today that Long now has agreed to let him have the Calhoun desk. The way was cleared for this, Johnston said, when Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., said he would let Long have his desk.

Why did Long want Anderson's desk?

Because it was the desk used by Long's mother when she was appointed to succeed Huey. Long is the only senator whose father and mother both served in the Senate and now he will have used the desks each of them had.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., who had a back corner desk, has moved to the position that Thurmond formerly occupied on the Democratic side. The desk Nelson had has been moved to the Republican side where Thurmond now sits.

Commie China Wants to Buy British Plants

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

LONDON (AP) — Red China is reported buying or negotiating for $200 million worth of chemical plants from Britain, Western Europe and Japan.

Informants said the Chinese already have ordered seven plants from West European countries and two from Japan, and about a dozen are under negotiation with British firms.

British businessmen are saying privately that the $200 million involved seems to be within China's capacity to pay because of an exceptionally good harvest this year.

The British government has been cool, however, to overtures from Peking to underwrite long-term credits to help build China's chemical industry.

An authoritiative source said the British government, which insures exporters against loss, does not see the Chinese as a good long-term credit risk.

A positive response would also draw a sharp protest from the United States.

The Board of Trade earlier this year allowed up to $280 million of long-term credit to the Soviet Union for purchase of chemical plants. An equivalent sum is to be allowed smaller Communist countries of Eastern Europe for the same purpose.

The American and other Allied governments criticized these decisions.

The British government and British businessmen have the impression that the Chinese Communists are following the lead of the Russians in putting increasing emphasis on production of plastics, fertilizers and artificial fibers.

British firms generally are reluctant to discuss their negotiations with Communist governments. They have learned from experience that Communist authorities and the Chinese particularly, are shy of publicity and that disclosure could wreck their negotiations.

British trade with Red China has been in the neighborhood of $90 million in each of the past two years. In the first seven months of 1964 the volume ran to nearly $70 million.

Britain's trade with China still remains very minor compared to her total foreign trade — something less than one per cent.

Gross National Product

There has been a great deal to account for the inflation that said about the Gross National has occurred since 1939. That Product of the United States. method of paying workers. Every worker earns a specified amount of money which he doesn't get. He gets what we call "take home" pay. This is a sum that is less than his total earnings.

But the cost of paying the worker is in his gross pay, not his net pay.

And it is important to the government that you do not tumble to the discrepancy. So, no longer do we use the term, "national income." That would reveal the actual money the worker takes home. Instead, the government uses the figure of gross income, which does not reveal the purchasing power of the market at all.

In 1961, the GNP was reported by the government Labor Department to have climbed to $450 billion. The corresponding figure, were we to accept the word of the U. S. Commerce Department, came to only $428 billion. But if we make the adjustment to account only for the number of dollars put into the hands of workers, that figure would be reduced again to $375 billion. Thus, the GNP heralds a growth of 650 percent, whereas the net figure, if it were used, would indicate a growth of 540 percent. Even this is enormous.

But what are the facts? Compare the present economy with our depression figure provided in 1939. At that time government expenditures (before World War II) accounted for about 10 percent of the total expenditures made. Our present business volume is about 30 percent government money. Thus, if we reduce the $428 billion figure of the Commerce Department by 30 percent we show only $300 billion, resulting from market place activities.

Now, we must reduce this figure still further by 54 percent

Now, if we were to slip our base of figuring back another ten years to 1929, the result would be staggering. Actually, this is a better base for comparison, since this was a year preceding the advent of monstrous government intervention into our ecoomy. And that year our national income stood at $80 billion.

A true evaluation becomes more complex because of what has been done to the dollar since 1932. For when gold backing was taken away from our currency, a devaluation of the dollar occurred which inflated spending money by 43 percent.

Gold, you will recall, was artificially revalued from $20.67 per ounce, to $35 per ounce. If we assume a 40 cent dollar compared with the 1929 dollar and a fifty percent increase in population, which is about right, our $428 billion GNP shrinks to $60 billion. This represents a decline of 25 percent in our private market sector, which fact is hidden since the GNP represents money spent, not only by private persons but by government.

But to include government spending along with private spending is to completely destroy the meaning of the GNP figures to be used. On this basis, if the government were to take over entirely, stop all private production and still use the GNP procedures, it would appear that our economy had soared upward when, in fact, it would have plunged through the floor.

This procedure is equivalent to drawing money out of the bank and then putting it back in in order to show a larger monthly income. This is the deceit practiced by the government in its use of Gross National Product figures.

Confidence Racket In Crockett

The September issue of the Reader's Digest has an item by Charles Stevenson which surely should be read and understood. It is called: "When the Bubble Burst in Crockett, Texas."

Everyone these days is so busy blindly following Lyndon Johnson in his war against poverty, that when the folks down in Crockett, Houston County, Texas (population 5350), learned the Area Redevelopment Administration was going to finance a new factory for their tiny community, they didn't bother to look the gift horse in the mouth.

But, after all, why should they? The government was behind the program. And how can anything the government sponsors be wrong?

It seems that back in 1962, the Area Redevelopment Office itself brought into town a man named J. Paul Dawson, and introduced him as president of Audio Electronics, Inc.

Mr. Dawson said that the ARA was going to help him build a factory in Crockett which, among other things, would produce a new tape-playing, picture projecting invention. This new factory would provide 180 new jobs in Crockett and it was going to make so much money that the good people of the town would be invited to put their savings into the factory so as to reap the profits along with Mr. Dawson.

What at first blush could have been greeted with skepticism, was accepted as gospel because the government was right there in the person of Benton Musslewhite, a lawyer from the nearby town of Lufkin who was a member of ARA's National Advisory Committee.

But that wasn't all. A meeting was held and some 35 persons who were all leading citizens of Crockett were on hand. While the meeting was in progress, a loudspeaker was hooked up and into the room came the voice of Ralph Yarborough, senior senator from Texas, one of the men who had sponsored ARA and who now was happy to let the good people of Crockett know that best wishes were coming right from the White House on the occasion of the new factory soon to be erected in Crockett.

After this kind of promotion, what Crockett citizen would not willingly invest in a "sure thing" backed by the White House, the U.S. Senate and the ARA? Local citizens quickly bought stock (50 cents a share) and raised something close to $60,000 which was to be a part of the total "kitty." The electronics firm was supposed to put in $147,173. Then the ARA would put in $382,649 and the project would be underway.

As it turned out, the only money ever to change hands came from the citizens who bought the stock. And apparently some of that money was used to obtain a factory site and to have a ground-breaking ceremony with some gold-plated shovels.

But even as the ground was being broken, the Securities and Exchange Commission was conducting a stock-fraud investigation of Audio Electronics. Apparently young Mr. Dawson had gone into Washington and so eager were the ARA people and the other anti-poverty, prospending Johnson people, that they had simply gone ahead to back up his protestations without bothering to find out that the inventions he said he owned were either non-existent or not worth anything like the sums of money claimed.

Thus, shortly after the groundbreaking ceremony, Federal Judge Roger D. Foley issued an injunction to halt the whole scheme. Yet for months the ARA continued to list the Crockett project as one of the "approved" projects. Charles Stevenson, who writes in the Reader's Digest, reveals that it wasn't until he began his own private inquiry that the ARA finally dropped the listing. Now it turns out that Mr. J. Paul Dawson, even as he was negotiating help from the ARA and others in Washington, was being sued for stock fraud in a Montana court. He lost that case on default and a judgment of $21,000 was placed against him last May.

If the government had bothered to check at all, it would have learned that J. Paul Dawson, hailed as an electronics wizard, had never gone beyond grade school, that he had been involved in bogus security deals in California, and had a rather wide record for unsavory manipulations.

So, here was the federal government actually involved in promoting the operations of a confidence racketeer and lending its enormous prestige to the fleecing of investors.

And what is the government's answer to this? The answer is that the information concerning Mr. Dawson is now "confidential." And that's about all the satisfaction the investors and the people of Crockett are to get.

Old Landmarks Pass

By RUFUS L. PORTER

Nothing is permanent. Not the planets, not our sun, not the myriads of suns (stars) that glitter in the heavens. Nothing is permanent. We are all well aware of this, but we are most reluctant to admit it.

Einstein even contended that there is an end to time and space. To the likes of me, this is inconceivable. Time MUST be forever. And what lies beyond the edge of space?

But we all know that manmade things, no matter how durable they seem to us, are transient. Even the pyramids, built to stand forever, are crumbling and may not last 50,000 years. The heroic figures carved on Mount Rushmore are expected to be obliterated by erosion in 500,000 years, if earthquakes do not end them sooner. As far as humanity is concerned, so much time may be forever.

Man builds many bridges and monuments and buildings that have the strength to endure for thousands of years. The trouble is that many of the things he built in the past, magnificent though they may be, get in the way of his progress and he removes them to make way for something he thinks he needs more.

America is especially noted for not revering its old and beautiful buildings, its historic landmarks. Hundreds of them fall to the "headache balls" and bulldozers every year. The government sometimes steps in and saves one at the expense of the taxpayers. But the same government is the greatest offender. As the federal government goes blithely about, building superhighways that criss-cross the country, it shows faint regard for landmarks, historic buildings, patriotic shrines, or anything else that stands in the way of the engineers — including personal property rights.

And in its huge and costly urban renewal projects, the government shows the same utter disregard for property rights and for ancient, or even modern, buildings that the politicians have "condemned" to make way for "progress" no matter how substantial they may be.

Europe has shown more respect for the old, the beautiful and the durable relics of its past. But Europe, especially England, has now caught the "Yankee fever" for replacing the old with the new and many Englishmen, noted lovers of tradition, are complaining.

And we, here in the Pikes Peak Region, are complaining about the loss of the Antlers Hotel and the Trianon. The loss of the Antlers, if I have been correctly informed, can be laid in part, at least, to the city government, more specifically, to the zoning board. Add that to the fact that the building needs to be refurbished and modernized, and that, as a hotel, it hasn't been showing a profit for the past several years and the answer seems to be that the old and unprofitable must make way for a new and perhaps profitable enterprise. If men are willing to make this great a gamble with their own property, what business is it of ours?

The Trianon is something else again. It was never built to be a profitable business. It was built as an elegant and handsome private home. The builder no doubt had dreams that it would stand "forever" as a monument to his love of beauty and a residence for his descendants, or heirs. But "forever" is a long time. It does seem a shame that it must be torn down and its great store of fabulous art treasures scattered over the face of the earth. But they, at least, will not be destroyed. I am surprised that a few wealthy people haven't stepped in and tried to save the Trianon, it certainly adds distinction to the Broadmoor area. But, according to John Metzger, attorney for the owners, it is the rich people of Broadmoor who are making it impossible for the Trianon to stay in existence.

But, to all those who are in favor of saving the Trianon by saddling it on the already overburdened taxpayers, I give the back of my hand. Those who can afford it can, and should, become patrons of the arts. And it is to their everlasting credit that many of them do. If it were not for such wealthy art patrons down through the ages, we would have little except contemporary art to glorify our lives now. And, without the rich heritage of bygone days to study, our culture would always remain on a beginning basis, green, amateurish and uncertain.

With the government going all out for redistributing the wealth through taxation, it is becoming increasingly difficult for even the wealthiest to patronize the arts. Of course, when the government has succeeded in making us all rich, we may all become patrons of the arts and build Trianons all over the place.

Would all the people who are hoping the state or some other branch of government will step in and save the Trianon be willing to contribute directly to its support in the event a drive were made by the owners for donations? I think not. It would not seem that important to most of them.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

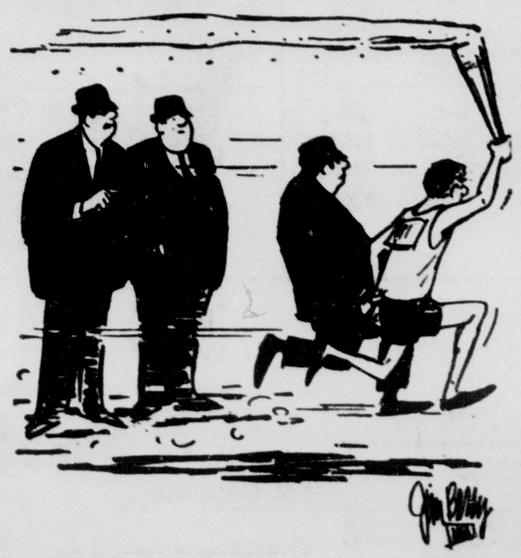

Question No. 588: "The best-seller, 'None Dare Call It Treason,' has been criticized for its references. Only one person, my daughter's English teacher, criticized the accuracy — and her criticism proved unfounded. But several people have questioned the adequacy of references to newspapers and the Congressional Record. Aren't newspapers subject to libel suits for false statements of fact? Isn't the Congressional Record, and congressmen's statements in it, free from libel suits? Therefore, isn't the Congressional Record a poor reference?"

Answer: Newspapers are subject to libel suits for anything they publish "which tends to expose a person to public hatred, shame, disgrace and ridicule, or to induce an ill opinion of one in the minds of right-thinking people." Books have been written on the subject of libel, and the space available here is not sufficient to discuss the subejct fully.

A member of a legislative body is not liable for statements made by him in the discharge of his official duties. This includes congressmen and the material they insert in the Congressional Record.

Whether reference material is good or poor is a decision which must be made by each individual, considering the source. If he considers the individual or publication making the statement to be reliable, he will be likely to consider the reference good. If he does not trust the source, he will tend to consider the reference poor.

FRIENDLINESS

To the Editor:

I just arrived in Colorado Springs, and I am exceptionally impressed by the friendliness of the citizens here. Everywhere I go, there is a fine spirit of help and courtesy extended to the newcomer.

An exceptional example occurred last Friday when my four-year-old daughter caught her finger in our car door. My wife was at the East Colorado Springs National Bank, and the entire staff rushed to aid in the situation. Comfort and assistance were rendered beyond a brief concern for a child's cry. First aid was administered and information on the nearest medical aid was given. The compassion shown for a little girl's injury and the prompt effective aid given by this thoughtful group of busy business people was very impressive. I wish to thank them for their help and courtesy.

INCOMPLETE ARTICLE

To the Editor:

What happened to the rest of the UPI article concerning Church Council and Barry in your September 19 paper?

Had I not known anything about the United Church of Christ, no doubt I would have passed it off as a church with unusual standards, that would condone Johnson and condemn Goldwater. This represented the church that gave me my basic Christian beliefs. Because this article was so different from my basic thinking I checked what other papers had to say. Another area paper (Rocky Mountain News) carried the same UPI article, and it went on to say: "Dr. Shinn said he would not contend that President Johnson is 'all righteousness' or that Goldwater is 'all evil.' On the contrary, he said, 'Goldwater is a stalwart family man who radiates traditional American virtues.'"

This is still not all the article, but this one paragraph puts a different light on the entire picture. If you did not have room for the entire article would you in all fairness think that it might have been better to hold it one more day and print it in its entirety?

VISITOR'S THANKS

To the Editor:

This letter is to express our gratitude to Hank Waller and the Police Department for their kindness shown to us while driving on Pikes Peak.

Our car became disabled just past the "check point." Although he tried to fix the car and even tried to push us to get us started he could not do it. Knowing that we did want to get to the top, he drove us (four children and four adults) up to the Peak and down again to our car.

On the way down we finally got the car turned around and Mr. Waller started it down the mountain for us.

Our many thanks to him and the Colorado Springs Police Department.

SIRENS

To the Editor:

I have written the following letter to Mr. Charles Willoughby, Civil Defense director, and would appreciate it if you would print it in your letters to the editor column.

The usefulness of the El Paso County Civil Defense warning system was seriously impaired this morning when the sirens were allowed to malfunction for 21 minutes.

For several years the public has been told that the sound which we heard meant "an ALERT SIGNAL, TAKE ACTION AS DIRECTED BY LOCAL GOVERNMENT." We were to listen to the Conelrad radio stations for further instructions. When we turned on the radio this morning, all that could be found was music. You were spoken of in the evening paper as being angry that the people crowded the Civil Defense switchboard with calls so that you were not able to contact the radio stations. Of course they did! The Civil Defense warning system is supposed to warn us of impending death, and we were unable to find out if the sirens meant what they said, and there were no instructions from local government forthcoming. Many of us were simply praying that the system was malfunctioning. These sirens have been activated wrongly several times in the past. Consequently the public is forming the attitude that they are "only malfunctioning" when it hears them. When they continued for 21 minutes, we began to think that it was indeed a real alert.

Three courses of action should be taken to insure that this does not happen again. First, the switchboard operator at the police station or some other responsible person always on duty should be able to throw a switch that would deactivate the system within a minute if it should malfunction. Second, a direct telephone line should be installed to the Conelrad radio stations so that a clogged switchboard could not keep the information from them. Third, the Conelrad stations should interrupt their programs immediately and keep broadcasting the information that it is only a malfunction until the emergency is over and the system has been returned to its proper function.

If the Civil Defense Agency expects its warning system to be heeded, it must make it reliable. It is not easy to sit and wait for an explosion and death, but that is exactly what an unexplained warning causes us to do. Please either make the sirens mean what they say, or do away with them.

MURDER AND GUILT

To the Editor:

The writer being of sound mind but too often of slow wits comes now, this late, to protest ye editor's column of April 30, 1964, regarding the writer's query on "Who's Guilty?" I posed the following:

EXAMPLE: A endeavors to enter into a contract with B to murder X. B accepts contract and murders X. B. is guilty of murder.

QUESTION: Of what is A guilty?

Actually I am not protesting this answer. I merely wish to examine this answer by asking another question, to wit: Is it not correct to say that while both parties are RESPONSIBLE for the murder of X, A is responsible while B is both responsible and a murderer? B is responsible for the murder AND guilty of the act of murder.

In other words I wish to be very clear as to the difference between B, a man who commits a physical act of aggression (murder), and A, a man who seeks with intent and purpose to get someone else to commit a physical act of aggression (murder). It is similar to the relationship between a sponsor of art and an artist. The sponsor, through his money, commissions the artist to paint a picture. The artist complies and the picture is created. Now, we can say that both parties, the sponsor and the artist, are RESPONSIBLE for the picture. But the sponsor is only responsible while the artist is both responsible and the physical creator of the picture.

The point of all this magnificent rhetoric is that while I have no wish to do business with A, the sponsor of murder (he is immoral), I view with much more disdain and concern the ACT of B who actually goes after X with gun or knife. It is just as I pay much more homage to the painter of a fine picture than to his sponsor.

Yes, A and B are both equally responsible for the murder of X. But as far as I'm concerned, I am keeping my eagle eye on B. His responsibility will actually do me in. A's responsibility is once removed.

HUNTING STORY

To the Editor:

Bill Laseke, motel owner and fishing guide at Gunnison, Colorado, tells this story about a hunting party he had one year.

It was the evening of the first day's hunting and the hunters were coming back to camp. Each, as he came in, was reporting on what he had seen or done that day. None of them had seen a thing all day!

The last one of the party to come in also said he had seen nothing but that he had gotten in a couple of good brush shots. Bill went over and started to pile the hunters' gear in the jeep.

One hunter asked, "What is the matter?" Bill said, "You are going to town. You are not hunting in any party of mine. Anyone who will shoot without knowing what he is shooting at is too dangerous to have around."

In Tonkin Gulf, in international waters, two U. S. destroyers shot point-blank at four blips on a radar screen. They did not know what they were shooting at. One wonders if the same thing happens to refugees trying to escape by boat from Cuba. Do they get blasted out of the water, too?

Nation's Press

ITU and UNITYPO

Editor's note: The following lead editorial appeared in the Sept. 19 Editor and Publisher Magazine. This is the national magazine published weekly to cover the newspaper field.

UNITYPO is a corporation set up by the International Typographical Union in the post-war period to finance newspapers in cities where printers went on strike. This was part of the union's militant opposition to the Taft-Hartley Law restrictions.

The union poured millions down the drain in financing 15 such newspapers none of which became financially successful. How many millions were lost in those ventures is unknown. ITU officers are not talking and ITU bookkeeping procedures have been changed to hide it. However, an indication of the millions of dollars involved appears in the ITU's financial report for the year ending May 20, 1964. Total expenditures of the Special Defense Fund was listed as $1,375,000. Of this total $1,335,000 represents a "Reduction in Capital Investment — UNITYPO, Inc."

The Colorado Springs Free Press is the last of the 15 UNITYPO papers and the ITU convention in Hawaii last week voted to continue supporting it. Exaggerated claims were made for the success of this paper but it appears that the opposition seeking to liquidate the paper was more truthful in presenting the facts. Mallory H. McGuire, a delegate from Washington, D.C., said the Colorado paper had cost the union $2,440,000 since 1947 and its subsidy amounts to $1,000 a day in the past year. That's just about right. The ITU financial statement says $361,000 in "special assistance" was paid to the Colorado local in the year ending May 20. That is $1,000 a day.

The total cost of the UNITYPO fiasco to the ITU membership must be astronomical. If only $1,000,000 had been spent on each of the 15 UNITYPO papers it would add up to $15,000,000. But if almost two and a half million has been spent in Colorado Springs alone that $15 million could be doubled as a safe guess.

To The Point

Red-Led Witch Doctors

By RUSSELL KIRK

According to reliable reports from the Congo, the rebels against Premier Tshombe's government are led by dozens of witch doctors indoctrinated in Marxism by the Communist Chinese. Their fanatic followers, though politically ignorant, obey the orders of their tribal magicians — especially since the warriors are fed hemp at breakfast, and go into battle drugged with Chinese narcotics.

Into this most fantastic of conflicts, American soldiers and diplomats poke hesitantly. Senator Mansfield is disheartened at the prospect of large-scale American intervention in the darkest corners of Africa. Certainly this is no war which the United States could win by participation on the scale of our Vietnam involvement — which latter venture, so far, has been conspicuously successful. And the United States Information Agency is unlikely to convert to democratic notions many of these witch-doctors.

Rather than directing strategy and meddling highhandedly with heads of state — which has been our policy in Southeast Asia—American diplomatic and military personnel may confine themselves to furnishing reasonable help to the one man with a good chance for winning the Congo struggle, Moise Tshombe. For Premier Tshombe, despite the nervousness in Washington, has been striking hard blows against the Communist-backed rebels.

At Bukavu, 150 of Tshombe's Katanga gendarmes, with the remains of the battered garrison of that provincial capital, broke the witch-doctors' charge, killing several hundreds of the rebel tribesmen and saving the city. Other Katanga gendarmes, with some white adventurers have recaptured Albertville, capital of North Katanga, the first city to fall into the rebels' hands. Centers of communication in the eastern and central Congo are being taken by the gendarmes and by white "mercenaries" accustomed to serve Tshombe. Parties of Katanga gendarmes — the only reliable military force in the Congo — are now scattered all over that enormous land, dominating the "Congolese National Army" that once was their enemy.

Although publicly American diplomats have urged Tshombe to obtain troops from other African states — something more easily recommended than executed — and privately they have suggested that he recruit Belgian, French, and other European officers, still Washington pretends to boggle at Tshombe's engaging Rhodesians, South Africans, and other white soldiers of fortune. Since it is precisely these "mercenaries" who have accounted for much of Tshombe's recent military success, our State Department's reported objections sound ominously like a nervous "no-win" policy.

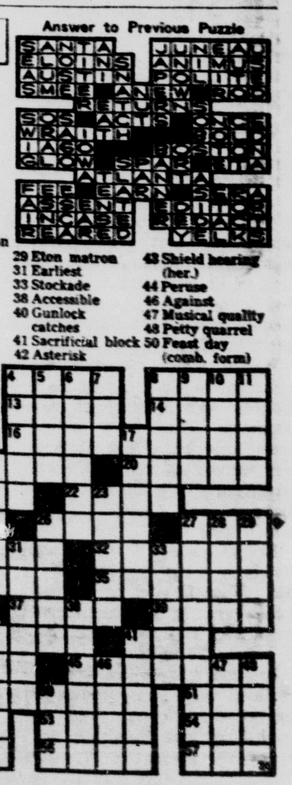

But Tshombe may triumph, whatever bad advice he receives from Washington. It is said that one of the three chief Congolese Communist leaders, Pierre Mulele, was killed a fortnight ago. If this is so, Tshombe may be halfway toward pacifying his country. Mulele it was who persuaded Peiping to train witch-doctors for Marxist subversion. The witch doctors' magic wands don't really prevail against well-armed men determined to make a stand.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Plymouth, Chrysler, Imperial 1965 Models to Be Displayed

Perkins Motor Co., 115 N. Cascade is the local Plymouth dealer. Perkins, Marksheffel Motor Co., 22 N. Cascade; and Cripple Creek Auto Co., 145 E. Bennett Ave., Cripple Creek, are dealers for Chrysler and Imperial.

Including 22 models in the Fury series, Plymouth in 1965 will offer a record 60 models in four series in the low - priced volume market. The models include 18 Plymouth Valiants in the compact market; 18 Plymouth Belevedere models in the intermediate market; and the fast sports Plymouth Barracuda in both six and eight - cylinder version.

Plymouth passenger cars will be available in three wheel - base sizes: the Plymouth Barrarant and the Plymouth Barracuda at 106 inches, the Plymouth Belevedere at 116, and the Plymouth Fury at 119.

Along with the expansion of the Plymouth line, three new models have been added to the new 1965 Chrysler line, bringing the total in this series to 17. Imperial will continue with four models.

Chrysler - Plymouth Division dealers will offer 81 models in 1965, a 25 per cent increase in models over last year, Buckminster said. This will give the division the widest diversity of cars it has ever presented and its broadest market coverage. Each line—Plymouth, Chrysler, and Imperial — has its own unmistakable identity for 1965, with styling and design distinguishing it markedly from other Chrysler Corporation cars.

Topping the Plymouth line with a total of 22 models is the Plymouth Fury. With all-new styling on a 119 - inch wheel base, it is a new entry in the low-priced field. Brand new bodies have been designed for the Fury on a wheelbase which is three inches longer than a year ago. Styling accentuates the greater size of the car. Angular lines, a wide grille with vertically - mounted headlamps in the front fenders, increased over - all length and width and wider front and rear treads contribute to the bigness of the 1965 Plymouth Fury. It will be offered in four series: Fury I, Fury II, Fury III, and Sports Fury.

Next in line is the Belevedere series which has been expanded from eight models to 18 to give Chrysler - Plymouth Division an appealing selection of vehicles in the intermediate price market. Models carrying the Belevedere name tag are the Belevedere I, Belevedere II, and Satellite, the latter in two body styles only. Wheelbase of the series is 116 inches. The car has been designed to meet the requirments of the basic family market, with new front fenders hood, bumpers, interiors, grille, body ornamentation and tail lights giving the Belevedere a fresh appearance.

The Plymouth Valiant, with 100, 200, and Signet series (for a total of 18 different models) makes its appearance for 1965 with new grille, front fenders, deck lid, tail lamps, body side ornamentation, and interiors. The new Commando 273 - cubic inch high performance V-8 engine and a Rallye package developed for the Plymouth Barracuda are both Plymouth Valiant options. Also new is an optional factory - installed air conditioning unit whch combines both heating and cooling functions in one system.

The new fastback model introduced last May retains its original basic styling features. Heading the list of new options is the new Commando 273-cubic-inch hig-performance V - 8 engine with four-barrel carburetor and 10.5 to 1 compression ratio and a Rallye package designed to appeal to performance-minded drivers. It has a new instrument panel for 1965. Included are bold paint stripes extending down the center of the deck lid, roof, and hood (similar to competition car markings), as well as the complete line of optional equipment and accesories listed for the Valiant. The Plymouth Barracuda is built as a 2 - door hardtop only, but can convert into a cargo carrier.

Completely new styling on a longer wheelbase, increased interior room, more powerful engines and improved riding comfort characterize the all-new Chrysler. Added to the line for 1965 are Newport and New Yorker 4 - door Town Sedans and a New Yorker 2 - door hardtop, giving Chrysler a total of 17 models. The Chrysler will be available in three series: New Yorker, Chrysler 300 (including the 300-L), and the Newport, all with 124 - inch wheelbase and an over-all length of 218.2 inches, nearly three inches more than last year's models.

The Imperial has luxury appointments and engineering improvements to provide even greater riding ease and comfort. The front end design is new, and the dual head lamps, recessed into the grille at either end, are protected by panes of high strength tempered glass. Among the significant engineering changes are increased tire sie, constant velocity universal joints, improved torque converter, extruded and flanged axle shafts with tapered roller bear- available as LeBaron or Crown 4 - door hardtop, 2 - doorCrown Coupe, and Crown Convertible.

CHRYSLER RESTYLING — The Chrysler New Yorker four-door Town Sedan has extra side windows. All Chrysler cars for 1965 are completely new with longer wheelbases, increased interior room, more powerful engines and increased riding comfort. Three new models have been added to the Chrysler line for a total of 17.

NEW PLYMOUTH BELVEDERE—The Plymouth Belvedere II four-door sedan, above, exemplifies the model's intermediate or "basic family transportation" theme. Built on a 116-inch wheelbase, the line has three series: Belvedere I, Belvedere II and the sporty Satellite, and 18 different models, 10 more than in 1964. Seven engines are available, from the 225 cubic inch standard six to a 426 cubic inch maximum performance V-8.

Auburn University Admits Negroes

AUBURN, Ala., (AP) — Auburn University has opened its doors to its first Negro undergraduate students.

Willie Bee Wyatt and Anthony Tilford Lee, both graduates of Macon County High at Notasulga, Ala., were registered at Auburn Wednesday without incident, according to public relations Director Ed Crawford.

Also registering was Harold Franklin of Montgomery, the first Negro to attend Auburn, who is working toward his master's degree. He was admitted to Auburn last year under federal court orders.

Lee and Wyatt were among the first Negro pupils to be enrolled, also under federal court orders, at Tuskegee High School last year. When the school was closed as a result of a white boycott last January, they and four other Negro pupils transferred to Macon County High.

THAT EXTRA SOMETHING

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The big boss was coming to town so Harry L. Moldovan arranged for a cookout in his backyard.

The piece de resistance was 3 - pound sirloin steak which Moldovan slapped on the grill ahead of time.

The stores were closed so the steak went back on the grill.

The boss, who had missed the commotion, told his hostess later: "Sally, I don't know what you did to this steak, but it's delicious."

Second Jet Airliner Chartered for Barry

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A second jet airliner has been chartered for Sen. Barry Goldwater's Republican presidential campaign.

Press secretary Paul F. Wagner said Wednesday night the United Airlines Boeing 727 will accommodate the overflow of reporters and staff members from Goldwater's jet, which has room for 54 newsmen and 20 staff members.

A Convair propeller-driven plane had been used as the back-up craft, but it couldn't keep up with Goldwater's jet and had to skip some of his appearances.

Clothesline Art Show Scheduled in Georgia

PLUM NELLY, Ga. (AP) — Southern craftsmen and artists will display their works Oct. 3-4 in an autumn-tinged forest at the 18th annual clothesline art show.

Plum Nelly, so named because it's "plum out of Tennessee and nelly out of Georgia," is located on the west side of Lookout Mountain, in the northwestern tip of the state between Tennessee and Alabama.

Look at it. Clean-lined. Big. Beautiful. Eighteen feet of comfort. Two tons of security.

Get in and drive it. The first thing you'll notice is best described as "scorch." Model 1965 is a very quick automobile. And there's an improvement in ride you can really feel.

Visit your Chrysler dealer and see them all: economical Newport; sports-bred 300; and the luxurious New Yorker. Move up to Chrysler. Model 1965. The man who sells them will make the move very easy for you.

Any of the organizations wishing to have their meeting please call 495-2297. Black Forest people wishing news items published please call me anytime before the following Monday of each week, in order that it may appear in the news column during that week.

Stepchildren's Support Not Required

DENVER (AP) — Atty. Gen. Duke Dubar said today welfare departments cannot require a man to support stepchildren.

He issued the ruling at the request of Thomas G. Bell, state welfare director. Bell said the question arose in connection with the department's program of aid to dependent children.

Bell said he knew of no specific case in which the question was pending, but he understood "some of the counties are beginning to treat stepfathers as being responsible."

Dunbar said a law that appeared to imply responsibility by stepfathers and stepmothers for support was amended by the Legislature in 1939 to substitute the words "adoptive father" and "adoptive mother."

De Gaulle Leaves Question of Aid Unanswered

By JAMES D. BOWMAN

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle winds up his visit to Colombia today, leaving unanswered the question of French aid for an interocean canal across the Colombia isthmus.

Government officials hoped De Gaulle's visit might result in noteworthy trade and technical agreements. The idea of a modern canal spanning the narrow isthmus of northwest Colombia was high on the list of possibilities.

President Guillermo Leon Valencia broached the subject Tuesday night at a state dinner in honor of De Gaulle. He raised the possibility of France taking the lead in forming an international construction organization with U.S. help.

A communique issued by De Gaulle and Valencia Wednesday night reaffirmed their desire to support stabilized prices for basic products. To Colombia this means coffee, cotton, bananas and petroleum.

France also promised increased assistance in limited technical fields.

Police, fearful of an attempt on his life, arrested 210 persons and were holding them until De Gaulle's departure. The army said a top member of the anti-De Gaulle French Secret Army Organization, Col. Pierre Chateau Jobert, was believed hiding in Bogota.

MANAGEMENT SUGGESTION — John W. Abrant (right) receives two checks, totaling $100, for ideas which provided for the development of a system and the improvement of a facility for a system in his job as supervisor clerical assistant, communications control branch, director of administrative services, Air Defense Command. Presentation of the checks are made by Col. E. R. Bane, director of administrative services. Abrant, his wife Monta and children Gae Lynn, 7, John D., 8, and William, 5, live at 1326 E. Willamette.

House Approves Crash Program For More Coins

A catchall supplemental money bill passed Tuesday by the House and awaiting Senate approval carries $4.5 million to finance what the Treasury calls a "crash" program to get more coins in circulation.

The money will be spent mainly on three-shift, seven-day production of coins at mints in Denver and Philadelphia. This around-the-clock operation has already been started.

Also, additional space at the Denver Mint, now used for other purposes, will be made available for installation of additional coin making machinery.

As part of a longer-range program, the Denver Mint is now being expanded under funds previously allotted by Congress and a new mint is soon to be put under construction in Philadelphia, though with a completion date about two years in the future.

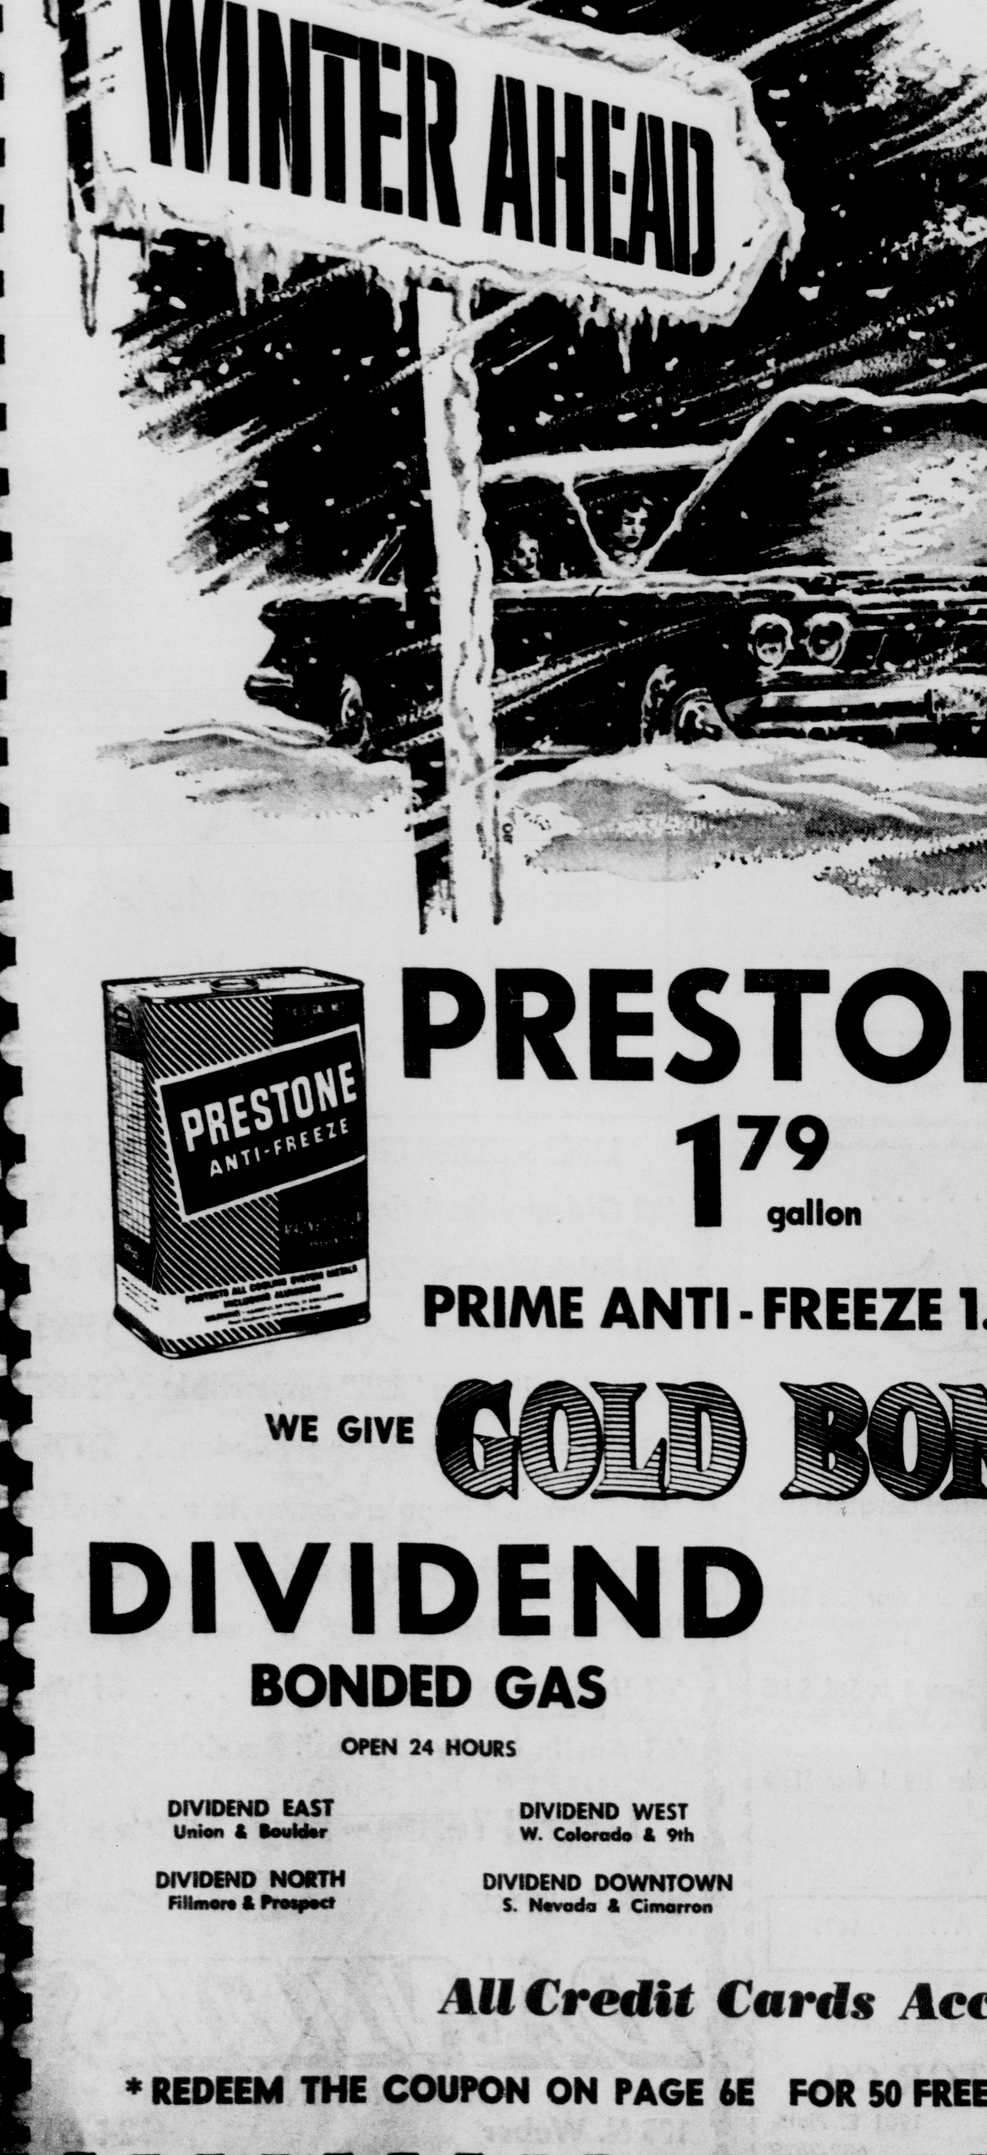

Rep. J. Vaughan Gary, D-Va., chairman of the appropriations subcommittee that recommended the current extra allotment of funds for coin production, said today Denver need not worry that the new Philadelphia Mint will put its plant out of production.

"With the continuing increase in demand, we will continue to need both plants," Gary said.

COASTAL DESERT

World's longest and driest coastal desert stretches along the Pacific littoral of Peru and northern Chile. Many weather stations in the area have recorded no rainfall in more than 20 years, but torrential rains sometimes fall in places and literally melt clusters of baked-mud houses.

Hanover News

By MRS. RUTH CHISMAN

A pink and blue shower was given at the church basement Thursday, Sept. 17, for Frances Baker by Mrs. Nellie Day, Frances Reble and Netta Belle Day. Frances received many nice things. Those attending were Mrs. Ivy Baker, Mrs. Mae Ball, Mrs. Betty Frisch, Mrs. Nina McCall, of Fountain; Mrs. Virginia Hammer, Mrs. Ollie Ball, Mrs. Jean Fette, and girls, of Pueblo; Mrs. Gertrude Williams, Mrs. Judy Hammer, Mrs. Irene Vette, Mrs. Ninette Vette, of Squirrel Creek; Mrs. Rosa Baker, Mrs. Nellie Dickson, Mrs. Ethel Milne, Mrs. Grace Finch, Mrs. Karen Million, Mrs. Fannie Reble, Mrs. Ruth Chisman, Nellie and Neta Bell and Sharon Day. Frances Reble was unable to attend, as Lawrence and Frances flew to Oakland, Calif. Thursday, Sept. 17, and returned Friday, Sept. 19 with a baby girl they adopted. Congratulations are extended to Lawrence and Frances Rebles baby girl at her house near Falcon, where Mr. and Mrs. Harper Baker now live.

Word of the death of Tom Linville was received Saturday afternoon. Tom died at a Pueblo Hospital Friday night. His funeral will be at Davis Mortuary Monday afternoon, Sept. 21, at 3 p.m. Tom was a resident of Hanover, where he attended school as a boy. He made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Len Lister, who homesteaded the place Fred Day now owns north of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Winklers'.

Eva DeGroot, of Howard, was visiting in the Hanover community Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Chisman, Brenda and Sheryl, of Colorado Springs, spent Friday night and Saturday at the Roy Chismans'.

Robert and Marvin Chisman, Ralph and David Trueblood, of Pueblo, spent Saturday night at Roy Chisman's. The men were antelope hunting. There were several antelope hunters in the country. Some were lucky and some were not.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar DeGeer, of Black Forest, and the former Helen Hill and husband, of Montrose, called at Roy Chisman's Sunday, Sept. 13. They called on other old friends also. Helen had lived at Hanover when a girl. Her folks ran the Hanover store and post office many years ago.

There were services at Hanover Church Sunday evening. The singing was led by Doyle Huffmaster, with Nettie Huffmaster at the piano. Sevilla and Rosa Baker sang a special. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Baker also sang, and Doyle Huffmaster sang a solo. John Trusdal gave the devotional. There will be Sunday School Oct. 4, and then go to the Black Forest for Sunday School rally. Bring your basket lunch and attend.

The young folks' hay ride was a success. There were close to 75 who attended from Hanover and Black Forest.

Ronnie Vette went to Lamar Tuesday to enter Junior College there.

We were happy to see the dedication of Jim and Neta Belle Day's baby girl Teressa Lynn on the First Methodist telecast, at 8:30 a.m. Sunday. So nice to be able to see and hear the early morning services of the First Methodist.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Drommond and Mrs. Van Dusen, of Colorado Springs, spent the weekend at the A. L. Vette home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Vette, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gianesin and Bryan and Karl Kerlin left Sunday morning for Painesville, Minn., for a church conference.

Floyd Drummon and John Trusdal were among the lucky antelope hunters. They got their bucks.

Over-Eating Said Defense Mechanism

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—Overeating is bad enough but the cure may be worse!

The habit of overeating often has deep-seated psychological causes and an abrupt change in the habit can be a serious threat to a patient's mental and emotional health, says Dr. Roscoe P. Carney, internist at St. Louis City Hospital.

"To state that obesity is caused by overeating is every bit as senseless as relating alcoholism to overdrinking," he said.

Overeating, in many cases, is "a defense mechanism" triggered by some unsatisfactory circumstances in a person's life, Carney said. He cited "a frequently seen case where a housewife eats continually to assuage profound disappointments in her marital relationship," or as a substitute for pride in her husband's accomplishments.

In such cases, he said, eating is a "defense mechanism" and breaking down the defense "can induce serious behavioral disorders which pose a far greater threat than the obesity."

However, there are overweight persons whose poor eating habits are unrelated to serious emotional drawbacks, Carney said in "Medical Times Magazine."

Drugs should be used with extreme care, he said, because they can "aggravate anxiety," place an increased strain on the heart and become habit forming.

SONGS RAISED THE ROOF

MAYSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Ever hear of a roofenanny?

The Mason County Historical Society sponsored the songfest to restore the roof of a shrine, Mefford's Ford, that was built of logs floated down the Ohio River by pioneers.

Beef Packing Plants

FORT MORGAN (AP) — Construction of two beef-packing plants at Fort Morgan and Sterling has been announced.

Hyplains Dressed Beef, Inc., of Dodge City, Kan., said it will build a $500,000 plant at Fort Morgan, employing 50 to 55 persons.

Professor to Get Founders Day Medal

BOULDER (AP) — Dr. Homer P. Rainey, professor of higher education at the University of Colorado, will receive the Founders' Day Medal of Austin College at Sherman, Tex., Oct. 12.

Rainey is a 1919 graduate of Austin.

Planned in Colorado

A group of Colorado, Nebraska and Missouri men said a plant contemplated for Sterling will cost about $1 million. The Colorado backers include Tom Cooper of Fort Morgan, and Seckler Feed Yards and E. E. Sonnenberg & Sons of Sterling.

FLIP AGAIN, FOLKS

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A tie vote in an election cost County Commissioner Floyd Schroeder 50 cents.

He flipped a half-dollar to settle the tie between two candidates for Republican precinct committeewoman.

SCALPING

The practice of scalping their slain enemies was acquired from the white man by the great majority of American Indians. The practice spread rapidly among the redskins when European rivals in the northeast offered bounties for such enemy trophies.

"SEA CANARY"

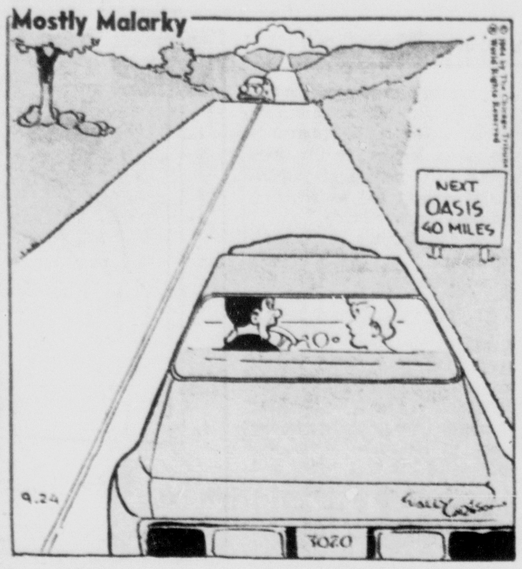

"Sea canary" is a nickname for the beluga whale. This mammal, when traveling submerged, frequently squeaks, squawks and whistles from its blowhole. Some of these sounds are audible, while others are on such high frequency that the human ear cannot detect them.

EARLY BRANDING

The Egyptians practiced the hot-iron branding of livestock as early at 2000 B.C. and it was introduced into North America by Hernando Cortez in the 16th century, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Old Carriage Barn Paradise For Radio Ham

HOLCOMB, N. Y. (UPI) — What is perhaps the largest and cumulatively-oldest collection of ham radio memorabilia in the country is without a permanent home here. Twenty-thousand irreplaceable items from wireless-radio's antiquity now reside on two floors of an old carriage barn in this Finger Lakes farm town.

Not that these humble quarters cramp the founding fathers of the collection, the Antique Wireless Association, composed of some 300 amateur radio historians throughout the world.

Ever since W2ICE, as he is known to fellow hams, cried uncle ten years ago when swamped with requests for speaking engagements and demonstrations of his own wireless artifacts, the AWA has been a flourishing reality. So much so that the association has shunned all publicity to date. And well they might, for the magnetism of AWA's historical lore draws as many as 1,000 visitors a year from all continents.

Visitors come to see and to do. They not only view what is possibly the oldest radio tube in North America, they can hear the country's oldest licensed wireless station (W2AN) in operation. Visitors have actually talked to amateur radio operators as far away as Boston using this circa 1922 equipment.

How the few pieces of private antique wireless equipment grew to a 20,000 item collection would shame a big - time gangster. Members first made returns to their respective engineering school campuses for legal "tube-and-trinket" raids on items of historical interest. Visitors also came bearing gifts of dusty wireless hardware in car trunks. Each relic has been tagged appropriately with the donor's name and amateur call letters.

The museum's most prized possession, the circa 1905 Marconi "Fleming - valve" tube, came by way of an accidental trade. One of the AWA's historical color slide shows depicts the life and technical times of Guglielmo Marchese Marconi. An association member journeying through England recently on business stopped by the Marconi Company with a duplicate set of the slides. So taken was the Marconi management with the slide show 'they kept it and asked what they could do in return. The bold AWA man asked for and received the prize Marconi tube.

For most non-profit museum groups, acquisition is only half the battle. Shipping costs for heavy items kill many a project. But AWA's leader also happens to be president of a trucking firm. On his orders, bulky wireless gear is picked up at locations throughout the country and highballed to Holcomb headquarters. Where other museums might have had to turn down an offer of a 1,000 - pound "Marconi quench-gap kilowatt transmitter" from a U.S. Coast Guard station in Virginia, the AWA was able to accept.

Visitors to the wireless museum are often as distinguished as the artifacts they view. Curators from scientific museums across the nation have paid respects to the "amateur" collection, and 14 top FCC officials recently visited the museum.

Professional recognition has also taken the form of loaned equipment, such as a group of historical receivers and transmitters placed recently with the AWA by Philadelphia's Franklin Institute.

The association currently is setting its sights on a permanent home for the collection.

SWINGING STORY

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The best way to set up a swing is first tear it down.

Five men in the Frankfort Recreation Department attempted to put a preassembled 12-foot swing set into place. It fell and Joseph Flynn, 17, fractured his ankle.

The next day two employes took the set apart and put it up in 10 minutes.

Actor's Agent Pulls Strings In Show Biz

By JOANCROSBY

NEW YORK (NEA) — The actor's agent, that chap in the button-down shirt with the busy phone on his desk, is the nicest guy and the worst villain around Broadway. He is wonderful when he has found you a job; he is a rat when he hasn't.

The agent is the man who ultimately exercises more what the public sees in films, on television and upon the stage than any other person. He collects his fees, which can be fat, but he must keep the aspirin tablets nearby in the desk drawer, for the job can be a demanding one.

An angular platinum blonde strode purposefully off the elevator into the softly lighted, spacious reception room. Under her arm were several copies of a New York newspaper.

She announced that she wanted to see several GAC agents because she has just received a great plug in a widely read Broadway column. Then she ripped out a page from each copy of the paper.

Just then, the elevator doors opened again, disgorging three agents. The woman grabbed one, urging him to read the column. He did, without much interest, saying as he stepped to the doors leading to the main office, "The plug is very good, but it doesn't tell us anything we don't know already."

It sounds like a scene from a bad movie about an actor's agent, but it is true, and it makes a strong point about agents. If an actor is working regularly, he is doing so because of the comfort and assistance of his best friend and confidant, the agent. If he is not often working it is because he has a no-good, lazy agent.

Not just actors are represented by theatrical agents. There are approximately 334,000 actors, writers, directors, producers, musicians and variety performers in the eight craft unions which franchise 292 agencies in New York, Los Angeles, Detroit, Chicago and San Francisco.

The big three among those 292 firms are the William Morris Agency, the oldest (established 1898), largest and, in many ways, most respected; General Artists Corporation, and Ashley-Famous. These are the ones with the important clients, the big packages, and the power to determine the performers you will see in the properties they decide you want to see.

It takes a gigantic team effort to produce a play, movie or television show. There are a lot of bosses, and a lot of influential people in the business.

This is not necessarily to the detriment of show business. "The King and I" might never have come into being if Helen Strauss, of the literary department of William Morris hadn't thought "Anna and the King of Siam," the novel which had been made into a movie, would make a musical. She took the idea to clients Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammersteing, suggesting Anna should be played by client Gertrude Lawrence.

All major agencies, and several smaller independents, put together package shows. A major portion of the income of these agencies comes from their packaging operations.

Simply put, a package is a television show, Broadway play or film written by an agency client, starring one or more agency clients, and produced or directed by agency clients.

Television packages are the most numerous. Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea, The Reporter, The DickVan Dyke Show, My Favorite Martian, The Defenders, The Nurses, The Danny Kaye Show and Candid Camera are just a few of the packaged shows on the air.

It was this habit of packaging, coupled with the fact that they had their own production company to make the packages, that got Music Corporation of America (MCA) in trouble. MCA was a gigantic talent octopus forced by a Federal antitrust action in 1962 to decide whether it wanted to be in the agency game or the production business. MCA chose the latter course.

REMOTE RADIO STATION

PERTH, Australia (AP) — A huge United States Navy radio station, with one of its 13 aerial masts higher than the Eiffel Tower, is being built in a remote corner of Australia.

The $90 million project will be the largest American defense installation in the Southern Hemisphere. From the base will go out instructions to nuclear-powered Polaris submarines in the Indian Ocean and Western Pacific.

The base is gradually taking shape near the tip of North-West Cape, a lonely finger of land jutting into the Indian Ocean, 800 miles north of Perth.

The pay-as-you-go income tax bill was signed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt on June 10, 1943.

"I don't expect you to be perfect. Two in the family is more than one can hope for."

Pigeons Used To Save Lives In Austria

By ERIC WAHA

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—A nine - year - old Dutch girl recently suffered an appendicitis attack in the Falken hut in the Tyrolean Karwendel mountains.

There was no chance to telephone for help since the closest phone is three hours away. Radio communications are impossible among the towering peaks and narrow valleys of the area.

The owner of the hut quickly sent off a carrier pigeon that braved the strong southern wind to fight its way to the pigeon coop at the Innsbruck gendarmerie headquarters.

Gendarmes there quickly removed the message strapped to the pigeon's leg and dispatched a helicopter to the Falken hut and the girl, Miriam van Tetering of Den Gelder, Holland, was taken to the Innsbruck clinic.

Some 200 pigeons are being trained there. The object is to get them to feel at home there, so that they can find it again when somebody's life may depend on it.

During the training program, the pigeons are let loose somewhere in Innsbruck, to make sure they can find their way back to gendarmerie headquarters.

"Operation Pigeon" is headed by 1st Lt. Erich Baeumler who just returned from a stay in Cyprus where he was a member of the Austrian police contingent.

The pigeons are used for communication with three important but isolated, mountain huts: the Falken hut, the Adolf Pichler hut in the Stubaier alps and the mountain rescue hut at Leutasch in the Wetterstein mountains, all in Tyrol. All three are important tourist centers but are too remoted for telephone installation.

Each hut has 15 pigeons. They are exchanged every week so that they won't make themselves too much at home in the huts, as they must be constantly yearning for a return flight to Innsbruck.

In training, some were taken to Austria's highest Grossglockner mountain — about 100 kilometers away — and they quickly found the way back to their home port.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rasner visited Mr. and Mrs. Art Rasner and family Sunday afternoon.

Pearlie Geist spent Monday with Viola Rasner.

Clarene Durham conducted the PTCA meeting Friday night. As Mrs. Dorothy Cooper has moved away Freda Rasner acted as secretary for the meeting. Peggy Anderson was elected to fill the vacancy. The program was presented by the 4-H boys and girls and was as follows: Betty Anderson and Fred Geist narrated the slides of the Junior - Senior trip to Old Mexico last year. Gary Lindt ran the projector, which belonged to Henry Devorss. Mr. Edenborough ran the movie projector and Paul Sopko explained the movies of the bull fight and other activities. Penny Gieck sang "Blowin' in the Wind," Jim Miller, Pat Neely and Edward Appleman did "Metro Polka." The Junior Leader girls, Eileen Kunau, Corrine Kinkade, Betty Anderson, Penny and Sandra Gieck sang "Whispering." Irene Keller and Harry Doak did a skit, "Widow Brown's Hired Man." Sandra Gieck played the piano. Joanne Kinkade, modeled her play suit for third year sewing. Polly Appleman and Penny Gieck modeled fourth year sewing, which was sheer cotton. Eileen Kunau, Betty Anderson and Sandra Gieck modeled fifth year dresses and Corrine Kinkade the seventh year. Irene Keller gave the comments. Polly Appleman sang a song, Fred Geist and Dave Hamilton did a pantomime, "Size, Please." Eileen Kuanu played the accordion and sang, "Once a Day." Craig Bellmyer, Paul Geist, George Keller, Robbie Anderson and Roger Rasner did "4-H's," and both clubs ended the program with, "I'm Looking Over a 4-H Clover," accompanied by Sandra Gieck at the piano. Joanne Kinkade was the MC for the evening.

Ruth Rumsey will be in charge of the refreshments and Belle Dole is the Entertainment Chairman. The fourth and fifth grades will have the program in October. Membership dues are now due and can be paid to Cleva Edenborough, 25 cents per member. The set of Childcraft and World Books that PTCA purchased last year has arrived.

Sandra Gieck, Betty Anderson, Corrine Kinkade, Penny Gieck and Fred Geist attended the County 4-H Council meeting in Colorado Springs Saturday, at Knob Hill Community Building. Penny Gieck was appointed to serve on the nominating committee for the '65 election of officers. Corrine Kinkade and Larry Book gave reports on their weeks stay at Camp Tobin at the State Fair in Pueblo.

Band members will be invited to see the University of Pacific-CSU football game Saturday night.

REAL PERSON

Brunhilde, heroine of Wagner's opera, was a real person, the daughter of Athanagild, king of the Visigoths. Wagner used her life story as a basis for his series of operas called "The Ring of the Nibelung."

The Neighbors

By George Clark

"Your teachers tell me you're the class comedian. Say something funny."

PHRASE'S ORIGIN

The phrase "to be blacklisted" stems from the act of King Charles II of England, who listed in a black book the 56 men who had sentenced his father to death and who were all, subsequently, executed.

Cascade News

By MRS. JENNIE WYATT — 684-9612

The Sugar Creek House, home of the Rev. and Mrs. Hutchens, on Pyramid Mesa, will be the regular meeting place for the Sunday School classes and Adult Fireside Bible Class, which resumed their meeting, Sunday, Sept. 20. There are four classes for the various age groups. Miss Hilve Whitten and Miss Beverley Stroup, of Colorado Springs, assisted Rev. and Mrs. Hutchens with the opening service. Mrs. Paul Hutchens was at the organ. Every family represented received a copy of the new book, "The Case of the Missing Calf," which is Rev. Hutchens latest Sugar Creek Book. The public is cordially invited to take advantage of this opportunity to attend Sunday School in our community.

Mr. and Mrs. John Walsh and daughter Juanita and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Tesker visited Central City and the surrounding area Thursday, including Nevadaville, Apex, Russell Gulch and the Glory Hole. Mr. Walsh who lived in Central City for 17 years acted as guide to the ghost towns.

A very pretty wedding took place at the Baptist Church in Woodland Park last Saturday evening when Mary A. Easdon, of Woodland Park, became the bride of Raymond Eldred, of Denver. Rev. Roy Dean Seavey performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of a large group of their friends. The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baird, of Wichita, Kan.; Joleen Wilmore, a granddaughter and Lorenze Lewis lit the candles, and Mrs. Olive Karraker and Mrs. Jan Bonifield furnished the traditional wedding music. Bill Ward sang "Because." A reception which about 85 guests attended was held at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Eldred on Prymid Mesa in Cascade. Bob Karraker took pictures of the ceremony and also at the reception. The couple went to Canyon City for a short honeymoon and are at home in their new home on Prymid Mesa.

Michael Morton, who has been spending several weeks vacationing in Cascade, and in Hutchinson, Kan., left Friday evening for Pomona, Calif., where he will attend Claremont College this winter. Michael is a nephew of Col. Houston Whiteside, whose summer home is on the Prymid Mesa.

The Community is pleased to welcome many newcomers to this area. Among them are: Mr. and Mrs. George Seamon and sons, who have purchased a home on the Prymid Mesa. Mr. Seaman is chapter manager for the National Electrical Contractors Association, whose office is on North Weber Street in Colorado Springs. He has been with this company for 18 years. The family is formerly from Fort Worth, Tex.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Eldred, have purchased a home on Prymid Mesa and have recently moved into it. Mrs. Eldred's father Mr. Samuel Snyer, and her son, Durwood Easdon, are making their home with the Eldreds.

Dr. and Mrs. Willis L. Strachan and daughter Duna have leased the Spanish house of Al Dywer and will make their home here. Dr. Strachan grew up in Colorado Springs. After World War II he went to Menninger's for Psychiatric training and has spent the past four years in Phoenix, Ariz., where he has been practicing. Dr. Strachan, M.D. and Psychiatrist, has an office in the Burns Building in Colorado Springs. The Strachans have another daughter.

Mrs. Walt Miller and son Bruce spent Thursday with Rev. and Mrs. Paul Hutchens.

Sgt. and Mrs. Paul Snyder of Fort Ord, Calif., came Wednesday and are spending several days here visiting Mr. Snyder's sister, Mrs. Raymond Eldred, Mr. Eldred and his father, Samuel Snyder.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Stephen, of Tucson, who are spending their honeymoon at the Garden of the Gods Club, were guests Friday evening of Col. Houston Whiteside on Prymid Mesa.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Qwinn have rented the Wayne Shannon house on 24 HiWay and will move soon, as their former home is being torn down to make way for the new highway, which will soon be under construction.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff O'Neil, of Lake George, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wyatt and Robin.

The Brownies had their weekly meeting at the Firehouse in Cascade Thursday afternoon, after school. The fourth grade girls practiced for their Fly-Up, which will be soon. The six girls are: Sandy Forsythe, Debbie Qwinn, Terry Owens, Kitsy Kohl, Carol Bauch, and Jan Anderson. Shirley Johnson assisted their leader, Mrs. Phyllis Giles. Mary Lou Qwinn and Susan Weseman were the hostesses and served cookies and koolaid. Brownie Troup 110 would like to thank the Ute Pass Rock Club for their donation to the Troup.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fravel, of Kinsley, Kan., are spending a few days in their summer home here this week.

Mrs. Sylvia Mayer, of Hutchinson, is spending her vacation at the Whiteside Summer home. While here she will consult her doctor for injuries she received while visiting here earlier this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ron Connally, formerly from Tulsa, Okla., have rented the Hammond rental apartment. Mr. Connally is in government work, stationed at Fort Carson.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Renz and children, of Fort Collins, Colo., were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Still.

Miss Hilve Whitten and Miss Beverly Stroup of Colorado Springs, were luncheon guests of Rev. and Mrs. Paul Hutchens, Sunday. In the afternoon the party drove to Cripple Creek to view the aspens.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hammond Jr. spent Friday night with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hammond.

Funeral services for Frank Delp, 36 Lake Ave., were held Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the Broadmoor Community Church, the Reverend George W. Ott officiating. Burial will be in the Evergreen Cemetery. The Delp family formerly lived on the Blue Mesa and the sympathy of the community go out to Mrs. Delp and the children. Mr. Delp was seriously injured in a motorcycle accident last Tuesday and died Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Diester of Colorado Springs, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wyatt Saturday evening. The Diesters are moving to Denver to make their home.

Denver Halo Oil Firm Property Is Acquired

NEW YORK (AP) — Powell Oil Co., Houston, Texas, has acquired the Halo Producing Co., Denver, for an undisclosed price.

The Halo properties consist of 159 wells and 6,000 acres in Colorado, Kansas, West Texas and Nebraska. Power Oil Co. is a West Virginia corporation which operates 100 wells in the Volcano Field, which was one of first oil fields discovered in the United States.

Actress Finds Her Roles as Mom and Witch

By JOAN CROSBY

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Elizabeth Mongomery has become a mother and a witch, all within two months.

"Guess which is more exciting?" she bubbled with a new mother's enthusiasm. Elizabeth also have two step-children who "are darling," but she says she and her husband, William Asher, want several more children.

Meanwhile, she has come to the television screens in "Bewitched," the ABC - TV series that was progably the season's most desired network acquisition. In the show, the beguiling Elizabeth plays a normal young married with just one small problem—she is a witch. The character obviously rubbed off a bit, as network and agency men chewed their fingernails through Elizabeth's pregnancy, which delayed advance production.

"Every time I met someone connected with the sponsors, or the network, he would say—at the end of our conversation—'the baby is due by August, isn't it?' And I would assure them that was true. But one day I heard it just once too often, and I said, 'No, the baby is due the 15th of September.' And I walked away, leaving him staggered. It was mean of me, but what the heck."

Elizabeth's husband will be directing several episodes of Bewitched, which delights her.

"He's marvelous to work with. Others think so, too, so I'm not all that prejudiced. Bill directed, I guess, about 150 of the old i love Lucy shows. I had heard his name several times and used to think, 'Boy, he's the one to have on the team when I do a series, which I won't ever.'

"Isn't it lovely to be playing a witch? I imagine there will be no end to the jokes. I know when we were filming the pilot, a light blew every day. Nothing like that had ever happened before. And every time a light blew, the crew would decide that I really was a witch."

She paused and chuckled, "I told Bill I'm waiting for the day when he congratulates the special effects man on a particularly good trick, only to have the man say, 'But I wasn't even there.'"

Van Williams has made a disturbing discovery. He can walk down the streets of major cities in several countries and be recognized as a star of Surf Side 6. Yet his name is not known among the industry's big-shots.

"I have a good friend who has great stature in the movies," handsome, green-eyd Van said. "We went to Las Vegas together and hardly anyone recognized him. They knew me though. Yet he could walk into any movie studio in town and get a part. I can't. Television is a matter of impressing the public. For movies you have to impress Hollywoood."

And so, to impress movie moguls that he is a working actor, Van had returned to television. He is appearing as Walter Brennan's sidekick in The Tycoon, the new ABC-TV comedy series. He also figures he will be getting valuable acting working with Brennan and Jerome Cowan, another regular.

Van was dropped last year by Warner Brothers, where he had been under contract. But a year before he was released he asked to be let out of his contract and they refused.

"I could see the handwriting on the wall, when thier shows started going off television. They kept me on, and cast me in six different shows. But they wouldn't loan me out to other studios.

"I look on my time there as an embryonic period. It did a certain amount of good. Everybody else who was there knock it, but I think you have to look at what you are after in this business. I want to become a good actor, and work my way into feature films. Where else can you go and get paid for getting that experience before the cameras, and a chance to learn what goes on in the technical side?

"The only trouble is, nobody's personality came throught. Warners wanted us like a bunch of fish, so if one of us kicked up our heels, we could be replaced easily."

TANK BACK ON THE TRACK

FORT KNOX, Ky. (AP) — The red-faced lieutenant drove his tank into a telephone pole. But there wasn't much damage.

African Group Objects to U.S. Aid to Congo

By DENNIS NEELD

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — An African delegation leaves for Washington Thursday to ask President Johnson to cut off military supplies to Premier Moiset Tshombe's Congolese government.

The mission was announced Tuesday by Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya. He heads a 10-nation committee set up by the Organization of African Unity to seek peace in the Congo.

"While the Congo is still supplied with materials of destruction," Kenyatta said, "the peace we intend to make in the Congo cannot be achieved."

Joseph Murumbi, Kenya minister of state, will head the delegation. Also on it are ministers from Ghana, Guinea, Nigeria and the United Arab Republic.

Kenyatta said a similar delegation might be sent, if necessary, to other countries.

Red China has been accused of giving counsel and money to various factions in rebellion against Tshombe's government.

The decision to send the delegation was made after the committee heard statements from Congo rebel leaders.

Testifying behind closed door were Laurent Kabilla, dissident chief of the eastern Congo; Bocheley Davidson, first secretary general of the Congo National Liberation Committee; Col. Louis Pakassa, a rebel army leader, and Gabriel Yubu, rebel secretary general for internal liason.

Details of their testimony could not be learned. In the past they have attacked the United States for supplying military equipment to the Congolese national army.

Tshombe, who met with the committee last week, arrived Tuesday in Elizabethville, capital of the Congo's Katanga Province, where he once headed a secessionist regime.

He told a cheering crowd of 40,000: 'The whole country is not on fire," he said, "and I shall guarantee investors the safety of their possessions. I also gurantee the safety of your lives."

"Until now, the organization of countries considered the Congo their playing field — but now for the first time we can say 'shut up.'"

He told the OAU committee last week that the only way to bring peace in the Congo was to force the rebels to lay down their weapons.

There was a County Home Demonstration meeting in the Divide Hall Monday afternoon. It was well attended, even though the weather was rainy.

NEVER LIKE HOME

NEW YORK (UPI)—A hospital is not a home—and should not pretend to be one.

That's the word of a man who designs hospital interiors, Gerald Luss, of Designs for Business, Inc.

Luss says recent attempts to create a homelike atmosphere in hospitals never can disguise the fact that they are hospitals. The people that surround a patient—the doctors, nurses, technicians—the food service, visiting hours and other activities peculiar to hospitals preclude such a possibility.

Instead, Luss says, hospitals should strive for a non-institutional look by means of cheerful, bright and colorful rooms and corridors, done in easy-to-care-for materials.

Step Towards Plasma Taken by Russians

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia said Wednesday its scientists have taken a new step toward solving the problem of controlled thermo-nuclear reaction.

The official news agency Tass said a Soviet laboratory has produced electrically charged air "with a temperature of several million degrees and a density of more than a billion billion electrons per cubic centimeter."

"A plasma (ionized gas) of such temperature and density is the dream of every physicist delving into the problems of controlled thermo-nuclear reactions," Tass said.

"So far, the plasma 'lives' for only one ten-millionth of a second. Soviet physicists believe, however, that this method can help solve the problem of controlled thermonuclear reaction.

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — The operator of a Durham dry cleaning business testified recently in Superior Court that he is "always prepared for burglars."

"What do you mean prepared?" asked Judge W. H. S. Burgwyn. The dry cleaner, W. M. Eakes, testifying at a store-breaking trial offered this explanation:

"I mean I always leave my cash register unlocked so they won't break it apart."

Tax Pressure Will Be Applied Closer to Home

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The emphasis on taxes is likely to change next year. For most taxpayers the pressure will be applied closer to home. And the chances are that one way or another most will pay as much, if not more, in taxes than this year.

Both political parties are promising some more federal tax cuts. In Washington the question will be what taxes and how much.

But at many a state capitol and city hall across the nation the search will be pressed still harder for more kinds of taxes, or heftier rates, or more handouts from the federal government, or more borowing.

Some state and local officials ae hoping the federal authorities will release some forms of taxation to them. This would let the local collectors spread into fields now held by Washington. Others are plugging for more aid to states and communities from the federal tax collection which they think will rise considerably if rates aren't cut further.

Both President Johnson and Treasury Secretary Dillon has said that excise taxes be revised and some lowered or dropped. Dillon says, "We have about 75 categories of such taxes on the books today, and their labyrinthine complexity requires, not the random repeal of few taxes, but a thorough-going revision based on a comprehensive study of them all, which the Treasury already has well under way."

The President says some excise tax cuts, yet to be spelled out, will be proposed to Congress if he is elected.

The Republican candidate, Barry Goldwater, proposes further cuts in individual and corporate income tax rates. As a goal, he suggests a 25 per cent cut for individuals spread over five years.

Both the President and Dillon talk of possible income tax cuts, but without naming figures or giving flat promises.

All of this is based on the belief that federal government spending can be held down while total collections, even at lower rates, will rise because of increasing incomes and profits from growing prosperity.

At most state and local levels, however, the chances of holding down spending are slim indeed. Demands for services for growing populations, and for more services to more demanding citizens, multiply.

If Washington gives up some tax forms, such as excise levies on certain products, the states may be able to increase their own take in sales taxes. One way or another, they will be scrambling even harder to find funds to finance their increased spending.

Losses to American industries through embezzlement and other frauds exceeds $1 billion annually, a speaker recently told the American Bar Association at its annual conference.

Railroad Empire to Link Vast Regions of Nation

By ROGER LANE

NEW YORK (AP) — A mighty new railroad empire nearly four years in the making will link the Missouri Valley to the East Coast next month.

Its formal creation under sponsorship of the Norfolk & Western Railway will mark a giant step toward reorganization of the nation's rail network into perhaps a dozen regional systems.

The greater Norfolk & Western, barring an 11th-hour hitch, will begin taking shape Oct. 16 under a consolidation plan involving five other roads.

On the west, the tracks will link Omaha, Neb., Kansas City, Mo., St. Louis, Mo., Des Mones, Iowa, Chicago and other cities to the bustling Atlantic Coast port of Norfolk, Va., on the far side of the rich Pocahontas coal country.

Hinged on the present NW, a thriving coal-hauling line, the new system is expected to generate annual revenues of around $550 million. This would put it seventh among American railroads, although in it will not place among the top 10 in mileage.

As a moneymaker, it would rank at or near the head of the 100 major railroads. Assets will total $1.9 billion.

Joined with the NW will be the Wabash and Nickel Plate railroads, both major properties, along with the 110-mile Sandusky (Ohio) line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the 171-mile Akron, Canton Youngstown Railroad and the 132-mile Pittsburgh West Virginia Railway.

The track for completing the merger was cleared last week when the Pennsylvania Railroad pledged to divest itself of 31.3 per cent of NW voting stock.

Stuart T. Saunders, Pennsylvania chairman since last Oct. 1 — and prior to that architect of the merger as president of the NW — called the pledge an "act of faith."

The Interstate Commerce Commission had conditioned approval of the NW expansion program on divestiture by the Pennsy of NW and Wabash securities totaling more than $400 million.

Earlier, the Pennsy had refused to give up its holdings pending ICC approval of a proposed merger of the Pennsy and the New York Central Railroad.

Persistent Pennsy refusal, railroad analysts agreed, would have torpedoed the vision nurtured by leading rail executives, of three competitively balanced regional rail systems in the East where several roads have suffered heavy losses in recent years.

The third system started taking shape last year when the Chesapeake Ohio Railway was authorized to control the then-ailing Baltimore Ohio.

Under a plan jointly announced with the NW, 800,000 NW shares held by the Penssy — about one-third of the Pennsy's total holding — will be transferred to the NW in 80,000-share installments over the next 10 years.

The Pennsy in return will receive new NW 4 5-8 per cent debentures convertible after three years into common at $130 a share — but only by holders other than the Pennsy.

The merger plan calls for issuance to Nickel Plate holders of .45 of a share of NW common for each share of Nickel Plate.

Next, the combined NW-Nickel Plate would lease, and eventually acquire, the Wabash. The Sandusky line would come into the system on a straight purchase for $27 million.

In negotiations leading up to the ICC approval, the NW promised that if its merger plan went through it would study possible affiliation with the money-losing Erie-Lackawanna Railroad.

Sheppard Seeks To Quash State Protest Motion

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—Attorneys for Dr. Sam Sheppard today asked the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals to quash the state's motion protesting the release of Sheppard from the Ohio penitentiary.

The motion claimed Ohio penitentiary Warden E. L. Maxwell failed to obtain a certificate of probable cause from U.S. District Court Judge Carl A. Weinman, who ordered Sheppard released after the convicted wife-slayer had spent nearly 10 years in prison.

A certificate of probable cause is obtained in all cases to guarantee a court that an appeal is bona fide and not of a frivolous nature, according to Carl Reuss, chief clerk of the circuit court.

Reuss said it would be up to the court to determine if such a certificate is necessary on an appeal filed by the state.

Sheppard is currently free on bond pending on Oct. 8 hearing on the state's appeal. He was convicted of the July 4, 1954 slaying of his pregnant wife, Marilyn.

American-Style Election Hoopla Hits Britishers

By PHIL NEWSOM

LONDON (UPI) — Britons, whose respect for tradition includes a generally restrained approach to politics, are getting an introduction to political whoop-la, American style.

Labor party leader Harold Wilson gave the country a taste of it at Wembley at the party's national rally kicking off a campaign which will end in gen. al elections Oct. 15.

It could have been the Democrats in Atlantic City or the Republicans in San Francisco.

Spotlights played upon the stage where African dancers performed and Humphrey Lyttelton's band played a blaring number entitled "Thirteen Wasted Years."

In the eye of this political hurricane stood the round and slightly crumpled figure of Wilson who hopes after the elections to take over the prime minister's job from his Conservative opponent Sir Alec Douglas Home.

Remarked London's Sunday Observer . . . an unashamed imitation of an American con-

Wilson's speech it described as "presidential style." But if British newspapers could compare the rally and Wilson's style to U.S. politics, there remain important differences.

In Britain, a candidate "stands" for office. He does not "run."

"I shall not indulge in personalities, nor do I challenge in any way the sincerity of the Socialist leaders."

But then the dig. "But their manifesto is a menu without prices . . ."

British political analysts say it was Winston Churchill's violation of this unwritten rule of fair play which helped cost him the election in 1945.

Churchill had just led his country through its greatest war. But he indulged in personal attacks against Labor leaders Clement Attlee and Ernest Bevin.

How Britons are to react to Wilson's new campaign techniques will have to await the final proof of election day. Probing the new technique, this was the comment of the Financial Times of London:

"Labor has stood for many things in the past but never quite gaiety."

Comparing it again to the American style, the newspaper concluded:

"President Johnson looks his worst when attempting to echo the Kennedy style, and a song called "Hello Harold" could also have a hollow sound."

CAPETOWN — Car parts will come from African firms.

U.S. Cardinals Take Lead in Liberty Debate

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP) — American bishops were expected to take the lead today in the opening debate on the Vatican Ecumenical Council's controversial declaration on religious liberty.

Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston listed himself as a speaker on the question of a liberalized Catholic attitude toward freedom of religion. He has not spoken in debate since the council opened in 1962.

The 230 U.S. bishops voted last week to press for a strong declaration defending religious liberty and to oppose attempts by conservative elements to water down the wording.

The move for religious tolerance was expected to encounter sharp opposition from bishops of predominantly Roman Catholic countries such as Spain and those of Latin America. However, Pope Paul VI said last April that council approval of a declaration on religious liberty could be "legitimately expected."

In essence, the declaration says every human has the right to free exercise of religion according to the dictates of his conscience. It adds that man should be immune from any outside force in his personal relations with God.

The declaration was introduced at the second council session last November, but the session adjourned before full discussion could begin.

Trouble was expected over a section that says man's right to follow the dictates of his religious conscience must sometimes be regulated for the common good, for example, through laws prohibiting polygamy or empowering officials to order blood transfusions for critically ill children.

U.S. bishops were said to fear non-Catholic critics would charge that the words "the common good" were an attempt to justify Catholicism's trying to influence legislation in nations where it predominates.

Some Spanish theologians insist Spain has the right to oppose threats to her culture from "foreign religions" brought in by Protestants. Latin-American theologians have contended the state is justified in protecting illiterate citizens from non-Catholic missionaries.

The council also continued its series of ballots on collegiality — the concept of collective rule of the Church by the bishops with the Pope instead of by the pontiff alone. Voting had been completed Tuesday on 13 of 40 sections in the schema chapter establishing collegiality. In each case the vote was overwhelmingly favorable.

The Michigan Department of Health was the first state health agency to distribute blood plasma to hospitals and physicians for civilian use.

Justice Office Probe May Be 'Defused'

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Judiciary Committee hopes to defuse a politically explosive investigation of the Justice Department and former Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., whose committee ordered the inquiry Tuesday over his opposition, says he intends to try to keep anything from happening until after the November elections.

As chairman of the special subcommittee created to conduct the investigation, Celler will have a lot to say about when it gets under way, but he'll be under heavy pressure to act promptly.

Republicans, who offered the resolution ordering the investigation and backed it almost solidly in committee, would like to see it begun while Kennedy is campaigning for the U.S. Senate from New York.

The Teamsters Union, which has been the chief force behind the investigation move, would like to see action before President James R. Hoffa's conviction for jury-tampering is heard on appeal in December.

After the 20-13 vote that set the investigation in motion, Celler told newsmen: "Nobody asked for this investigation except those involved with the Teamsters Union. If it had not been for their agitation, there would be no investigation."

The Teamsters want the committee to look into charges that the Justice Department violated Hoffa's constitutional rights by its actions during his trial in Chattanooga. They first backed an investigation directed specifically to Hoffa's case.

The reluctance of many members to seem to be coming to the aid of Hoffa in an election year helped Celler bottle up that resolution. As a compromise, Rep. William M. McCulloch, R-Ohio, came up with a resolution ordering an investigation of the Justice Department, but without mentioning Hoffa or anyone else.

COLORADO SPRINGS—FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1964

R. C. Hoiles, a Conservative Publisher, Expounds His Views

By GLADWIN HILL

Special to The New York Times

SANTA ANA, Calif., Sept. 7 — Raymond Cyrus Hoiles, the crusty 85-year-old publisher of The Santa Ana (Calif.) Register and a dozen other Freedom Newspapers, does not believe in taxes. Nor does he believe in compulsory public support of schools, the postal system, fire departments or police forces.

Today, as the Presidential campaign gathers momentum, the Hoiles papers are coming to the fore as a notable source of declarations favoring the candidacy of Senator Barry Goldwater. This is going on, side by side, with an ever - expanding editorial campaign in behalf of free enterprise.

Other Hoiles targets are the Civil Rights Act of 1964, alleged governmental encroachment on individual freedoms, and the New York Stock Exchange, characterized as "socialistic" for utilizing urban-renewal laws in its building expansion plans.

A new crusade begun just recently proposes that cities abolish business-license laws as an unwarranted infringement on the principle of free trade.

Also Circulates Books

There may be individuals with equally unconventional views around the country. But none has the combination of status, wealth and possible public influence of Mr. Hoiles.

His views are carried into some 300,000 homes every day. His hinterland journalistic empire includes papers in California, Colorado, New Mexico, Texas and Ohio. . . . He has also been generous in fostering schools, lectures and publications aligned with his philosophy. He is an enthusiastic circulator of books, pamphlets and magazines that tend to support his opinions, and he is a tireless personal preacher and discussant of his views.

"It doesn't make much difference who is President," he says. "What's important is the attitude of the American people."

He belongs to no organizations, he says, "except the Elks and the country club." He thinks of himself as a newspaper publisher first and a political philosopher second.

"What I want to do mainly," he says, "is get people to think."

The impact of his efforts is hard to measure. However, his Santa Ana paper undoubtedly has been a factor in the intense conservative spirit to be found in Orange County, which adjoins Los Angeles. His constant battering at labor unionism has been a major source of open-shop sentiment.

Mr. Hoiles started life as an Ohio farm boy. He has been sometimes depicted as a crabbed, bitter old man with an irrational detestation of public schools, libraries and other conventional features of contemporary society.

"He's against everything!" exclaimed one exasperated public official in a Texas city where a Hoiles paper is published.

But a visit to the modernistic building that houses The Register discloses a quite different person. Mr. Hoiles acknowledges that he is sometimes irascible. But he gives the appearance of a mild, almost shy man, amiable in his contempt of many present-day shibboleths, eager to "reason" about his views and even, on occasion, to alter them.

Calls Himself 'Voluntaryist'

He has suffered from diabetes for many years and twice was stricken by heart attacks. Yet he has the appearance and vigor of a man in his 60's. As he talks — dropping into occasional ruralisms such as "Floridy" and "Canady" — his eyes crinkle with humor, his teeth flash in half-grins, and he ends every other sentence with a half-quizzical "huh?" or "hah!" His favorite expletive, to underscore things he considers particularly preposterous, is "Judas priest."

"I'm a voluntaryist," he says when asked to classify his political philosophy. "I'm for keeping government out of as many things as possible. Government should exist only to try to protect the rights of every individual — not to redistribute the property, manipulate the economy or establish a pattern of society. Persons, groups and governments ought not to threaten to initiate force or use it to obtain their ends."

So far as he is concerned, that rules out taxes — and most of the services financed by taxes, from the Armed Forces to public fire departments.

It also rules out — in his view — labor unions, which he believes deprive members of the option of working, and church organizations, which he considers seek to enforce social norms.

It also puts under a cloud most colleges, as a part of the "government school" system; and even the press generally, which he considers largely a slavish apologist for the evils of the existing establishment.

Cites Telephone Service

Mr. Hoiles would have present tax-financed services maintained by voluntary groups of citizens, or by private enterprise.

"It's been shown time and time again that the postal service would be operated better and cheaper in private hands," he says. "The telephone service is run that way, isn't it, — hah! Fire departments logically should be a function of insurance companies — huh?

"If some people don't want to support a police force, they should not be forced to do so; nor should they receive its services."

He acknowledges this might be difficult. But he suggests that noncontributors quickly would be shamed into voluntary support and "pay up their back dues, or they'd be ostracized in the community."

Mr. Hoiles has been accused of racial prejudice, but he contends that his philosophy transcends and would resolve any racial conflict.

"Civil rights is a misnomer," he says. "If they're going to have government schools, they ought to let everybody in. But when you own property, the government shouldn't tell you who to sell or rent it to, or who you can serve in your place of business."

Crux of His Beliefs

The Hoiles philosophy stems from a belief in a "universal single standard of right," which he enunciates periodically in a two-column-panel in the Freedom Newspapers. The crux of this concept is that what is right or wrong in the case of a single person is equally right or wrong whether it be multiplied by two persons or by two million. In support he cites Thomas Jefferson ("I know of but one code of morality, whether it be for men or nations"). And Immanuel Kant ("I ask myself only: Can I will that my maxim become a universal law?").

If it is wrong for one person to take from another, Mr. Hoiles submits, it is equally wrong for government, just because it represents many people, to do the same thing.

"Two men out of a hundred have no right to force the 98 to support a school or a church," he says. "Neither do the 98 have the moral right to force the remaining two men to support a school or a church."

Mr. Hoiles has studied a variety of political, economic, social philosophy from Plato and the Bible to such contemporaries as Dr. Albert Schweitzer and Ayn Rand.

He went to Mt. Union Methodist College in his native Alliance, Ohio. But, he says, "I spent 60 years unlearning what I was taught there — and the job isn't done yet!"

The thinker toward whom he professes the strongest leaning —and whose major writings he has reprinted — is Frederic Bastiat, a mid-nineteenth century French advocate of free trade.

On the current scene, Mr. Hoiles finds only a handful of "other true voluntaryists." He mentions Joseph Galambos, who runs an organization in Los Angeles called the California Free Enterprise Institute; V. Orval Watts, economics director at Northwood Institute, a small college at Midland, Mich.; and Dr. F. A. Harper, of the Institute for Humane Studies at Stanford, Calif.

Others he admires are Leonard E. Read, president of the Foundation for Economic Education at Irvington-on-Hudson, N.Y., and Dr. Ludwig von Mises, visiting professor of economics at New York University.

H. L. Hunt, the wealthy Texas archconservative, has an ideological kinship with Mr. Hoiles, but they are not close friends. "He's written letters to my Colorado Springs paper," the publisher comments, "and he's a good citizen, in my notion."

Of his political sympathies, Mr. Hoiles says:

"I'm a registered Republican. But if you call Senator (Thomas H.) Kuchel a Republican, or Earl Warren, I wouldn't say I was a Republican. If Senator Harry Byrd and Strom Thurmond are Democrats, I'm more of a Democrat. They're lonely, like I am in the Republican party."

Another article of Mr. Hoiles's faith is a conviction that newspapers should be the citizen's "best friend" in informing him of facts.

His papers are bright and he insists on keeping news presentation objective. But the papers go all out in promoting the Hoiles philosophy in editorials, in lengthy reprints of sentiments of others, and in letters-to-the-editor departments.

Family Corporation Set Up

Freedom Newspapers, Inc., is a Hoiles family corporation, the family now including three children, 10 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Besides The Register, the corporation owns or controls The Anaheim Bulletin; The Orange Daily News; The Marysville (Calif.) Appeal-Democrat; The Colorado Springs Gazette-Telegraph; The Clovis (N.M.) News-Journal; The Odessa American, The Brownsville Herald, The Harlingen Morning Star, The McAllen Evening Monitor and The Pampa Daily News, all in Texas; The Bucyrus Telegraph-Forum and The Lima Daily News in Ohio; two Southern California triweeklies, The La Habra Star and The Brea Progress, and the weekly Anaheim Gazette.

Chinese, Soviet Youth Delegates Get Into Fight

MOSCOW (UPI) — They came officially to denounce the West. But Chinese and Soviet delegates to a Kremlin-sponworld youth forum Wednesday called eath other names.

Chu told the delegates he had great difficulty in getting permission to speak from the Russian-led conference officials. He accused the Soviets of writing conference resolutions without letting the Chinese have their say.

He claimed Peking's men have been ignored, refused permission to speak and had their words mistranslated when they spoke.

"We have been refused the right to express our opinions without any possible justification. This completely contradicts democratic procedure," Chu said.

Despite Chinese objections, they put the Cyprus resolution to a voice vote. Chu demanded a roll call and was overruled. The resolution carried.

Admiral Expects New Tonkin Gulf Clashes

TOKYO (UPI) — Vice Adm. Roy L. Johnson, commander of the U.S. Seventh Fleet, fully expects further clashes with Communist forces in Far Eastern waters, according to an interview published Wednesday in the Pacific Stars & Stripes.

Johnson gave the interview to the U. S. Armed Forces newspaper before the latest Gulf of Tonkin incident last Friday.

"Incidents are bound to occur," he was quoted as saying. "The situation has been explosive and could well continue to be until Mr. Khrushchev and the Reds denounce their overall objectives.

"...Peace and sweetness and light isn't the current pattern," Johnson added. "The U.S. Seventh Fleet is employing the forward strategy to cut the reaction time for uny response the administration orders."
